BERSERK WORLD WAR II VETERAN LEAVES 4 DEAD

Sheriff Says Man Was Near-Unclad When Parents, Two Children Killed

FEARED SCHEDULED TRIP TO MENTAL INSTITUTION

Akron, Dec. 30—(AP)—Fearing a return to a hospital, a World War II veteran went berserk and killed his parents and his sister's two tiny children today.

The 25-year-old veteran, Irvin Snodgrass, told Sheriff Robert L. Smith:

"I did it to save them."

The sheriff said that, except for an undershirt, Snodgras was anked when he beat his parents, apparently with a hammer, and set a house fire which smothered the youngsters.

He was inducted into the army in 1944. After three months at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Idn., he was taken to a psychopathic ward at Fort McClelland, Ala., and then released from service.

His father took him to Hawthornden state hospital in 1945 but later asked and obtained his release.

Today the Goodrich Tire & Rubber Co. employe was scheduled to go to Crile veterans administration hospital near Cleveland for another examination.

He told the sheriff that, dreading the examination, he had bought a bus ticket to Denver, Colo., and had intended to sneak off early this mornig.

"I guess I should have gone yesterday," the sheriff quoted him.

Firemen found his father, James Snodgrass, lying across the bed on the second floor of the house at Sawyerwood, just east of Akron.

The grandmother was on the floor downstairs, near the beds of Clyde Morrow, 2, and his sister, Georgianna, 1. The grandparents were both 49 years old.

The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morrow, were living at a rooming house at (1436 Grace

FRANCE MAY ADD THREE DIVISIONS

Plans To Boost From Seven To 10 The Number On Continental Duty

Paris, Dec. 30.—(AP)—France plans to increase her divisions on continental duty from seven to 10 as her contribution to the rearming of west Europe in 1951, the national defense ministry said today.

Premier Rene Pleven faces a vote of confidence in a night session of the national assembly early Sunday (sometime after 6 p.m. Eastern Standard Time Saturday) on proposed tax boosts to support the rearmament program.

Pleven asked for the vote on an amendment which, in effect, would give the government power to raise taxes by decree if economies and proposed new levies, mostly on gasoline and industrial production, do not produce the necessary revenues.

The nation's overall military budget—approved by the national assembly Friday 416 to 180—is 740,000,000,000 francs, ($2,100,000,000).

About half this sum is for rearmament to meet the threat of aggression from the east. The rest is to cover the year's expenses of the army, air and naval force of 656,136 men and pay for the war against Communist-led Nationalist Rebels in Indo-China.

France, which once boasted Europe's mightiest military force, now has in Europe five more or less fully armed divisions on duty in France, Germany and Austria—three of them infantry and two armored divisions. She also has two understrength divisions—one of

M'Arthur Hints To Japs They May Have To Rearm

Says If 'International Lawlessness' Continues It Will Be Their Duty To 'Mount Force To Repel Force'

By Tom Bradhaw

Tokyo, Sunday, Dec. 31.—(AP)—General MacArthur today told the Japanese people that if the danger of "international lawlessness" continues, it will become Japan's duty to join the free nations and "mount force to repel force."

In his fifth annual New Year's message to the people of this occupied country, the supreme commander, allied powers, praised Japan's renunciation of war as "one of the highest ideals the modern world has known.'

However, he bluntly declared that " . . . This ideal must give way to the overwhelming law of self-preservation" if communism continues to threaten world peace.

MacArthur did not use the word communism itself, but left no doubt he was referring to the Red armies marching in Asia and threatening the peace of Europe.

It was the strongest public suggestion MacArthur has yet made on the subject of Japanese rearmament.

He pledged that Japan's security would be the "deep concern" of all free nations of the Pacific area, if it should be endangered.

"I sincerely trust," MacArthur said, "that this year will bring to new Japan the blessings of complete political freedom through a treaty erasing the remaining scars of war."

Once the treaty is made, he expressed the conviction that Japan "may be counted upon to exercise a profound influence upon the course of destiny in Asia."

The occupation commander lauded Japan's social and political progress in the five years and four months since the end of World War II. He said that Japan's record "proved its right to equal partnership in the family of free nations of the earth."

The Japanese constitution, renouncing war as an instrument of national policy, was adopted May 3, 1947. It was drafted under allied guidance. Japan has no armed forces. A reserve police

USE OF COPPER IS RESTRICTED

In Sweeping Order Government Cuts Use Of Scarce Metal In 300 Items

Washington, Dec. 30 —(AP)— The government, in a sweeping order biting into the civilian economy, today banned or sharply restricted the use of copper in more than 300 products.

After March 1 the scarce metal cannot be used in new manufacture of items ranging from pots and pans, building hardware, furniture and electrical appliances to jewelry, toys and paper clips.

Brass, which is made in part of copper, also is restricted.

The National Production Authority, which issued the order, said however that copper or brass may be used in making items on the banned list where the materials are used for a functional purpose, as in working parts.

This would allow continued use of small quantities of copper, or brass, as electrical conductors or in bearings, where no practical cubstitute is avilable.

The order is the first in the present mobilization spelling out essential and non-essential uses.

'Happy New Year' Lacks Its Usual Joyous Ring In U. S.

(By Associated Press)

Americans say farewell today to strife-ridden 1950 but the shouts of "Happy New Year" lack the usual joyous ring.

Traditional revelry will be offset by prayer and by sober thoughts of countrymen in Korea facing attacking Chinese Communists.

There will be reflection, too, at midnight on the ending of the first half of the 20th century which brought two world wars and a depression.

Even before the old year faded out, it was obvious more strife lay ahead in 1951, perhaps on a greater scale.

And while there appeared little immediate reason for cheer, people still said "Happy New Year" because it was the custom.

A possible keynote was sounded by Gene Leone who is closing his restaurant and bar in mid-Manhattan for tonight. He said:

"This is a time for serious resolutions, not for champagne dreams. I would rather think of my friends joining in quiet prayer for the world's future than in noisy celebrations."

Hundreds of Protestant churches under the leadership of the National Council of Churches of Christ have joined in making today a

ACHESON FLATLY ACCUSES SOVIET OF WARLIKE ACTS

Calls On Nation To Close Ranks, Create Strength To Repel Aggression

SECRETARY STATE TAKES STOCK OF 1950 TURMOIL

By John M. Hightower

Washington, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson, flatly accusing Russia's leaders of "warlike acts" in 1950, called on the nation tonight to close ranks in the new year and redouble its efforts to "create the strength necessary to repel aggression."

He expressed confidence that the U. S. and its allies would in fact achieve such strength and to critics of the administration at home he declared that present foreign policy is sound and will be continued. The U. S. must stand by its friends abroad, he said, because to do otherwise would mean "appeasement on a gigantic scale" and would make Russia a gift of western Europe, the Middle East and Asia.

In a statement taking stock of the year now ending and assessing the outlook for 1951, Acheson rejected any "appeasement" of Communist aggression.

He said the Red onslaught in Korea meant that the leaders of the Soviet Union for the first time since World War II had encouraged the open use of force to gain their ends.

"The politburo's sanctimonious profession of its desire for peace," he added scathingly, "is shown to

MRS. L. H. HOOD RITES ARE SET

Funeral Arranged For Widow Of State Senator; Was Hood Bill Author

Mrs. Lurah Hughley Hood, 78, widow of Dr. T. L. Hood, of West Monroe, who served as state senator from the Ouachita-Jackson parish district for 16 years, died at St. Francis Sanitarium Saturday morning after an illness of four weeks.

Mrs. Hood was born in Plano, Tex. but had spent most of her life in West Monroe, where she became the mother of a large family whose members are well known here and elsewhere. She was one of the staunchest members of the West Monroe First Methodist Church, of which she was the oldest living member. After her children became grown, the church was her chief interest in life and she was ever ready to carry more than her share of religious activities.

Dr Hood served as state senator in the 1920's and 30's and at one time was one of the largest property owners in Ouachita parish. He was author of the Hood bill, the state's prohibition statute.

Mrs. Hood is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Ruth Poimboeuf, Miss Maible Hood and Mrs. Clyde Mitchell, all of West Monroe, Mrs. J. W. Hightower, Shreveport, and Mrs. R. A. Smith, Catonsville, Md.; two sons, Amos W. Hood and T. L. Hood, Jr., West Monroe; five grandchildren. Jack Poimboeuf, West Monroe, Mrs. Ruth Bennett, El Dorado, Ark., and Amy and

ROY TO SUCCEED GOLDMAN GRANT

Huey Long's Former State Police Chief Appointed Public Safety Director

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Col. E. P. Roy, the late Huey P. Long's state police chief when Long was governor, is Louisiana's new director of public safety.

His appointment was announced tonight by Gov. Earl Long, brother of the late U. S. Senator.

Colonel Roy, 58, a Baton Rouge florist for the last 10 years, will succeed Goldman Grant, who will resign tomorrow to become a beer wholesaler.

Grant, whose family has included peace officers for three generations in the Monroe area, drove for Governor Long in his political campaigns of 1939-40 and 1947-48.

A slim-figured man with piercing blue eyes and a barrel of energy, Colonel Roy fits the picture of a retired military man.

He was a National Guard lieutenant colonel when he attended the command and general staff school at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

One of his instructors then was Troy Middleton, a major then, later a lieutenant general and named Thursday as the new president of Louisiana State University.

"I hope my appointment as public safety director will be as popular as General Middleton's selection as L. S. U. president," Colonel Roy soid.

He added that he would serve in the new state post "only temporarily," and that he would not give up his business as a florist.

A native of Opelousas, Colonel Roy was assistant state adjutant general at New Orleans when Huey Long named him chief of the old enforcement division of the Louisiana highway commission in 1931.

The division was revised to become the state highway patrol in 1932, and four years later it ex-

REGISTRATION OF ALIENS REQUIRED

4,000,000 Will Begin To Register Under New Security Act

Washington, Dec. 30. —(AP)— An estimated 4,000,000 aliens living in the United States will begin registering Jan. 1.

This registration is called for under the internal security act of 1950. It will be an annual affair.

Aliens have ten days in which to report their addresses to the commissioner of immigration and naturalization. The law requires reports from all aliens living in this country on Jan. 1 except (a) aliens temporarily admitted to the United States who have not overstayed their authorized period of admission; (b) students whose period of admission has not yet expired and who have violated none of the conditions of their admission.

It is the responsibility of the parent or legal guardian to submit the address report for any alien under 14 years old

Approximately 75,000 notices explaining the registration requirements have been distributed for posting in post offices and immigration and naturalization offices throughout the country.

A form for reporting may be obtained at any post office. It is known as form 1-53. The information required includes the alien's address and registration number under the alien registration act of 1940. Also required is the alien's country of birth and country of citizenship.

After filling out the form, the alien should return it to a postal clerk, not mail it to Washington. The post office will forward it.

The estimate that 4,000,000 persons must register comes from Argyle Mackey, commissioner of immigration and naturalization.

Mackey, testifying recently before a house appropriations subcommittee, said the first objective is to make sure that every alien required to comply with the law has actually done so. The initial step will be to match the estimated 4,000,000 reports against the records of the immigration and naturalization service.

WU RETURNS TO CHINA CAPITAL

Report China's 'Reasonable Demands' Voted Down By American Influence

London, Dec. 30 —(AP)— Gen. Wu Hsiu-chuan said in Peiping on his return from Lake Success today that Communist China,s "reasonable demands" before the United Nations Security Council were voted down "through the manipulation of America."

Wu, China,s special delegate to the Security Council to back up Communist charges of American aggression in Formosa, was greeted by more than 200 government officials when his plane arrived, Peiping radio said.

In a speech of welcome, Deputy Premier Kuo Mo Jo predicted: "The Korean people will certainly win total victory."

"Our countrymen in Taiwan (Formosa) will surely be thoroughly liberated," he added. "The ever growing camp of peace is sure to overwhelm the aggressive camp. The American imperialists have nearly completed their work of digging their won graves.

Wu, he said, "fought shoulder to shoulder with the Soviet delegates in Lake Success and dealt a shattering blow to the diplomatic front of the United States and her satellite countries."

The people of the world, he went on, "have clearly seen that the United States is an aggressor state which should be punished and which is being punished. The just action of the chinese people has won the unanimous and enthusiastic support of the people of the whole world."

During his stay in the United States, Wu accused the United States of aggression against China, Korea, Vietnam, the Philippines,

Layton Execution Will Be Delayed

Oak Grove, La., Dec. 30.—(Special)—Robert Layton, Oak Grove farmer sentenced to die next Friday in connection with the death of Jim Ward, was saved temporarily from the electric chair today when Judge C. J. Ellis allowed an appeal to the State Supreme Court for a new trial.

Layton was sentenced to death for the slaying of Ward, a neighbor. Ward was killed by a shotgun blast.

Defense attorneys J. Vernon Sims and Warren Hunt appealed to the United States Supreme Court on a writ of certiorari, several months ago. The high tribunal refused to review the case.

Today, Sims and Hunt filed the appeal after Judge Ellis rejected an application for a lunacy commission and a motion for a new trial.

Layton, convicted last June, has been held in the East Carroll Parish and Ouachita Parish jails since that time. Ward was killed in February, 1949.

Fortune Tellers Look On New Year With Optimism

Baltimore, Dec. 30. — (AP) — The fortune tellers and spiritualists in Baltimore are looking at the New Year with a lot of optimism.

For instance they foresee such things as:

Safety and prosperity for the United States for at least the first 90 days of 1951. Predictions beyond that "cost a little more." There will be no bombing of the United States.

Current hostilities will end June 15.

John Ahlers, reporter for the Evening Sun, got all this good information on a tour of the town's salons de seers.

On East Baltimore street he leared that he would be "safe and have great prosperity for 90 days."

What about the country's future?

"That will cost a little more money."

For two dollars more Ahlers found out the country will be safe and prosperous, too.

A satin-gowned spiritualist vouchsafed there will be no bombings. As for when will the war end:

"Don't rush the spirit."

Finally the spirit got unrushed.

"Watch June 15. Watch June 15. You hear me? War will be declared June 15."

Thought you said the war would be over June 15.

"Yes, Darling, declared over. Watch June 15."

And there was the oracle on North Gay street who feared a prediction of war in Europe next year would be too much for her cards. But—

"I have a friend, though, who goes into trances and will be able to tell you all about Europe when he gets back to town."

ENEMY AIRPOWER STEADILY GROWS

U.S. Planes Damage Two Red Jets In Biggest Air Clash Of War

ALL-OUT DRIVE AGAINST SEOUL STILL EXPECTED

By Robert Eunson

Tokyo, Sunday, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Red forces deepened their dent in the Allied line in Eastern Korea Saturday and brought artillery and some armor into attack position on the western front for an expected all-out smash at Seoul in the first days of the new year.

Forty Russian-made jet planes of the growing Communist force clashed with 15 speedy U. S. Sabre jets over northwest Korea in the war's biggest air battle Saturday.

Two Red jets were damaged. All U. S. planes returned safely to base.

U. S. fifth air force medium bombers spotted Chinese Communist tanks, half-tracks and artillery moving across the 38th parallel into attack position in the Kaesong area, northwest of Seoul.

The American airmen reported they disabled 20 large field guns, knocked out one half-track and damaged nine, and blew up one tank.

Kaesong, two miles south of parallel 38, the old arbitrary bounday of Red North and Republican South Korea, is ten miles

ENLISTMENTS UP BY 300 PER CENT

Local Recruiting Stations Report Many Joining Ahead Of Draft

The national mobilization oruer, the increase in the draft call by the armed forces and the completion of the Christmas holiday festivities were cited here Saturday as probable causes of the more than 300 per cent increase in enlistments in the army and air force for December, as compared to last month.

Recruiting officers at the Monroe enlistment headquarters announced that approximately 35 young men had applied and been accepted for enlistment in the air and ground forces, compared to a total of only eight for the month of November.

"November, however," said a recruiting representative," "was a bad month for enlistments. The national emergency had not been declared, and most of the draft-eligible boys wanted to spend the Christmas holidays at home. Now that Christmas is over, though, we are getting a big turnout. The average age of the new enlistees is 19, and many of them have had college training."

He also said the larger portion of the volunteers asked for duty in the air force,

DOROTHY DIX

Young Man's Problem

How Can He Meet Right Girl In Strange City?

DEAR MISS DIX: The girl I would like to marry must be physically attractive. She must have a charming personality. She must be intelligent. She must have common sense. She must have a sense of humor and be fun-loving. She must be domestic. But where am I going to meet such a girl? That's the rub.

Probably it is true that this type of girl is at home most of the time, but how can I find that home, or how gain admittance if I did? Parties and dances do little good to the girls who are not asked, and the girl who is asked gives her escort the right to her company and the obligation of not prowling around for new acquaintances.

DOROTHY DIX

Our social codes, in so far as they relate to introductions and acquaintances, were designed for simple and small communities where every one grew up knowing every one else. But today, if we live in cities, there is no community life and the family across the street are as much strangers as if they lived in another land. This makes it very difficult for young people of the opposite sex to meet under suitable conditions.

GEORGE

ANSWER: This exceedingly interesting letter presents a problem with which both the church and the social agencies have grappled with but poor success. For the cities are filled with fine young people who have come from communities in which they knew everybody. They are dying of lonesomeness and the desire to meet other girls and boys of their own kind and to have some of the clean fun to which they have been accustomed. Nobody seems able to devise a way in which this can be properly done. And so the youngsters who might be friends, who might be the ideal that each seeks, pass eath other by like ships in the night without ever being able to give a hail.

NO SET ANSWER

But this does not answer my correspondent's question of how, in a world full of girls, he is to find the particular one that he desires and who has the qualifications that he wants in a wife and, alas, neither I nor any one else can tell him down what road to ride on his search, or on what doors to knock.

Certainly there are plenty of such girls as he desires for a wife—good-looking, charming, domestic girls who would be real helpmeets to any man, girls who are eager to marry but who have as little chance of finding him as he has of finding them. They are waiting while he passes by on the other side of the street.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a friend who is a good woman, but she has a son she is ruining and who will break her heart later on unless she can be stopped from treating him as she does She has worshipped him so that he thinks he is the most important person in the world. She has spoiled him until he is so selfish that he thinks every wish must be granted immediately. She manages all of his affairs, follows him on the telephone so she knows his whereabouts every minute, acts as his valet when he dresses, waits up and tucks him in bed. The boy is good-looking, intelligent, and has an especially nice personality. He's not physically fit for the service, he can't keep a job, and now that he is facing the world it is rocking under him and he is going to pieces. Is there any way that you can suggest to make his mother realize that she is ruining him?

A FRIEND

ANSWER: You cannot convince a possessive mother of the fact that she is possessive, or make her realize that by keeping her child tied to her apron string she is doing him the worst possible harm that she can do to him. Her alibi, in the first place, is that she isn't possessive and, in the second place, that she is doing it for the child's good.

If anyone told her that by keeping her children in a state of perpetual babyhood she was doing a worse thing than if she bound their feet so they couldn't walk, or did something to their brains that turned them into morons, or put some pressure on their bodies that would stunt their growths so they would be dwarfs, she would be horrified. But when a mother deliberately unfits her children for life by making them dependent upon her, by never letting them use their own judgments, by never forcing any responsibility on them, she is committing a crime that is far worse than any physical handicap she could put upon them.

DEAR MISS DIX: When a boy and girl marry should they destroy all letters, pictures and souvenirs from former sweethearts?

MARIE

ANSWER: Certainly when people marry they should destroy all letters, pictures and souvenirs of former sweethearts, and they should quit talking about their former loves.

BUSINESS PLANS

BUSINESS PLANS 1951 EXPANSION

Program Might Be Achieved If Materials Can Be Obtained

Washington, Dec. 30—(AP)—American business plans a record-breaking $21,900,000,000 expansion program in 1951—if it can get the materials.

This was reported today in a joint survey released by the securities and exchange commission and the commerce department.

The government agencies said next year's planned outlay is about 21 per cent more than $18,130,000,000 corporations expected to spend in '50. It was some 14 percent higher than the $19,230,000,000 expended for new facilities in 1948, the previous peak before 1950.

There was no estimate of the amount of increased production which could be expected if the entire program is completed.

"In view of the tight materials and manpower situation which will result from increasing defense expenditures," the study noted, "there is some question whether this expansion will be fully realized in 1951."

Manufacturing companies — including makers of defense-vital metals and chemicals — plan the largest industrial growths in 1951. The government report said the anticipated outlay of all manufacturing concerns would be $10,570,000,000—nearly 33 per cent more than the 7,950,000,000 spent in 1950.

Railroads and mining companies told sec-commerce that their expansion plans call for about a 19 per cent hike next year over 1950. Between them, they expect to improve facilities $2,180,000,000 worth.

The electrical and gas utility industry, which has spent nearly $13,000,000,000 on new facilities since World War II, said it has earmarked $344,00,000 additional for next year. This represents a seven per cent boost from '50.

Commercial industries — such things as stores, garages, etc.—and transportation other than railroads said they expect to spend $5,690,000,000 on expansion.

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 30.—(AP)—The FBI today arrested two es state penitentiary at Montgomery on charges of unlawful flight to avoid confinement.

Each is being held in lieu of a $10,000 bond.

They are Howard Hayden Craig, 41, who was serving life sentence for murder, and William Lee Blanks, 45, under a 10 year sentence for grand larceny and robbery. They escaped November 3.

FBI agents followed the escapees' car from a tourist court where they spent the night and made the arrest about 10:30 a.m., today. Four revolvers were found in the car. Craig and Blanks were not armed when arrested.

U.S. Commissioner Robert F. Milam placed the two under temporary bond at a preliminary hearing today. A final hearing will be held January 5.

The two were charged by federal authorities in Chattanooga, Tenn., with impersonating government officers in order to enter a private home for robbery.

An FBI agent testified at the preliminary hearing that Craig and Blanks took $5,000 and four revolvers from the Chattanooga home after gaining admittance by posing as government agents. He said that he understood they are also under a state charge in Tennessee for armed robbery of a supermarket which netted about $6,700.

Gravely Injured Youth Rescued

McMinnville, Tenn. Dec. 30—(AP)—Rescuers crawling through narrow crevices on hands and knees dragged a gravely injured youth from the depths of a rugged mountain cave near here today after a ten-hour struggle.

They pulled Edward Donald Ball, Jr., 17, of Nashville, from an underground chasm 40 feet deep and carried him more than five miles to the mouth of the cavern.

The rescue was completed about ours after the youth fell from while he and three com were exploring the cav ch of an underground river. injured boy, elder son the Tennessee chief of bureau for the Associated Press, was taken to Vanderbilt Hospital at Nashville by ambulance. Dr. W. F. Meacham said he was unconscious and in serious condition with a head injury. Hospital attendants added that he has a possible skull fracture and was suffering from results of his long exposure in the chilly cavern.

Advances in electronics may soon produce a machine U. S. hatcherymen long have dreamed or owning—a device to tell whether a freshly-laid egg is fertile.

Plans Mapped For Heavy Transportation Next Year

Defense Mobilization Sets Traffic Volume In Upward Curve

By T. E. Applegate

New York —(AP) —Transportation systems of the nation are speeding preparations for heavy 1951 traffic as the rearmament program picks up momentum.

The start of defense mobilization in mid-1950 set traffic volume on an upward curve. Even greater demands on transport facilities lie ahead.

Railroads, after a strife-torn year that included four months of operation under government seizure, concluded a three-year peace pact with four operating unions in late December. They looked ahead to meeting emergency needs as they did in World War II when they hauled more than 90 per cent of military freight.

There were some of the railroads' preparedness moves:

They ordered half a billion dollars worth of new freight cars and put some repair workers on longer hours to get back into service thousands of cars awaiting repair. Orders for an installation of new locomotives were the highest in 27 years.

They attained new records of efficiency of freight train operation. Transportation output per freight train hour climbed above 20,000 ton-miles, an all-time high. (A ton-mile is the movement of one ton of freight a distance of one mile.

In other transport fields:

The American trucking associations said truck movement of inter-city tonnage in 1950 was running about 25 per cent ahead of 1949, and that if manufacturers could supply the needs there would be more than 9,000,000 trucks on the roads by the end of 1951.

Airlines exceeded all previous highs in 1950 for passenger travel and cargo carrying, and defense expansion indicated greater activity in 1951.

The American Transit Association, recalling how civilian auto use restrictions in World War II threw 9 billion extra passengers annually onto transit lines, said if this happens again the systems will need 15,000 new buses, trolley coaches, electric trolleys and rapid transit vehicles to handle the load. Higher fares will be needed, it added.

There was a trend towards higher charges for most transportation, to meet increased operating expenses.

Eastern railroads filed a petition mission in December for a 4 per cent boost in freight rates. Air coach fares were increased in November. Some trucking rates also advanced.

Labor trouble dogged the railroads throughout the year. they lost business during coal mine shut downs in February and March. Firemen and enginemen on four major roads struck in May in a vain try to force employment of a second fireman on diesel-electric locomotives.

President Truman ordered government seizure of the railroads in August to avert a strike of 300,000 trainmen and conducts demanding 48 hours' pay for 40 hours work for those in the yards and a pay increase for those in train service.

Despite government operation, yardmen at key centers stopped work in December, halting military shipments and Christmas mail and freight. They returned to work a few days before the three-year agreement was announced.

Unsettled wage demands, tax uncertainties and vary application of a government award of $150,000,000 additional pay for carrying mail during the past four years prevented accurate figures on the rails' financial situation as 1950 drew to a close.

Statisticians of the Association of American Railroads came up with estimates that net income for the year ended Oct. 31 was $711,881,000, and compared this with $438,157,662 for the 1949 calendar year.

Even before the traffic stimulus of defense work, the railroads' operating picture had brightened.

Accelerated work on maintenance of way, further big increases in Diesel motive power and yard and line improvements helped keep operating expenses down, while greater emphasis on fast freight services aided in blocking some inroads made on rail traffic by competing forms of transport.

Operating revenues, over the periods compared by the A. A. R., increased 6 per cent while operating expenses were held almost even.

Revenue ton - mils of freight service showed on 8 per cent gain at 568,471,000,000, but rvenue passenger miles declined 9.6 per cent, to around 32 billion.

Aided by improved profits and faced with heavier shipping requirements of the defense program, the railroads in late July decided to build their freight car fleet to a total of 1,850,000 cars.

Orders poured in on car builders and railroad shops whose new car business had been in the doldrums since order backlogs dropped to 14,146 units on Dec. 1, 1949. By the same date in 1950 the backlogs had mounted to 126,870, and allocations were made to assure enough steel, beginning in January, for output of 10,000 cars a month.

New types of freight equipment made their appearance during the year. They included the so-called "damage-free" box car, a molded plywood car that can double as box or refrigerator car, and a gasoline-powered mechanical unit to replace the use of ice in refrigerator cars.

Radio systems, providing communications between freight engineers and conductors, between trains, and between trains and way stations, were widely extended. The Erie, Missouri Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio were active in such moves.

The Pennsylvania installed an electronic device called "intelex," that almost complete mechanizes the procedure for making reservations on some of its trains. It allows the ticket clerk to handle three to five customers in the time formerly devoted to each one.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. It's very risky, according to a pamphlet, "Petting—Wise or Otherwise," sold at cost (25 cents) by the New York Branch of the International Y. M. C. A. I wish every boy and girl could read it. The pamphlet claims that if one of the married partners is understanding and has been trained in sex problems, wrong attitudes in the other may be overcome. Otherwise, it is almost like marrying a feeble-minded person. Hosts of married couples are morons about sex.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. No. It is folly. Addressing students at the University of Oklahoma, Dean Laurance H. Snyder said, (paraphrased) "I can only see out of one eye and cannot use binoculars, but I have a good ear. I can hear birds sing and have learned to tell nearly every bird in America by hearing only one chirp. Had I had good eyes I may never have developed this ability. Find your best talents and make the best use of them. Wise advice from a wise head!

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No, decreasing! Life insurance statisticians in this country state that among industrial policy holders "the homicide rate is now less than half of what it was twenty years ago". They think that slum clearances, increased education and better treatment of juvenile delinquency are probably among the causes of the improvement. If not, we would lose hope.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

Learn Going Out Convention

By Oswald Jacoby
(Written for NEA Service)

It always happens to me," groaned Hard Luck Joe. "No matter how good a player my partner is he waits until he cuts me and then plays like a moron."

Joe's partner was an expert canasta player. Also, he had known Joe for so long that he didn't even bother to explain that Joe had brought disaster upon his own shoulders.

Joe and partner had started off well on the particular hand. They had acquired the discard pile after both sides had melded, and they were building up towards a fair score. Then one of the opponents froze the discard pile as a desperate measure. His side had fewer cards than did Joe and partner, but he hoped to gain breathing space and perhaps to meld out before lightning struck. Anyway, he was playing against Joe.

As it happened, play went round and round; and the discard pile grew more and more valuable. It was worth much more to Joe's side because they could make two natural canastas and several other interesting melds if they got it. The pile was not worth that much to the opponents, but they would still do pretty well with it.

At the time the pile had been frozen, Joe held seven cards. By the time the trouble arose, he had worked himself down to five cards —for no good reason.

Joe drew, looked around the table carefully, asked each player how many cards he held, and finally asked: "Partner, may I go out?"

His partner said "No." He held nine cards, including four pairs, and he therefore had great hopes of getting the discard pile.

Now Joe went into a real huddle. He fingered first one card and then another, and eventually made his discard. The next player slapped a matching pair on the table, grabbed the pile, and proceeded to meld a couple of canastas and several other goodies. Joe's partner could meld only a couple of cards, and then the other opponent completed another canasta and went out. The total swing against Joe amounted to about 1500 points!

Now let's see if you readers know why Joe rather than his partner was at fault.

Here is the reason. Whenever there is a large valuable discard pile, a player who does not have a safe discard should never ask the question. He should simply go out and get the hand over with.

To put it another way, all good canasta players use this convention. When there is an important discard pile, a player who asks permission to go out absolutely guarantees that he has a safe discard. Thus he is able to make a safe play if his partner chooses to keep the hand alive.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequenlty asked questions in his column.

Soil microbes, not soil chemicals, do the damage to rubber-insulated electric cables laid in the soil. They do more damage to natural rubber than to the synthetics.

States Set The Example

As Governor Lausche did in Ohio, Governor Dewey has acted to introduce austerity into New York's government as a state contribution to national mobilization.

"I recognize," said Mr. Dewey to department heads at Albany, "that most departments have been cut to the bone. We shall have to cut further." Of course this was political hokum. No departments have been "cut to the bone."

But the governor has decreed there shall be no expansion of state services except for civil defense and public health. All other departmental expenditures are to be held to a minimum, reduced wherever possible. An embargo has been placed by the governor on new jobs. This policy of no replacements for the employees called to the armed services or industry is calculated not only to contract state activities, but to act as a brake as well on the payroll, which is perhaps the largest single item in all state budgets.

Even with Mr. Dewey's new directive, Albany's budget makers face a hard task to keep state spending within the $867,760,000 limit set for the present fiscal year. State governments are no more immune to rising costs than the federal government, which has already learned the startling effect of inflation upon the weapons and materials needed for national security.

So there is another point to the actions of Governors Dewey and Lausche—and may it not be lost on Washington. That is, that if the emergency requires states to conserve the tax dollar, the federal government is under even greater compulsion to cut non-defense spending to the bone. Messrs. Dewey and Lausche and their fellow governors can perform a useful public service by keeping the country informed of such omissions as and when they occur in Washington.

The Rippel Foundation

It has been said that benevolence at its best consists in making available to the greatest number of people those services which they are unable to provide for themselves. That obviously was the philosophy of the late Julius S. Rippel, New Jersey financier, who had little patience with welfare activities he considered to be nostrums designed to encourage shiftlessness.

Accordingly, he left most of his estate, estimated at $30,000,000 to $40,000,000, for the care of aged women, the construction and maintenance of hospitals, and to the great cause of treatment and research in the fields of heart disease and cancer.

Thus Mr. Rippel's bequest is intended to produce enduring benefits for mankind. Its terms reveal the charitable impulses of a man who knew hard times as only a boy who is forced to go to work at age 12 can know them.

The multimillions he leaves for institutions, hospitals and research were not alone the fruits of Mr. Rippel's financial genius, but of ingrained habits of frugality. It may be that during his lifetime he considered his fortune more or less in the nature of a public trust. Ostentation and self-indulgence were to him alien traits. But he did not hesitate, at a desperate moment, to pledge his entire furtune to halt a bank run.

Now the millions Mr. Rippel conserved are to be distributed for the alleviation of human suffering, and so it is that the qualities of warmth and compassion which he successfully concealed in life become apparent.

Center-Line Beavers

Nothing much can be done about keeping small wild animals off the highways at night so they won't get run over. Mostly, though, they get killed while trying to cross from one side to the other. They don't spend much time on the roadway itself if they can help it. As pedestrians they have some sense.

But the beavers of northern Michigan are getting to be more of a problem. They have taken to the roads for longitudinal, not transverse, walking. They insist on trundling straight down the white line in the center of a blacktop road. They seem to like that little path.

Centuries of experience probably will be required before Michigan beavers, if there are any survivors of the specie by that time, learn not to stick to the white line in the middle of the road.

In Wyoming there is a project to paint yellow lines along the sides of highways to keep rattlesnakes out of the paths of automobiles. Rattlesnakes will not cross yellow lines, it is contended. But there must be a few non-conformist rattlesnakes of the type that crawl right over a horsehair rope stretched in a circle around a cowpoke's bedroom. If so, they may make converts, following which development it will be necessary to do a repaint job on the highways, perhsps to lines of lavender or tearose.

Memos of a Girl Friday.

Dear Mr. W.: If the following is ever confirmed, it will make General MacArthur a bigger man than ever. Pentagon friends offer this explanation for his slogan: "The boys will be home for Christmas!" . . . MacArthur, they say, shouted it to the world with the hope the Chinese Reds would know we had no intention of invading Manchuria. A sort of public relations angle. Which didn't jell. . . . The Republican dilemna on Mr. Acheson is Who to replace him? I hear the Secy. of State will adopt the GOPlatform and try to weather the gale. White Housers still think if Acheson steps down, the post will go to Harriman. . . . Dewey men are canvassing Wall Street firms for backers. Does this mean the governor thinks he can win a 3rd try? . . . The papers just discovered that Italy's Red Chief Togliatti is tepeeing with his mistress and that his wife filed for divorce. We used that in May.

The Mayor now hopes to assume leadership of the Democratic party in N. Y. C. . . . This year's election registration books (out soon) will show that Impellitteri is not enrolled as a Democrat. . . . The Miguelito Valdez's are straining at the leash. . . . Julie Donahue Higgins, kin of the 5&10 family, and S. Wagstaff are reported alter-shopping. . . . The Joe DiMaggio-Dorothy Arnold (his ex-wife) rumors of a re-sealing are rated so much talkee-talk by pals. . . . How come no one's reported that "The Thing" song and "I'm a Rambling Wreck from Georgia Tech" are practickly the same difference?

The Chicago man who paid $2,500 for Mr. Truman's intemperate letter to Cong. McDonough (about the Marines) agreed not to sell it until after the elections. He now offers it "to help some worthy cause," but his provisions are these: $500 to an attorney, $1,000 to a Chicago group and $2,500 to himself! How charitable can you get? . . . Woman's Home Companion got Noel Coward's plum. It's a novelette. . . . There's an "All About Eve" sitcheeayshun at one of the big mags. In the fiction dep't. . . . "Bushel and a Peck" reached No. 1 on the Hit Parade. The first tune from a B'way hit to make the top slot since "Enchanted Eve'g." . . . Myrna Loy's so maaad about the guy she's settling in Washington, instead of commuting.

How objective can you get? Goodman Ace wrote a love letter in his radio col'm in Sat. Review of Lit. on NBC's "The Big Show." Not once did he mention that he is the chief writer of that program. . . . A Coast col'm credits Betty Hutton with this slogan for the community chest: "Don't Give 'Til It Hurts—Give 'Til It Feels Good!" That's ours, too, dearie. . . . "Guys and Dolls" gives its big Runyon fund performance Jan. 28th. That's a Sunday night. $100 per ticket. . . . The Stork Club program will soon be kinescoped. . . . Is it true you start on teevy in Ocotber? That's the talk.

Well, I've finally straightened out that K. Hepburn argument. We three were right. The calla lilies line was originally in Katie's great flop, "The Lake." When she did the film, 'Stage Door,' a scene had her making her entrance exclaiming: "Hello mother, hello father the calla lilies are in bloom again!" The legend is that Kate put it in "Stage Door" as a thumb-to-the-nose at the N. Y. critics who panned her in "The Lake." If true, that's a wonderful bit of theatricalia.

Big talk around town that Sulivan County, the heart of the Borscht Belt, will be the preferred metropolitan evacuation area. Accommodations for 700,000 are virtually unused during Winter. . . . I am told that all the stuff linking Lord Tony Furness to this and that girl is hokum. That the girl he likes most is Stella Boyd of Canada. . . . Ronnie Graham, the comic at LeRuban Bleu, weds singer Ellen Hanley right after 1951 commences. . . . No wonder actors go broke: Sardi's now charges 50c for a cuppacawfee at supper and as much for cake. . . . Oh, no! Not in Variety, too? A teevy review included: "One scene was truncated by bad camera work." He means it was cut off.

Lord Rothemere, boss of the London Daily Mail, is toying with a Quick-like mag for Britain. . . . Harper's has asked J. Gunther to do some fast rewriting on his MacArthur book, due in a few weeks. The title was changed from "Caesar of the Pacific" to "The Riddle of MacArthur". . . . Communist artist Picasso's London exhibit, I hear, was a huge flop. Sold only 14 of the 89 paintings on view. . . . Yolande Donland, just voted England's "most promising actress," is Yankee Doodle. . . . The F. Scott Fitzgerald revival is so intense that mags (Life, Atlantic Monthly and Partisan Review) are publishing parts of the same book it is Arthur Mizener's biog. . . . The Max Schmelings are giving it a final attempt. She prefers to monitor their farm of chickens. He prefers the more popular brand.

We are getting great response for Runyon Fund down-front theater tickets in Chicago. The shows there giving us seats are "S. Pacific," "Red, White and Blue," "The Rose Tattoo" and Ballet Theater. . . . Pocket Books and Simon & Schuster will give the Runyon Fund 50c from every $1 you receive from readers. The $1 will send 8 books (from novels to whodunits, etc.) to our troops overseas and in camps here. Not sent to individuals—but to all our warriors via the Dept. of Defense. Sounds great. Get it started now. . . . There's been little excitement in the Scotch & Sodull Set over who'll be Deb of the Year. That's because none hired press agents. . . . Talk about gilding lilies. Edith Piaf is taking vocal lessons. Wants to make like Dinah Shore.

Lots of applause on your suggestion Sunday night that Moscow, Idaho, change its name to Free Moscow, Idaho, to show the difference between Stalin's slave capital. . . . I know everyone's had a crack at this, but they now insist Police Commissioner Murphy will retire Jan. 15. . . . Have you ever heard Rita Montoya sing? She's at the Lombardy, Miami Beach, now. Real good.

In its entire 48 years Red Book has never had a movie star on its cover. Ava Gardner will be the first—on the Feb. front. . . . That reminds me of cover girl Jeanne Williams, now a show-gal in "Bless You A'll." She gets more fan mail than the stars in it. . . . Wanna boost a worthy group? Well, the Actors Fund of America expended over $253,000 assisting the ill, aged and distressed among showfolks this year. That's more than it takes in!. . . Nijinski's widow is at the St. Moritz. Starts a lecture trail soon. . . . Benay Venuta's divorce terms give her custody of the tots, provided she doesn't leave California for more than 6 weeks yearly That keeps her from taking a Broadway show offer. . . . Do you care a hang to be reminded that I started slaving for you in December 1932? Hmmm. I thawtnut. . . .After a 3 year separation, the Jose Morands have reconciled. He's Cugat's partner. . . . Didjez see that thing in Variety about a Minneapolis nonsensor? He made them change a film's title from "The Damned Don't Cry" to "The Darned Don't Cry." That's damb silly. . . . Then there's the new baby-talk song rage in Britain called: "I Taut I Saw a Puddy Tat'. . . . Oh, Dahdeee! wanna wowwypop!—Your Girl Friday.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By Sigrid Arne

Italy has been told by the U. S. state department it can go ahead with a $400,000,000 arms program next year. The state department is reported to have told the Italian government it will get American help in proportion to the effort it puts out on its own behalf.

But the 1950 Italy of De Gasperi is not Mussolini's Italy of 1940.

In 1940 Italy had 64 divisions.

Now the Italians are straining to put 250,000 men under modern arms. They hope to get 12 combat divisions out of them.

The difference is important to Americans who are depending on help from the North Atlantic Pact Nations—of which Italy is one—to stop whatever ambitions the Soviets may have to over-run Europe.

Italy is in a peculiar box. One of the axis nations in 1940, it now is in the western camp but is living under a peace treaty forced on it in 1946.

The treaty says Italy may have an army of only 250,000 men, only 200 planes and only small naval vessels to protect its own shores. It may not manufacture submarines or heavy armament.

This week's promise of American aid recognizes those limits. Italy is expected to make only recoiless rifles mortars, machine guns, transport trucks and large amounts of ammunition.

But what about the fast planes and the fighting ships that Italians once turned out and paraded proudly in world military exhibitions?

Italy could ask the 21 old allies for permission to make them again or— having gained UN membership— could ask the UN security council.

Russia seems a permanent road block down both paths. It sits on both groups and has already vetoed several Italian bids for UN membership.

But Italian leaders appear to be doing what they can.

Just this week the Italian ambassador to Washington, Alberto Tarchiani, commented on former President Hoover's criticism of Europe's slow re-arming this way: "He was right, but we (Italians) will do our duty."

For half a year—before the Korean war broke—Italy had been wrestling with re-armament. This spring it had an army of only 175,000 men. Now, with American aid, it hopes to bring that up to the treaty strength of 250,000 with modern arms.

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The Russian press in 1950 has announced the deaths of 28 men who were high in the Soviet brass—generals, admirals, interior ministers, functionaries and the like. Only four were over the age of 60. None was over 65.

This seems like a high casualty rate for the big brass. Linked with the strong evidence of a fevered hunt for "wreckers" and the like—this has been showing up frequently and poorly veiled in the Soviet press—it brings to mind the great purge of the thirties, when Stalin got rid of his more dangerous enemies wholesale.

Some of the generals had connections during their careers with the Ukraine. Among those who died in 1950 was the leader of the Ukrainian Communist party. There has been much speculation about the Ukraine this year—talk of unrest amounting almost to open revolt.

Just last January the Soviet Union announced that the death penalty— abolished in 1947— had been restored for crimes against the Soviet state.

Also significantly the Journal of the supreme Soviet announced the award to many persons in the interior ministry's police setup for "excellent service in maintaining public order" — including some awarded to state security militiamen who died in the performance of this duty. The Soviet press rarely mentions crime, but this article created the impression that the sole target of the decorated militiamen was the common criminal.

If there is a blood purge under way, it is less crude than the one in the thirties. The work of the firing squads then was widely publicized. It had a bad effect both at home and abroad, and the purge wounds were long in healing.

There is no reason to suppose that Moscow permitted all big brass death notices to be published. It would be more likely that the Moscow press would limit itself to notices for those most likely to be missed by the public. Here is a list of those who died, according to Moscow announcements:

January 3—Rear Adm. Nikolai Zayats, 65, once a Czarist officer.

January 6—Rear Adm. Boris Romanov, 48, a Baltic fleet commander.

January 11—Rear Adm. Nikolai Medvedev, 61.

February 22—Lt. Gen. Ivan F. Fedyunkin. (Age not given.)

March 16—Col. Gen. Porphyry Chanchibadze, 49, a Baltic states commander.

March 17—Maj. Gen. Dmitri Tansky, 65, communications expert.

March 20—Maj. Gen. Ivan Milin, 42, army political general.

April 7—Col. Gen. Max A. Reiter, age not given.

April 12—Maj. Gen. Dmitri Krylov, age not given.

April 20—Lt. Gen. Viktor Nasedkin, 45, high interior ministry official.

May 21—Maj. Gen. Ivan Akhremenko, 49, signal corps general.

May 21—Alexander Boichenko, leader of the Ukrainian Communist party.

May 21—F. Chernov, 44, director of state publishing house for political literature, who was decorated for "brilliant" work with the army.

June 1—Lt. Gen. Fedor F. Andreev, 50.

June 9—Maj. Gen. Yakov Balakin, 54.

June 10—Maj. Gen. Ivan Mezhitsan. (Age not given.)

June 30—Lt. Gen. Mikhail Bukshtynovich, 58.

August 13—Col. Gen. Vyacheslav Tsvetaev, 57, chief of the Frunze Military Academy, Russia's chief military school.

August 27—Lt. Gen. Nikolai Matveevich, 58.

August 29—Col. Alexander Davydov, 54, chief of an interior ministry section. He had been linked with Russia's atomic bomb experiments.

October 4—Lt. Gen. Stepan Morozov, 57.

October 21—Col. Gen. Gavrill Sashikhin, 52.

November 2—Rear Adm. Vladimir Petrovsky, 48.

November 11—Sergei Trofimov, who held a high post in the Communist party central committee.

November 28—V. P. Andreev, deputy minister of the agriculture machine industry who had a major role in manufacturing army equipment in World War II.

December 8—Maj. Gen. Andrei Kostikov, 51, aviation equipment designer.

December 16—Lt. Gen. Alexander Ryzhov, once a general in the Ukraine (no age given).

THE NATION TODAY

By James Marlow

Washington, Dec. 30.—(AP)— People employed in homes or on farms come under social security Jan. 1—if they fit the rules.

When one of them comes within the rules, he is "covered" by social security. And he and his employer pay a tax on his earnings.

If he works in a covered job long enough, he can get a pension when he retires or benefits for his family if he dies.

How long is "long enough"? Instead of figuring by weeks or years, the government figures by quarters. A quarter is a three-month period.

There are four such quarters in a year. First quarter—January, February, March; second — April, May, June; third—July, August, September; fourth—October, November, December.

If you have a certain required number of quarters in a covered job to your credit, you're entitled to benefits.

But the rules for domestic, or household, workers and farm workers are not exactly the same.

Domestic workers—

There's a simple test—called 24-50—to decide whether you, a domestic worker, are covered by social security:

You must work at least 24 days in a quarter for the same employer and have been paid $50 in cash in that quarter. (Things like board and lodging can not be included in the $50.)

If you meet that test, then every three months a tax of three per cent on your earnings must be paid the government, and on the social security books you get credit for a quarter of coverage.

You employer must pay at least half of the three per cent tax—1½ per cent—and he deducts the other 1½ from your pay. Then he sends the total three per cet into the internal revenue collector. (An employer can pay the whole three per cent tax himself if he wishes.)

Uder the law it's the employer who's responsible for turning in the tax. This must be done every three months. The first such tax is due in April.

Only the first $3,600 of a worker's pay is taxable. There's no tax on anything you earn over $3,600. Here's a question that's been asked:

Suppose a domestic works at least 24 days for one employer, 24 for another, and perhaps 24 for another—all in one quarter—and is paid $50 by cash, what happens? In each case the three per cent tax must be paid. If at the end of the year the worker thinks he's been taxed too much, he can check with his nearest social security office for a refund.

And every covered domestic worker must have a social security number. If this means you, and you don't have one, apply for one at your social security office.

Who can be considered a domestic worker? A cook, maid, gardener, family chauffeur, handyman around the house, or even a baby sitter if she works part of 24 days in a quarter and earns $50.

If you're an employer of a domestic, you can be sure she is not covered—so far as you're concerned—if she works for you only one day a week.

Best advice to an employer: Write to your internal revenue collector, tell him you employ a domestic worker, and ask for the government booklet called "Household Employer's Social Security Tax Guide."

It will answer your questions. Further, your letter puts you on the collector's mailing list and—since the tax must be paid every three months—he'll send you every three months the form on which you file your return and pay the tax.

Farm workers—

Farm-owners don't come under social security but the people who work for them—regularly work for them—do.

If you're a regular farm worker—whether as an outside farm hand or a cook or a maid in the farmer's home, you come under social security if you meet this test:

1. You must work for the farm-owner for a three-month preliminary period--one full quarter — and then at least 60 days in the following quarter. (Your social security credit starts with that second quarter, not the preliminary one.)

2. And you must also have been paid $50 in that quarter after the preliminary one. The tax on you is the same as on domestic workers: Three per cent on the first $3,600 of your pay. The farm-owner must turn it in every three months.

He puts up 1½ per cent himself and deducts 1½ from your pay, or he can pay the whole three per cent tax himself.

If you switch farmers, your social security stops until you've worked for the new boss one preliminary quarter, plus at least 60 days in the following quarter.

Best advice to a puzzled farm-owner: Write at once to your internal revenue collector for his circular "a" which answers your problems. This puts you on his mailing list. Every three months he'll send you a tax return form.

(Note: Anyone working in a non-farm home is called a domestic worker and comes under the rules for domestics. Anyone employed in a farm home, like a cook or maid, comes under the rules for farm workers.)

Business Largely Suspended Monday

Only essential places of business such as filling stations, some cafes, and drug stores will be open for business on Monday, New Year's Day, it is announced.

The city hall and courthouse will be closed with the exception of a skeleton force of peace officers who will be on duty.

The postoffice will remain closed and deliveries in and out of the city by carriers will be eliminated.

In Washington With

BASCOM TIMMONS

If Dean Acheson succumbs to the present strong demand that he retire as secretary of state, he can at least look back on a line of predecessors in that office who could tell him that handling U. S. foreign affairs is a perilous thing.

Probably none of them have been subject to the public pressure now being exerted on Acheson, with democratic state legislatures joining the demand that he resign, but several of the better known secretaries of state have faced uprisings within their own parties in Congress, clashes with the presidents who appointed them and run-ins with dignitaries of foreign governments.

The reason, bluntly stated, seems to be that American top level diplomats are less skilled and more naive than those of other powers. Those who have been shrewd have sometimes been ahead of U. S. public opinion, which is usually a dangerous position to be in.

Acheson can trace his troubles to a speech he made on January 12 in which he advocated no interference with the new governments in Asia, because the peoples there were weary of foreign domination. He seemed firm against the spread of communism, but the reverses the U. S. has suffered this year indicate that the Communists have taken advantage at every turn of the Asiatic policy laid down by Acheson.

President Truman has said that Acheson will not resign, but if he does stick he will be only the second secretary of state in history to resist successfully the pressure of politics. The other was William Henry Seward, who held the post under Abraham Lincoln, and whom senators of his own party were trying to purge 88 years ago. The incident bears strong resemblance to the friction between former Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and Secretary of the Treasury Salmon P. Chase. Some of the Republican senators called Seward Lincoln's evil genius, but there was not much public pressure against him, and Lincoln brought about a compromise by obtaining resignations of both cabinet officers, then refusing to accept them. There the parallel ends for Secretary Johnson got the boot.

The most recent resignation of a secretary of state under strained circumstances was that of James F. Byrnes, present governor of South Carolina, in 1947 after disagreement with President Truman, but that bore no resemblance to the Acheson case. Prior to that, William Jennings Bryan had quit the post in 1915, after Woodrow Wilson had insisted that Germany be sent another stiff note on the sinking of the Lusitania. Public sentiment then was against Bryan, who was determined that U. S. neutrality be preserved.

Bryan had no particular qualifications for the office of secretary of state, in the opinion of his contemporaries, but some quite able secretaries and brilliant men have quit under fire. Probably the first of these was Daniel Webster, appointed to the office by President William Henry Harrison and continued therein by President John Tyler. Webster completed successfully several negotiations which helped to establish favorable diplomatic relations for the young republic.

It could be said that he began an era which is ending under Acheson, for Webster carried on the preliminaries in 1943 for diplomatic relations with China which ended a year later in the first commercial treaty.

Webster quit because of a split in the Whig party, not because of any dissatisfaction with his accomplishments. Partisan politics was bitter in that day, a few years before the Whig party began to totter, with several of the so-called giants of history competing for power.

Secretary of State John Sherman, brother of General William Tecumseh Sherman, resigned when other members of the cabinet decided that the United States should go to war with Spain. Sherman, who had a long and colorful career, was opposed to U. S. territorial expansion in any direction. Some historians go further saying that Sherman had become senile and lost his judgment.

Possibly the most distinguished secretary of state to walk the plank was James G. Blaine, the Maine Republican who contended unsuccessfully for president of the United States on several occasions in the last century. Blaine headed the state department under Presidents Garfield and Benjamin Harrison, and displayed the same ability he had shown as a party leader in 20 years in Congress. But his foreign policy, which included telling off Great Britain on several occasions, contributed to his defeat for the presidency in 1884. A Republican split in 1892, with President Benjamin Harrison a candidate for renomination and Blaine hoping he would be the choice, led to the latter's resignation.

Those are not the only instances, but they will suffice. If Secretary Acheson quits, he need not fear any aspersion on his "personal honor." Plenty have done so and retained theirs.

In Hollywood

Bosses, higher than a kite on Sterling Hayden since viewing his work in "Copper Canyon", have decreed for him one of the biggest star-building campaigns in the studio's history . . . Shirley Temple, who excepted radio and television from her retirement notice, won't have to wait long for a job offer; one of Hollywood's video series as soon as she returns from her honeymoon . . Mexico which rated as Hollywood's No. 1 vacation choice last year, is being by-passed this season . . . Universal - International exploiteers take exception to my prediciton that Jose ("Cyrano de Bergerac") Ferrer will win an academy award by a nose; they say it will go to Jimmy ("Harvey") Stewart by a hare . . . Eddie Bracken is set for a stage venture in Fred Finklehoffe's new play, "Mike McCauley," which will try out—probably with Isa Miranda in the top femme role, in Santa Barbara, January 24.

Norma Shearer returns to Filmville next week after a years-long stay in Switzerland . . . Doctors say Vic Mature will have to duck all screen roles involving excessive physical activity for at least six more months, due to that damaged knee . . . Ha- In "David and Bathsheba," 20th will have Bathsheba plotting to be observed by David when she takes that celebrated bath—not becaue there's Biblical authority for the conniving, but because Scenarist Philip Dunne decided she was the type.

Preview nights: Pic of the week: 20th Century-Fox's "Halls of Montezuma" (Richard Widmark - Walter Parlance - Reginald Gardiner). One of the most enthralling war dramas ever screened— a tribute to the marine corps which inspired it, and to every movie worker concerned in its production . . . Good: Paramount's "At War With the Army" (Martin and Lewis - Mike Kellin - Jean Ruth-Polly Bergen). Jerry Lewis steals the show in a rib-tickler that's short on story, but long on laughs . . . Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer's "Grounds For Marriage" (Van Johnson - Kathryn Grayson). A cleverly played farce that provides grounds for chuckles . . . Lookin' West: Republic's "California Passage" (Forrest Tucker - Adele Mara - Estelita Rodriguez - Jim Davis). A far-above-par western that packs more entertainment value than the majority of Hollywood's big budget offerings . . . Monogram's "Call of the Klondike" (Kirby Grant - Anne Gynne-Lynne Roberts - Tom Neal). A dog story with sure-fire appeal for action fans . . .Low bridge: Columbia's "Operation X" (Edward G. Robinson - Peggy Cummins - Richard Greene - Gregory Ratoff). Only the staunchest fans can get through it without anesthetic . . . Best Performance: Richard Widmark in "Halls of Montezuma."

The forthcoming edition of Box Office, one of the leading motion picture trade publications, will announce the results of its annual popularity poll, probably the most authoratative of all the surveys conducted, since it quizzes independent theatre managers as well as representatives of the press, the radio, and most of America's educational and civic organizations Here, in advance of the magazine's publication date, are the names of the top-ranking stars, presented in the order of the ratings given them by the poll: (1) June Allyson, (2) Bing Crosby, (3) Clark Gable, (4) Claudette Colbert, (5) Betty Grable, (6) Gary Cooper, (7) Bob Hope, (8) Loretta Young, (9) Spencer Tracy, (10) Esther Williams, (11) Olivia de Haviland and, (12) Jane Wyman. this time give consideration to the headlined charge, made so often recently, by so many exhibitors, that the public is tired of Hollywood's veteran stars. With the exception of June Allyson and Esther Williams, stars for seven and eight years respectively, all of those winners are bona fide screen veterans. Several of them have been headliners for more than twenty years, and their average sixteen years!

SOME MORE QUESTIONS, MR. PRESIDENT!

On Septemeber 10, 1950. I addressed some questions to the president in my column of that date. These questions were:

"First, Mr. President, what about this Korean war? Why weren't we prepared for it? Didn't we know the attack was coming? If not, why not? If we did know, why was the administration indifferent to the dange: thus threatened? Didn't we intend to defend Korea? If we did, why didn't we get ready to do it? If we didn't intend to defend Korea, why did we change our mind after the attack commenced?"

These questions have never been answered. The fact that they have never been answered leaves us with the conclusion that they cannot be answered, and that conclusion leaves us with a lack of confidence in our leadership.

This lack of confidence in our leadership is the most serious problem facing us at the present time. It is more serious than the threat of communism from abroad. It is even more serious than the threat of inflation from within. A strong, united America, under capable leadership, could face the world and face the future without trepidation; a divided America, under weak and bungling leadership, does so with uncertainty.

We left the door open for the beginning of the Korean War through five years of Communist appeasement in the Far East. Winning the war might have smoothed over that mistake to some extent, though it would never have satisfied the mothers and fathers and wives and children of the men sent to Korea to fight in a war that never should have begun. But it has become quite apparent now that we are not winning and shall not win that war. So now we have declared a state of emergency!

And that brings up some more questions, Mr. President. Didn't your administration know this was an emergency from the day the Korean war started? Didn't you know this was simply a part of the Communist plan for world conquest? Or were you waiting until after the fall elections before putting into effect what might be unpopular measures?

If this is a real emergency, why don't you treat everybody alike; why don't you put price controls on all industry instead of part of it; why don't you apply wage controls at the same time?

I asked you in my previous article, Mr. President, why you had not set forth a clear-cut policy of our position in world affairs that not only Russia and the rest of the world, but the American people themselves, would understand. You haven't even done that yet! Are we to leave the door open for other wars to begin in isolated spots all over the face of the globe, as we did in Korea, and then decide to get into those wars, or are we going to draw the line now and let aggressors know now that to cross that line means war? How widely do you think we can scatter our resources, our manpower, our material goods? Don't you know we can destroy our economy, and along with it our form of government, just as completely in that way as in any other way?

If this is a real emergency, Mr. President, let's act accordingly; if it isn't, let's stop destroying our nation with vacillating polices abroad and socialistic measures within.

These questions, Mr. President, are neither theoretical nor political. We desperately need unity and we perately need confidence in our leadership in these critical times. But these questions must be asked and they must be answered or we shall have neither. And upon the manner of their answering depends the future of this nation.

MOBILE TO HOLD ITS MARDI GRAS

Change Previous Announcement That Celebration Would Not Be Held

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Mobile is going to stage its traditional Mardi Gras celebration, complete with all the hoop-la and most of the glitter, in 1951.

The change in plans was announced tonight after four mystic societies formally voted to go through with street parades and elaborate balls.

The societies, including the three oldest which parade Mardi Gras Eve and Mardi Gras Day, followed the lead of five other parading groups in vetoing plans of the Mobile Carnival Association to call off the activities.

The association, which coordinates Mardi Gras activities, announced earlier this month Mobile's 1951 Mardi Gras pageantry was being cancelled because of the war.

A joint announcement by the Order of Myths, Infant Mystics and Knights of Revelry said the organizations voted to parade since floats already were finished and paid for, and many members going into service felt it might be their last Mardi Gras participation.

The Maids of Mirth, a women's Mystic group, then announced it would hold its parade and ball Jan. 30.

Only the Comic Cowboys of the Mystic organizations remains to make an announcement.

Even the traditional Mules which pull the fantastic floats are expected to be on hand.

The parades start Jan. 25 and continue through Mardi Gras Day, Feb. 6.

No announcement has been made yet as to whether the Mobile Carnival Association will hold the annual coronation ceremony for the Mardi Gras queen and her court.

Japan-Pakistan Pact Ratified

Karachi, Pakistan, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Ratification of a trade agreement between Japan and Pakistan was announced today.

Pakistan will export to Japan 24,812,000 British pounds ($69,473,000) worth of raw materials, including cotton, jute, wool, wheat and rice by September, 1951. Pakistan will purchase from Japan goods valued at 29,812,000 pounds, including cotton and woolen textiles and machinery. Japan also agreed to make technical assistance available to Pakistan.

Brassieres May Swag Unless Ban On Copper Eased

Washington, Dec. 30 —(AP)— The government's copper order today raised the question: How is the brassiere industry going to make sure that brassieres don't slip?

A member of the corset and brassiere trade was on hand when the national production authority banned the use of copper in snaps and hooks and eyes, as well as 300 other items.

"We can substitute something else for garter fasteners," the industry man complained, "but what are we going to do about fasteners for brassiers and corsets?"

He explained that manufacturers had been trying to make arrangements for steel as a substitute, but hadn't been able to line up sources of supply.

Officials said they were pretty sure that so vital a matter as the security of brassieres would be taken care of before March 1, when the order goes into effect.

Adm. Davidson Succumbs At 64

Washington, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Vice Admiral Lyal A. Davidson, 64, who commanded a naval attack group in the allied landings in North Africa during World War II, died last night in the naval hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md.

He had been ill for a year.

Vice Admiral Davidson was a resident of Washington, D. C.

For his leadership of the southern attack group of the western naval task force in the North African operations, he held the distinguished service medal. A cruiser division commander, he also commanded transports and fire support ships in the invasion of Sicily.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters and a son.

Old Christmas Cards In Demand

New York, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Don't worry any longer about what to do with those pretty but useless Christmas cards.

They're not useless to the United Cerebral Palsy Associations.

"We need bushels of them," Executive Director Karl K. Van Meter said today. "These cards are invaluable in occupational therapy.

"Sometimes the children cut out the figures and paste them on sheets of paper. Other children can only handle the cards.

"But the bright colors and attractiveness bring them much sunshine."

The cards can be mailed to United Cerebral Palsy, 50 West 57th Street, New York 19, N. Y.

Americans Show Moral Strength

Washington, Dec. 30—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Acheson said today that Americans are showing their moral strength by praying for divine guidance in the present crisis.

Acheson issued a statement recalling President Truman's Christmas Eve call for nation-wide prayers. Acheson said:

"In answer to President Truman's call for a crusade of prayer, Americans throughout the nation are gathering together this week in churches of all denominations and faiths for special services dedicated to our spiritual belief in freedom.

"Through this moving demonstration of unity in heart and purpose, the people of our country are showing once again their moral strength in crisis, the tried and proven value of their faith in God, their spiritual roots, and their unconquerable will to live under the rule of brotherhood, human dignity and charity.

"I join with all Americans in heartfelt prayer for divine guidance at this time."

Czech Housing Has Fallen Short

Prague, Dec. 30—(AP)—Czechoslovakia was reported today to have surpassed its 1950 production plan in heavy, light and food industries but to have fallen short in housing.

The official news agency said Dr. Jaromir Dolansky, minister in charge of the state planning office, gave that report in an interview.

Dr. Dolansky said one need in the new year was to use more domestic materials and new plastics in industrial production "to become independent of imports from capitalistic countries."

Happy NEW YEAR

USE OF COPPER

Previously, percentage cuts had been ordered effective Jan. 1 in the amounts of certain metals, including aluminum, zinc, tin, lead and copper, which manufacturers may use. The previous copper - brass curtailment order—cutting usage by 15 percent in January and February, and 20 per cent in March—still stands.

But these metal curtailments do not operate as does today's copper order to ban outright the use of available quantities on particular items. Such orders are reported under consideration for other metals, including aluminum and zinc.

In addition, the amount of steel available for civilian production was cut by allocations and priorities for defense and defense-supporting manufacture. Also, the government has taken over control of cadmium and cobalt supplies.

But the copper order today actually lists the items from which copper is banned. The metal is prohibited for all ornamental and decorative use. This includes "bright work" and trim on automobiles, as well as in auto wheel disks, defrosters and heaters, gas tank caps, mirrors and brackets.

William H. Harrison, the NPA administrator, said the order does not prohibit the manufacture of the banned items, only forbids the use of copper in them. He said in many cases manufacturers will be able to use substitute materials.

Provision was made to permit industry to adjust itself to use of substitute metals or plastic. Affected items in the process of manufacture on or before March 1 can be completed up to April 30.

The list of banned copper products includes copper pipe and tubing, door hinges, house numbers, door hangers, cabinet and furniture hardware, drains and downspouts, roofing, shower parts, towel bars, weather stripping, and windows.

In consumer goods items copper can be used only as an electrical conductor or in working parts in stoves and ranges, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, refrigerators, floor polishers, toasters, food mixers, electric irons and electric razors.

Before the order was put out some smaller manufacturers of household items had complained they would be virtually put out of business because substitution is difficult. They also face the problem that even substitute metals may be restricted later.

But Harrison stressed that the order allows appeals, adjustments and exceptions in cases of "undue hardship."

Every effort will be made in the administration of the order to avoid hardship cases," Harrison pledged

Today's order, like all N. P. A. orders, are backed up by penalties of a $10,000 fine or a year in prison, or both, for violators as provided in the defense production act of 1950.

The forbidden list for copper includes virtually all dress and clothing accessories, even snaps and hooks and eyes. The metal's use is banned for costume jewelry, ash trays and humidors, fire place fixtures, trunk and luggage hardware, automatic pencils, unbrellas, and tableware.

The order did not mention radio or television sets specifically, but officials said the order's general ban against using copper for decoration or trim would apply.

Sporting goods and equipment are on the list of banned copper products, but there are several exceptions. Copper will be permitted in fishing equipment and supplies, sportsmen's ammunition, and in reel gears, swivels and snaps, rod mountings and the plating of baits and lures.

On a miscellaneous list of forbidden copper items are such products as alarm systems, arch supports, atomizers, boxes and cans, badges, barber shop and beauty parlor equipment, toothbrush holders, bicycles, binoculars, bird cages, carpet rods, chimes and bells, brooms and carpet sweepers, clothesline pulleys, flower pots and fountain pens.

The same list includes garden tools, hair curlers and brushes, home ice cream freezers, juke boxes (except for electrical conduction), shoelace tips, portable lamps and lanterns, letter boxes and mail chutes, looseleaf binders, manicure items, package handles, pleasure boat fittings, reflectors, soda fountain equipment, desk accessories and office supplies, sundials, tent poles and parts, and vacuum bottles.

A Sawyerwood neighbor telephoned them but did not tell them the children were dead, merely that there had been a fire and that they should return. After borrowing $10 from their landlady they started for Akron. The father had lost his wallet this morning.

Dr. C. I. Martin, Summit county coroner, declared, "It appears the man was slugged to death. We can't tell yet about the woman, but the children assuredly died in the fire of suffocation.'

Asked if he had used a hammer on his father, the veteran said, "My own hand held the hammer The hammer was not found.

"I guess maybe I did," he continued when asked if he hit his mother.

He declared his father "wouldn't let me do anything I wanted to,' adding he was prevented from seeing his girl friend or driving a truck owned by the senior Snodgrass.

force of 75,000 is now being formed for internal security.

Referring to the constitutional ban on re-armament, MacArthur said, "this self imposed limitation has meticulously guided your thoughts on the problem of national security, even despite the menace of gathering storms.

"If, however international lawlessness continues to threaten the peace and exercise dominion over the lives of men, it is inherent that this ideal must give way to the overwhelming law of self preservation and it will become your duty within the principles of the United Nations in concert with others who cherish freedom to mount force to repel force."

In 1947, MacArthur told correspondents that to permit Japan even a small military establishment would be to "backtrack."

In his New Year's message to the Japanese people last year, he said Japan had the right to protect itself against unprovoked attack. He intimated at that same time, however, that there would be no change in Japan's rearmament situation.

That message was delivered six months before the Communist invasion of South Korea.

This year MacArthur's message came at a time when United Nations forces awaited a Chinese Communist offensive across that same boundary.

Observers in Japan expected MacArthur's statement to cause a furor not only in Japan but in world diplomatic circles, particularly among the nations that felt the might of Japans armed forces in World War II.

special day of prayer.

Catholics will go to mass both today and tomorrow, for New Year's Day is a Catholic holy day.

Sport is on the program also, with bowl games winding up the football season.

Most nightspots where liquor laws permit have arranged a gala parties for tonight.

Some proprietors have reported little demand so far for reservations. But they expressed belief there would be a large 11th-hour turnout of celebrators anxious to put aside cares for the night.

New York police expected an influx of revelers in Times Square.

The coincidence of New Year's Eve coming on a Sunday put a crimp in nightspot celebrations in Pennsylvania and other states where the sale of liquor is banned on the Sabbath.

Philadelphia proprietors expected their regular customers to go over the state line into New Jersey.

Different types of regulations forced different types of celebrations across the country.

Boston can have liquor tonight, but no dancing until midnight.

Detroiters can drink beer tonight, but not hard liquor. Washington faces the same prospect up to midnight, but liquor can be sold from midnight until 2 a.m.

Liquor can be sold in Denver on Sunday, but only until 8 p.m.

mountain troops and one airborne.

In answer to questions, the defense ministry said France's rearming plans consist only of increasing these seven divisions to 10 by the end of 1951. By 1952, the ministry said, France hopes to raise the number to 15.

The French are more secretive about military affairs than such nations as the United States and the ministry declined details on how much of the $1,000,000,000 earmarked for rearming will go to increase manpower for the army, air force and navy.

At present France has 57 warships and 500 planes. Two hundred of the planes are jets.

Part of the new money will go toward increasing the daily pay of enlisted men from nine francs (about three cents) to 15 francs (about five cents.

The funds also will be used for building aircraft factories. France hopes to turn out at least air frames for fighters, buying jet engines for them from either the United States or Britain.

ENEMY AIRPOWER

behind the Reds' western front along the Imjin river. The front is only 27 miles northwest of the South Korean capital of Seoul.

Other red artillery was reported sighted near Yonchon, six miles north of parallel 38 and 36 miles due north of Seoul.

Appearance of Red armor in the areas emphasized imminence of the long-awaited assault on Seoul. General MacArthur said last week that only Red infantry was massed along the western front.

Ceaseless daylight air watch on the roads in Red territory apparently delayed until now the movement of Communist armor to the front.

The U. S. eighth army and other United Nations forces held strong in the center of their 150-mile line across Korea's mid-section Saturday night, but in both the east and west the Reds had reached positions from ten to 13 miles south of the 38th parallel.

The allies held some points north of the parallel at last reports, however. An eighth army spokesman named one of these as Inje, four miles above the line and 25 miles inland from the east coast. Another was Taegok in Central Korea, one mile north of the parallel and 42 miles northeast of Seoul.

The Red's early thrusts were hardest in the east, apparently trying to wheel south around Chunchon, railhead 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

A force of 5,000 drove 13 miles south of the border in hill country 32 miles inland from the east coast Saturday. An eighth army spokesman said allied troops were "in contact" with that group.

Another Red unit of 2,000 was reported ten miles south of the parallel 15 miles inland from the sea.

A third force of 10,000 had dented the east-central sector of the line earlier. There was no fresh report on this force.

Indications were that United Nations troops in the extreme east had been met before reaching the 38th parallel by probing Red forces that were trying hard to make the most of their advantage.

It seemed evident that the Reds in the east were seeking a soft spot between allied divisions or corps.

They apparently hoped to knife through such a spot and envelop Seoul from the rear.

Associated Press Correspondent William C. Barnard reported from eighth army headquarters that United Nations forces counterattacked in a small area 20 miles northeast of Chunchon and gained from 1,000 to 1,500 yards, roughly a mile.

Allied troops 27 miles north of Seoul battled on a hilltop for four hours before giving up an outpost to Chinese Reds, but killed 21 Chinese and wounded 15 in the clash.

All along the 38th parallel, General MacArthur's Saturday summary reported, the Reds have thickened their frontline units.

MacArthur has predicted that they will launch a full-scale attack on United Nations forces between Jan. 1 and 10. For this offensive, he has estimated the Communists have more than 1,350,000 men—Chinese and North Korean—either on the front or in support positions in North Korea and Manchuria.

The threat of Red tanks and half-tracks on the front north of Seoul was not considered as important as the appearance of artillery.

The modern Red China army is slow on movement but noted for its ability to use mortars and light artillery.

000 menChinese and North Ko-

In their great attack against United Nations forces last November, the Chinese used artillery sparingly. Automatic weapons and expert work with Russian-type 120-millimeter mortars turned the United Nations northward march into a retreat.

Just what size of artillery the Chinese are dragging across the 38th parallel at Kaesong is not known. The Chinese are known to have American 75 and 105-millimeter Howitzers which they captured from Chinese Nationalists. They also may have Russian-type 76 and 122-millimeter pieces.

Whatever its size, the presence of Chinese artillery means the Red attack on Seoul is going to be waged with more force than the one which hurled back the Allied drive for the Manchurian border in November.

In a Saturday action separate form the big jet clash in the northwest, U.S. Sabres shot down one Russian-built MIG-15 jet and probably destroyed another in the same general area.

The air force reported no U.S. planes were damaged.

The action raised to 17 the number of MIG-15 definitely or probably destroyed.

Six Soviet-designed jets were listed as shot down Dec. 17 in a clash between 15 to 25 MIG-15s and eight U.S. Sabres.

Allied planes flew more than 400 sorties Saturday, about a third of them in close support of ground troops.

B-29s dumped 176 tons of high explosives on North Korean targets with results that the crews called "excellent."

The body of Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, U.S. Eighth army commander killed Dec. 23 in a jeep accident north of Seoul, left Haneda airport near Tokyo in a special plane for Arlington cemetery.

His successor, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, told Allied troops in a New Year's Day message:

"I have complete confidence in our ultimate success."

He also called upon them for "dogged determination in attack and utmost tenacity in defense."

page is devoted wholly to Christmas and scenes of the Nativity. On page two are pictures of the newspaper's staff which shows 136 members.

This paper was sent to Mrs. Peggy Garnett of Monroe by her uncle who is a resident of Glendale.

The average Monroyan may be of the opinion that there are but four cities of any size in California—Los Angeles, Hollywood, San Francisco and San Diego, but he is wrong. There are others like Glendale which at the census in 1940 showed almost as large a population as our own town of Shreveport.

The tremendous growth of Levittown where the site three years ago was no more than that of a Long Island potato field, today is a thriving suburb of New York City. Dr. Joseph Brannan, assistant professor of philosophy in Barnard College and president of the Levittown Educational Association, holds this city as an example which other fast growing places can well study. Two years from now it is expected that there will be fully 20,000 more added to the town's population. Three years ago a three room schoolhouse cared for the small population; today in one school district alone there are 3,000 school children and an additional 8,000 pre-school age population will be enrolling in the near future. The future is formidable, especially because of difficulties in financing. It is explained that it costs four times the tax yield of one house to educate a child and this figures disregards the cost of the buildings. The president of the school board sums up the challenge thus: "We will continue to build school buildings as long as residents are willing to pay for them."

A pathetic little letter has been received from Manager Harry D. Paulus, of the Chamber of Commerce, Milan, Tennessee. He tells of the loss of a pet dog which was ever the playmate of his son. His letter follows:

"Monroe World,
"Monroe, La.
"Gentlemen:

"Christmas is a time for happiness but throughout our land there are many who at this time are touched with sadness and our family was not an exception.

'Returning from a visit with Louisiana relatives, Tuesday morning, we paused at an Esso service station on Highway 80 in your very nice city. Unknowing to us, our young son's little dog jumped out of the car and it was only after we had gone about 200 miles that we discovered that the dog was missing. It was a gift to our boy at the time of his birth and he is heartbroken over the loss.

"Please put an advertisement in your paper and send the bill to me."

The advertisement in today's paper reads thus:

Lost — Small white (apt to be dirty) English Poodle male dog answering to the name of "Tippy." Characteristics of the dog is the waving of the front feet in a begging manner. Dog lost from car en route to Milan, Tenn. Belongs to four-year-old boy. Reward if found Harry D. Paulus, Milan, Tenn.

be nothing but camouflage to cloak the naked imperalism of its aims."

Declaring there must be no "reward" for Communist aggression, Acheson said:

"In Korea this means this country will not be intimidated by the threats coming out of Peiping (Red Chinese capital; but will continue under the U. N. to combat the forces of aggression."

On the question of cooperation with other nations, Acheson asserted the U. S. must stand by its friends. "To abandon our allies would gratify the Kremlin, he said. "To do so would be appeasement on a gigantic scale."

"The Soviet Union, holding in unhappy bondage the peoples of eastern Europe," he continued, "wields enough power without making the Soviet Imperialists a gift of the productive capacity and technical skills of western Europe, plus the strategic resources and the manpower of the Middle East and Asia.

This obviously was one more administration jab at former President Herbert Hoover, who called on the U. S. to send no more men or money to western European countries until they themselves built big armies for defense against Russia. Hoover suggested this country should make the western hemisphere a "Gibraltar," with defense lines stretching from Britain to Japan.

"A great storm raged on the second day of our arrival in New York," Wu said. (He referred to the storm of Nov. 25). "I saw then all the gloomy atmosphere of New York, which symbolized the coming death of imperialism. But when we took off for home today (from Moscow) the weather was very fine.

WIDER CONTROL 'INEVITABLE'

Economic Advisers Called For Definite Military Build-up Target

By Sterling F. Green

Washington, Dec. 30.—(AP)—President Truman's council of economic advisers today called on the government to give the people some definite target for the build-up of military production.

The council called for higher taxes and a pay-as-you-go federal budget. It declared that wider, mandatory price and wage control is "inevitable," and did not omit the possibility of rationing. It foresaw many years of "very high defense spending."

But its annual report to Mr. Truman hammered on the theme that mobilization cannot be fully effective unless industry, government and public knows "what we as a nation are striving to do and why."

There was every sign that the council, headed by Leon Keyserling, was setting the stage for President Truman to hand congress, early next month, specific goals in terms of thousands of planes, tanks and guns to deter Communist aggression.

Mr. Trumans annual economic message to congress, which usually follows the budget and state of the union messages early in the session, is based on the economic findings of the advisory council.

Meantime Secretary of Commerce Sawyer in a year-end economic review announced that total production in 1950 claimed to about $280,000,000,000. As the year ends, he said, business activity is hitting the World War II peak.

But higher prices accounted for part of the dollar rise in output, Sawyer said, and "it is clear that further measures are required to resist inflation and speed defense production."

The economic advisers told Mr. Truman that only 7 per cent of today's national output is military, as against 40 percent in World War II.

The council estimated the country has the plant, material and manpower resources to boost production 25 percent in the next five years but will need a big kit of controls to steer the effort and stem inflation.

Americans should stand ready to carry "as large a tax as the defense burden," the report stated. They should not abandon the pay-as-you-go principle "unless it should become absolutely hopeless to maintain it."

The council hinted at the kind of tax program it favors. The new taxes should restrain "general' consumption—a suggestion that no earner should escape them. To be fair, the levies should include "the excess profits tax and the progressive income tax." And finally, "heavy excise taxes on scarce commodities" would repress demand for those items.

"The die has been cast for price and wage controls, which will cover progressively more of the economy as the necessary organization is expanded and as the defense program mounts," the report continued.

HOLIDAY DEATHS RELATIVELY FEW

Total Traffic Toll For 1950 Expected To Reach 35,000 Mark

By The Associated Press

Reports of a light accidental death toll sounded a note of comparative cheer Saturday at the start of the New Year's holiday season.

Even so, the National Safety Council predicted that by the end of 1950 traffic deaths will reach 35,000.

From 6 p.m. (local time) Friday to 3:30 p.m. Saturday the nation counted 62 violent deaths — 48 from traffic accidents and 14 from miscellaneous causes.

It was too early to spot a trend, but in approximately the same period last weekend—the Christmas holiday—133 traffic deaths had been reported and 31 miscellaneous fatalities. That holiday ended with 724 violent deaths—545 of them traffic.

The Safety Council estimated motor accidents will claim 330 lives by midnight Monday, the end of the New Year's holiday.

If its estimate of 35,000 traffic deaths for the year is reached, 1950 will rank as the sixth worst year in the history of motor vehicle travel.

Only five times has the traffic toll exceeded 35,000 in a single year—1934, 1935, 1936, and the record year of 1941, when 39,969 died.

Elderly Austrian President Dies

Vienna, Sunday, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Dr. Karl Renner, 80-year-old president of Austria, died early today. His death was announced by Dr. Fritz Meznik, government press chief.

Dr. Renner founded both the first and the second Austrian republics. He was a lifelong rightwing Socialist.

He was stricken Christmas Eve but recovered somewhat. Yesterday he took a sudden turn for the worse, with paralysis and lung congestion developing. Meznik said the president's physician would issue a communique later on the cause of Renner's death.

Recommends Breakwater For

New Orleans, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The Orleans parish levee board has recommended construction of a breakwater about 1,000 feet in Lake Pontchartrain parallel to the city's seawall.

Board President Joseph David said the proposed structure would create a calm expanse of water between it and the seawall and would be of great value in keeping down damage during hurricanes.

He said, "during the hurricanes of 1947 and 1948 most of the area adjacent to the lakefront" was unindated.

Municipal Experts Name 'All-America Cities Of 1950'

Minneapolis, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Eleven communities whose citizens fought for good government have been named by a jury of municipal experts as "All-America Cities of 1950."

The selections were made at the request of the Minneapolis Tribune, which originated in 1949 the idea of an All-America team of cities.

The 1950 "team" was selected as was the 1949 team, by a jury of experts on municipal affairs at the National Conference of the National Municipal League. The league, a 56-year-old civic organization for better government, met this year in Buffalo. The 1949 meeting was at St. Paul.

The 1950 selections will be announced tomorrow by the Tribune in a copyrighted story written by Rolf Felstad, Tribune staff writer.

The communities are:

Cincinnati, which was selected a second time; Hartford, Conn; Kansas City, Mo.; Montclair, N. J. Montgomery county, Md.) New Orleans, Phoenix, Portland, Me.; Richmond, Va.; Toledo and Youngstown, O.

Reasons given by the experts for the selections included:

Cincinnati: Approval of a $32,000,000 bond issue, largest for city construction in its history; a master plan including two depressed expressways, downtown parking lots, and 4,000 new public housing units; leadership in the Ohio River Valley Sanitation pact.

Hartford: A junior "city council" elected by junior "voters," which makes recommendations to the regular city council on recreation facilities and other youth problems; approval of $11,016,000 in bonds for improvements, large cash surplus for the past two years.

Kansas City; Kicking the Pendergast machine out of city hall and keeping it out: Organization of a permanent citizens association; expending city limits to provide room for residential and industrial development.

Montclair: Setting up in November, 1950, a charter commission to study and recommended a better form of city organization.

Montgomery county, Md.: Balancing the budget; a $20,000,000 school building program; 26 miles of new roads in 1950; higher pay for teachers.

New Orleans: Re-electing Reform Mayor Delesseps Morrison in the Democratic primary by a 2-to-one majority; obtaining a home rule charter from the state legislature; increasing recreation facilities, better streets, a union terminal station and other public improvements.

Phoenix: A surplus instead of an anticipated deficit at the end of the fiscal year on June 30, 1950; cutting 27 city departments down to 12; dropping taxes 17 per cent; raising the capital improvements budget from $346,000 to $883,000; renovating city equip.; reducing debt service by $120,000; driving out houses of prostitution and big bookmaking establishments.

Portland, Me.; resurrecting the neighborhood town meeting.

Richmond: A successful fight for a new city charter; "Gold Feather Day"a gold feather for everyone who voted, to be used as admission to a big post-election rally; resulting in the highest election turnout in history; vastly increased schools, street paving and recreation facilities; a merit system of city employment; a million-dollar operating surplus in 1949-50, first in history.

Toledo: Reduction of the net debt to zero; free garage collection, expanded recreation services.

Youngstown: Driving out a "political and racketeering gang" which had extracted more than $5,000,000 a year from Youngstown and its environs; closing gambling joints and brothels; shutting down horse racing wires.

Teenage Colorado Trio Leaves Train Of Crime Only To Be Caught

Yellville, Ark., Dec. 30.—(AP)—A Colorado girl remained near death today from a wound suffered in a gunfight that ended the cross-country crime tour of three teenagers near here last night.

Wanda Bowen, 15, Adams City, Colo., is in the nearby Gassville, Ark., hospital with a bullet wound in her abdomen. The hospital, which listed her condition as critical, said doctors had not decided whether she would undergo surgery.

Meanwhile, her two companions waited in a Harrison, Ark. jail for a new prosecutor to take office Monday to learn what charges they will face in Arkansas.

The two, Charles Beagle, 16, and David Coffman, 18, both of Denver, Colo., received minor flesh wounds in the running gun flight with Arkansas state policemen.

Prosecutor Eugene Moore, Harrison, who goes out of office tomorrow night, said he will turn the case over to Alton Bittie, Heber Springs, who takes office Monday. Bittle is to be in Harrison tomorrow to discuss the case with Moore and state policemen.

Search for the three started when Missouri officers reported the robbery of a store at Mammoth. A few minutes later a store at Three Brothers, Ark., just across the Missouri line in this rugged Ozark Mountain country, was robbed.

About 10 minutes later, Arkansas State Trooper Clarence Montgomery sighted the three and gave chase. A headlight on his car was shot out and one bullet went through the windshield just over the steering wheel in a running exchange of gunfire.

Montgomery chased the car into a roadblock, where it was abandoned and the three fugitives continued the battle on foot until captured.

State Police Sgt. Bill Walker said the girl told him the trio staged the Mammoth, Mo., and Three Brothers, Ark., robberies and staged several other robberies on their way from Colorado in a stolen car.

EXTRA POWER IN ATOMS FOUND

Scientists Make Discovery In Working For Atomic Energy Commission

By Alton L. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Reporter)

Cleveland, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Discovery of a potent extra striking power in radioactive atoms was announced today to the American Association for The Advancement of Science (A. A. A. S.).

Two kinds of these atoms, used together, make each other more powerful in their effects on the living body. Used alone, each has a certain strength or effect. Given together, they produce effects greater than the sum of their individual powers. They make two plus two equal five.

This means that doctors must be extra careful if they give a human more than one kind of radioactive atom at a time, said Dr. Hymer Friedell and Dr. James H. Shristie of Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

They discovered the step-up of power in research for the atomic energy commission. They used several kinds of radioactive atoms or isotopes made in atomic ovens.

This extra or adding effect is known as Synergism. Penicillin and sulfa drug, used together, will hit harder at some diseases by reinforcing each other in this way, for example.

This is the first time that any synergistic or additive effect has been shown in radiation. Radioactive atoms produce beneficial or harmful effects by shooting out atomic particles or radiation to hit living cells.

Doctors Friedell and Christie worked with Albino rats, but said their results probably apply to humans too.

When 15 rats were given a certain amount of radioactive gold, six of the rats died. Of another 15, given radioactive strontium, six died. When they gave 15 rats only half as much gold and half as much strontium, 13 of the rats died. The killing power was more than doubled.

Describe Compound Which Helps 'Fool' Cancer Cells Into Starving Themselves

Baltimore, Dec. 29. —(AP)— A compound which helps "fool" cancer cells into starving themselves was described today by three Johns Hopkins Medical School doctors.

Dr. Emanuel B. Schoenbach, associate professor of preventive medicine at Johns Hopkins, said the compound opens the field for use of what promises to be a significant new weapon in the fight against many forms of cancer, including leukemia.

The compound is termed the citrovorum factor.

Dr. Schoenbach told a news conference that the citrovorum factor may make it possible to use another cancer-fighting family of compounds indefinitely. Up to now, this group of drugs has been used only sparingly because of the toxic effects it produced in the patient.

The work of Dr. Schoenbach and the other two scientists, Drs. Ezra M. Greenspan and Jacob Colsky, with the citrovorum factor is outlined in the current journal of the American Medical Association.

Here is the background of their research:

Medical experts have known for several years that folic acid—a vitamin—plays a big role in the growth of cancer.

They found that malignant cells seem to wither and die when their supply of folic acid is cut off.

The problem was to find some means of keeping the cancer cells from getting folic acid and at the same time supplying the body's healthy cells with their regular supply of the vitamin.

A few years ago, scientists synthesized a family of compounds that is very close to folic acid. So close, in fact, that cells absorbed it as they would folic acid.

But when they did, the cells would wither from vitamin deficiency—starve.

The two principal drugs of this family are aminopterin and A-methopterin.

They have been used with beneficial results on many leukemia victims and patients suffering from other types of cancer.

It was found that aminopterin arrested or temporarily abated leukemia in about 50 per cent of the cases in children.

But aminopterin and its allied drugs have one great drawback. After a patient gets so much of it, he begins to show symptoms of folic acid deficiency. Ulcers may appear inside the mouth and other toxic effects arise.

Then the doctor has to stop the use of aminopterin and the leukemia comes back and the cancer starts to grow again.

The aminopterin tricks the healthy cells, as well as the malignant ones.

With the aid of funds supplied by the American Cancer Society, the three Johns Hopkins doctors began a search for some means whereby the toxic effects of aminopterin could be avoided. In other words, they set out to find a way to make the compound attast malignant cells only.

Their answer was the citrovorum factor. This is one of the products into which the liver changes folic acid.

The A. M. A. journal's report tells how they injected mice with lethal doses of aminotperin. The mice died if they did not bet a subsequent injection of citrovorum factor. When they got it, they were given complete protection from the ordinary toxic effects of aminotperin.

Finally the factor was used along with aminotperin to treat cancer in humans.

The usual toxic manifestations disappeared in these patients—and the cancers showed no signs of growing during the periods the one-two punch was used.

Dr. Schoenbach told the news conference it may be possible to continue the combined treatment for long periods of time.

"We believe that this is a significant advancement in the chemotherapy of cancer, but that it is not (repeat—not) a definitive cure for the disease," he said.

He added that development of the citrovorum factor may also open the field for research into why and how cancer and folic acid are tied togetheer.

Both aminotperin and the citrovorum factor are available for investigational use only. The compounds are produced by Lederle Laboratories at Pearl River. N.Y.

AMBULANCE SHOT BY RED TROOPS

Navy Chaplain Tells Of Harrowing Attack In Which He Was Wounded

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Catholic Chaplain Cornelius J. Griffin, a Korean war casualty under treatment at Oakland naval hospital, told today how he was wounded when Communist troops deliberately fired into an American ambulance.

"The enemy knew he was firing on an ambulance," said the 30-year-old priest, victim of a bullet that tore off part of his chin and lodged in his shoulder, in an interview.

"They used American - made Thompson sub machine guns. I know, because I saved the bullet that struck me."

Griffin, who was ordained in Worthington, Ohio, two years ago and assigned to a parish at Tuscon, Ariz., was a navy chaplain serving with the marines when the ambulance he was riding in was ambushed near the Chosin reservoir Dec. 6.

The driver and one of the four litter cases in the ambulance were killed.

"Just a few minutes before they fired on us, the driver had asked for and received holy communion," the chaplain recalled.

"Then he said:

" 'My baby's going to be born about December 14. I wonder if it will be a boy or a girl?'

"He never knew."

DEMOS DISPUTE TAFT ASSERTION

Deny There Is Lack Of Confidence In Nation's Military Leadership

By Jack Bell

Washington, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Democrats hotly disputed today an assertion by Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) that there is lack of confidence in the nation's military leadership.

Senator Kerr (D.-Okla.) said Taft's statement, made in a speech in Cincinnati yesterday, was made "from the depth of his own confusion and is far more applicable to the conflict of opinion—or lack of it—in his own party than to 'our top military people.' "

Senator Sparkman (D.-Ala.) told a reporter he thinks Taft is wrong in his analysis of the country's feeling about its military leadership.

"Our military men are good, honest, sincere, loyal Americans and very able in their jobs," Sparkman declared.

Taft who is expected to be reelected next week as chairman of the senate G. O. P. policy committee, said there is a great lack of confidence in Washington, reflected by the rest of the country.

He said some of the feeling is due "to the people in the Pentagon," adding that he, himself has "no confidence in the judgment of many of our top military people."

Taft said that the country seems to be "continually wavering between panic and reassurance."

"One moment we are told that Russia will attack tomorrow; and another, that we can work the whole thing out in time," he said.

Kerr said in a statement he believes that to guarantee American security "we must prepare for the probability that Russia and her satellites may attack" any time.

"At the same time," he said, "it would be worse than futile defeatism if we did not recognize the far more happy probability that through united, patient, continuing, prayerful labor we may avoid world conflict and achieve blessed peace.

"A united America has the best chance to achieve that peace or successfully meet world conflict if it is forced upon us. A divided America is helpless to do either."

Some of Taft's Republican colleagues didn't share his views about the military leaders.

Without commenting directly on Taft's statement, Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, Republican member of the senate foreign relations committee, told a newsman he retains confidence in the military leaders.

Senator Gurney (R.-S. D.), a member of the armed services services committee, said:

"I see no reason to lose faith in our top military men when they are the same men, of proven ability, who brought us to victory in the last war."

Venezuela Eases Security Guard

Caracas, Venezuela, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The government announced today an easing of security measures imposed after President Carlos Delgado Chalbaud was assassinated Nov. 13.

A spokesman said the cabinet approved decrees cancelling the suspension of personal guarantees and relaxing news censorship. Details were withheld until publication of the decrees in the Official Gazette.

Venezuela has remained quiet since the shooting of Delgado, attributed to ex-Guerrilla Gen. Rafael Simon Urbina. Urbina was shot to death by guards when he made a purported attempt to escape after his seizure.

The new president is German Suarez Flammerich, chosen to head the three-man junta formerly directed by Delgado.

Re-election Of Mayor Contested

Montreal, Dec. 30—(AP)—Notice of writ contesting the re-election of Mayor Camillien Houde in Montreal's municipal elections Dec. 11, was served on the mayor today.

Plaintiff named in the notice of writ is Ildedge Marcil, a fruit merchant.

Houde was returned for the seventh time to the mayoralty post. The complete count gave Houde 60,040 votes against 30,111 for Sarto Fournier, Montreal lawyer and Houde's only opponent.

The notice of writ claimed irregularities in the election.

SON MAY RETURN FROM WAR FRONT

Detroit Parents Lost One Boy In Fighting, Expect Second Home

Detroit, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Sorrowing for a marine son reported killed in Korea, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Micala today nourished a new hope that his brother may be returned from combat.

They said they have had a letter from President Truman and a telephone call from the war department that their only surviving son Gabriel, 23, may be brought back home.

Their other boy, Jerome, 21, a member of the same marine company as Gabriel, was reported killed in action near the Hungnam beachhead on Nov. 27. The parents immediately asked for Gabriel's return.

"We had a fine letter from President Truman," the father said today, "and later we had a telephone call from the war department that they had sent an order to have Gabriel sent home."

Now they are hoping that he will arrive in Detroit in time to attend a memorial mass for Jerome on Sunday, Jan. 21. Gabriel has written them that "The officers have promised to fly me out."

And over and over again, they play a phonograph recording of Jerome's voice, made a few days before his death. In it, he tells them that he's fine, and laughs about running up and down the Korean hills.

The brothers were members ot the same marine reserve company that left Detroit Sept. 1. After training at Camp Pendelton, Calif., the company went overseas and into action in November.

Besides Gabriel, the Micalas have two daughters, Mary, 18, and Christine, 16. Micala has two brothers, both childless, and he says that Gabriel would be the last to carry on the family name.

Back at the turn of the century, most telephone calls in public boosts cost a dime.

MARSHALL URGES FORM OF U.S.O.

Sees Urgent Need For Program As Armed Forces Are Expanding

Washington, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall appealed today for public support of the united defense fund—present day form of the wartime U. S. O.—saying there is urgent need for the program as the armed forces expand.

In a recorded broadcast for the NBC network, Marshall said:

"As the increase in our armed forces is day by day accelerated, more and more families will be deeply and personally affected. It is natural that the welfare of their sons and daughters will be of great concern to them.

"A sense of loneliness and confusion is usually the first reaction of the young man new to the military services. He is hungry for friendly contacts and a homelike atmosphere. By reason of his very loneliness he is liable more to temptation than might be the case at home. All this presents problems that the defense deparment alone cannot hope to solve.

"We must depend largely on the agencies of the united defense fund to help us meet many of these problems, and on the Red Cross to help with others. This will require not only money for the unite ddeefnse fund now and for the annual Red Cross campaign in March, but it will require especially the volunteer services and wholehearted cooperation of American communities."

Petroleum, important as a fuel for engines, is equally important as a source of lubricants without which engines could not operate.

ROTE POWERS WEST ELEVEN TO VICTORY

WORKHORSE SETS INSPIRING PACE IN GRID CLASSIC

Young Father Gets Great Ovation When He Leaves Field

San Francisco, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Rip roaring Kyle Rote, a brand new father himself but playing Saturday for the cause of crippled children, set an inspiring pace to lead the west to a 16-7 victory over the east in the 26th annual Shrine Charity football classic.

The versatile backfield star from Southern Methodist didn't score a single point, but his brilliant all-around performances paved the way for the victory of the Western College seniors.

A capacity crowd of 62,000 fans gave Rote, whose wife presented him with a baby boy in Dallas last Christmas day, almost a standing ovation when he left the field, a battered hero, just before the game ended.

The east had been favored to chalk up its fourth successive win, but ran up against a huge, charging western line, fortified with hard-hitting linebackers.

From the start it appeared this was the West's year. With Fran Nagle of Nebraska quarterbacking in brilliant fashion, the Westerners took the opening kickoff and marched 70 yards to a touchdown. Nagle's six yard pass over center to Brad Rowland of McMurry College in the end zone accounted for the score.

The east tied the count on a 55 yard thrust that started late in the initial period and ended when Alan Egler of Colgate crashed the last four yards through right tackle for the touchdown.

Nick Bolkovac of Pittsburgh University converted to tie the count.

The West quickly travelled 73 yards by land and air to assume the lead again. Rote, with his great line-smashing and off-tackle drives, again led the Westerners on the way to score. The big Southern Methodist fullback collected three first downs personally in the drive.

The score came, on Nagle's six-yard pass, after beautifully faking on the bootleg play, to half Roland Kirby of Washington. The points that won the game were chalked up there.

Wilford "Whizzer" White from Arizona State (Tempe) converted both extra points with placekicks.

Extra insurance of victory was added in the fourth period when Bill Powers, Navy halfback playing safety, was nailed behind the Eastern goal line for a safety.

Powers fumbled the punt, recovered the ball and tried to run. Ray Lung, a guard from Oregon, banged into powers and Bob Wilkinson, end from U. C. L. A., tackled the Navy star behind the line to add two points to the Western total.

Rote, the battling man from Texas, was credited with a big assist in the safety. It was his towering 70-yard punt, the longest of the game, that sent Powers so far back he was only five yards from his own goal when he attempted the catch.

While he stole the show with his brilliant display of running, blocking and punting that made him a marked man by the East, Rote had help all the way from his Western teammates. Nebraska's Nagle turned in a superior job at the quarterbacking spot and White contributed fine placekicking.

Rowland, from Tiny McMurry made long returns of kickoffs and caught the first touchdown pass.

Defensive pillars for the west were Laverne Torgeson, center from Washington State; Oregon's Ray Lung; Dick Stanfel, guard, University of San Francisco; Mike McCormack, tackle from Kansas; and John Kadlec, guard from Missouri.

The East also had its share of standouts. John Clayton, quarterback from Dartmouth, threw 25- and 19-yard passes to Bucky Curtis, Vanderbilt end, in the lone Eastern scoring sortie.

Clayton's alternate and Dartmouth roommate, Bob McCraney, connected with a 16-yard pass to End Don Stonesifer of Northwestern and a 33-yard pass to Half Everett Grandelius of Michigan State in a second period drive that failed when the East was held for downs within the shadow of the Western goal. The Eastern drive went 63 yards to the West 12.

Eastern stalwarts on defense were Jerry Groom, Notre Dame center who played nearly the entire game, and Jack Rowden of Maryland, whose linebacking was superior.

Jack Kerestes, smashing fullback from Purdue and John Papit of Virginia who replaced him got off good gains when the East managed to sustain drives.

SANTA ANITA WON BY GOLD CAPITOL

Breeders Stakes Go To Colt Known As Strongest Threat

Arcadia, Calif., Dec. 30. — (AP) — Mrs. Nat Goldstone's favored Gold Capitol ushered in the lavish holiday week-end at Santa Anta Saturday with an easy victory in the $50,000 California breeders champion stakes.

The handsome son of Alibhai threshed 11 rival two-year-olds by four and a half lengths and pulled down $49,370 net for the Beverly Hills matron.

A throng of 35,000 fans witnessed the mile and one sixteenth feature and an even larger turnout is expected Monday when the $50,000 San Carlos handicap is unreeled.

J. T. Taylor's Patch ran second and Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Jeppson's Hindu Star, a long shot, third.

The time was 1:43 2-5 and the winner paid $4.70, $3.20 and $2.50. Patch paid $5.80 and $4.50, Hindu Star $7.30.

The gross worth of the race was $81,028 in added money, one of the richest in history out here for California foaled horses.

Gold Capitol indicated his sharpness as soon as the gate was sprung. He broke on top, but Jockey Ralph Neves applied restraint and kept the youngster rolling along evenly but within striking distance of the pacesetting Patch.

The Goldstone colt struck when Neves decided, and took complete command in the stretch. He was galloping unchallenged at the finish.

Gold Capitol established himself as a strong threat when he won the Starlet Stakes at Hollywood Park Dec. 13. Mrs. Goldstone paid $20,000 for the youngster in a deal with the breeder, Webb Everett, who is the racing secretary at Santa Anita.

The victory Saturday boosted Gold Capitol's earnings in 14 trips to the post to $91,799 and marked his fourth visit to the winner's circle.

Speed horses take the top spot New Year's Day when William Goetz' Your Host, Abe Hirschberg's Bolero and 11 others go postward in the seven furlong San Carlos.

Calumet's Farm's Coaltown was entered in the race but was withdrawn following the death of the master of the stable, Warren Wright.

There will be a memorial just before the feature race in respect to Mr. Wright. Stewards and track officials will stand at attention while "taps" is played in the memory of the wealthy turfman.

Fractured Wrist Excludes Redskin For Salad Bowl

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 30.—(AP)—A fractured wrist will keep center Bob Marquardt of the Miami University of Ohio Redskins on the bench during Monday's Salad Bowl football game here against Arizona State College at Tempe.

Coach Woody Hayes revealed Saturday that Marquardt received the injury during a practice session Thursday. The full extent of the damage was not determined until late yesterday.

Both teams worked out Saturday for the first time in Montgomery Stadium where they will play Monday. Kickoff time of the game is 2 p. m.

Culmone, Shoemaker Deadlocked In Dramatic Contest

BOTH JOCKEYS TO RIDE SUNDAY ON FOREIGN TRACKS

44-Year-Old Record Set By Miller Should Be Surpassed

Miami, Fla., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker rode four winners at Fair Grounds in New Orleans, La., Saturday to deadlock with Joe Culmone at 385 winners in their dramatic battle for riding honors of 1950.

Culmone, who has held the lead throughout most of the year, rode three winners at Tropical park.

Both Jockeys will leave the country Sunday to complete their racing year. Shoemaker is scheduled to ride 11 horses at Augua Caliente, Mexico and Culmone will fly to Havana, Cuba Sunday to ride eight months at Oriental Park.

At the start of Saturday's racing, Culmone held a one-win edge over the 19-year-old El Paso, Texas, Jockey.

Both are only three short of the 44-year-old record of 388 winners ridden by Walter Miller in 1906—a goal both hope to better Sunday.

Shoemaker had one of his finest days of the year. In nine mounts he never was out of the money. In addition to the four firsts, he had two seconds and three thirds.

Culmone had eight mounts. He won the first two races, rested the second and came back to win the fifth event.

Shoemaker registered four victories in his first five mounts.

He was aboard Wise Policy in the first race and Flight Heart in the second. In the third race he was third aboard Our Freedom but came back to win the fourth on Novelty and the fifth on General Custer.

He finished for second money in the sixth, aboard Rusty Brown, and DyDamic in the seventh. In the eighth and ninth races he placed third on Hill Flight and third again on Applejack Jake.

Culmone was first under the wire on his first two mounts. He won aboard Scooter Stable's Seersucker in the first and M. Rauzin's Frenchtown in the third. He did not ride in the second event.

He was out of the money on Hoosier Relic in the fourth but came back to win the fifth on Mrs. Aksel Wichfeld's Maje.

Shoemaker slowly has been gaining on the Sicilian-born Culmone. When he went to New Orleans to ride at Fair Grounds, he trailed by eight wins.

Culmone was forced on the sidelines for three days when he suffered a nasty spill with only 12 days of racing left in the year. The young riding sensation rode only 49 winners in 1949 compared to Shoemaker's 219 victories.

That one or both will equal or surpass Miller's old record seems highly probable. Culmone has been promised "The horses considered most capable in each race" at Havana.

The box score:

	Mounts	1sts	2nds
culmone	1.66	385	280
Shoemaker	1,623	385	261
Miller (1906)	1,384	388	300

Blair Cherry Stands By Intention To Quit Game

Dallas, Dec. 30—(AP)—Blair Cherry, retiring football coach of the University of Texas, said emphatically Saturday:

"I do not want another coaching job and will not accept one."

He also said he had not been approached by the Washington Redskins and that Harry Wismer, Redskins stockholder, had not talked to him regarding the Washington coaching job.

This was his comment on a report from Milwaukee that Cherry was in line for the Redskins post, that Wismer had discussed the matter with Cherry and that Cherry told him he had given the offer serious consideration.

Cherry is retiring as coach of the Longhorns after Monday's Cotton Bowl game here between Texas and Tennessee. He will enter private business.

Cold Bites Into Kentucky Eleven

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Chill winds bit into Kentucy's Sugar Bowl footballers Saturday in their last workout for Monday's clash with Oklahoma.

Kentucky Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant was noncommital after the hour and 45 minute practice.

"How'd they look, coach?" a reporter queried.

"I was about to ask you that," Bryant said, adding:

"You can't tell in a routine workout. I had hoped the boys would work up a sweat. But, this must have been our coldest day here yet. Nobody was sweating."

Tomorrow, Bryant said, the team will "run through a few things" without padding, then board buses for the 87-mile trip to New Orleans, site of the annual New Year's Day classic.

The practice was a carbon copy of Friday's. It was the a-to-izzard in Kentucky's grid book. Calisthenics started it. Then came drills on offense, defense, signals, punting and extra points.

A half dozen field goal attempts were made, with Tackle Bob Gains doing most of the kicking.

T-Quarterback Babe Parilli was razor-sharp on ball-handling, as usual. Halfbacks Shorty Jamerson and Emory Clark and Fullback Bill Leskovar teamed with Parilli on running plans.

Coach Bryant said his chief worry now is "lack of depth."

"I've got one pretty good ball team," he said. "But I'm not deep anywhere."

Richardson Whips Rochon In Tennis Meet Finals

New Orleans, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Hamilton Richardson, national junior champion, breezed into the finals of the Sugar Bowl tennis tournament Saturday by whipping Henri Rochon of Montreal, Can., 6-1, 6-0.

Richardson was in command all the way and kept Rochon under pressure.

His opponent in Sunday morning's finals will be Ricardo Balbiers of Chile. Balbiers downed straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., 6-4, 2-6, 6-3 in Saturday's other semi-final contest.

Clark went into the semi-finals by disposing of Tony Vincent of New York earlier Saturday, in a match called in the third set by darkness yesterday. Clark won 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

The singles match will begin at 11 a.m. (CST) tomorrow.

The doubles finals will start an hour earlier and will match Clark and Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va., against Sid Schwartz and Charley Masterson, both of New York.

Clark and Burrows advanced by beating Charles Hare of Chicago and Ernie Sutter of New Orleans 6-8, 6-4, 9-7. Schwartz and Masterson beat Balbiers and Rochon 6-4, 6-4 in the other semi-final game.

The first round saw Clark-Burrows beat Richardson and Archie Henderson of New Orleans 6-2, 10-8; Sutter-Hare beat Vincent-Dick Mouledous of New Orleans 6-3, 2-6, 6-3; Schwartz-Masterson beat Grant Golden of Wilmette, Ill., and Steve Potts of Memphis, Tenn., 6-2, 6-2; and Rochon-Balbiers beat Vince Distefano of New Orleans and David Brown of Ohio 2-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Arcadia, Calif., Dec. 30—(AP)—Jeff Cravath, ex-University of Southern California football coach, Saturday became a horse racing official at Santa Anita Park.

Cravath, eased out of his coaching job ten days ago by alumni pressure after one of U.S.C.'s most disastrous seasons, will go to work immediately in his new job.

He will become a placing judge during Santa Anita's meeting which got under way yesterday.

"I feel highly complimented. I realize it is a new endeavor for me and I intend to apply myself," Cravath said.

His salary was not disclosed. His U.S.C. contract which had two years to run was bought up for a E7reported $30,000.

SUN DEVILS GET CRACK AT MIAMI

Ohio Favored By Heavier Players; Arizona Holds Statistics

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 30. —(AP)—Arizona State College at Tempe will try on New Year's day to do what no other team from this state has done — win the Salad Bowl football game.

The Sun Devils from Tempe, who won nine of their 10 games during the regular season and formed the nation's leading collegiate ground gaining machine, tangle with the heavier Miami University of Ohio.

Sponsored by the Phoenix Kiwanis club for the benefit of underprivileged children throughout the state, the game is expected to draw 20,000 fans and gross about $65,000.

Kickoff time in Montgomery Stadium here is 2 p. m. (MST).

Twice before teams from Arizona schools have played host in the Salad Bowl and both times went down to defeat. In 1948 the University of Arizona lost to Drake, 14-13. Last year Xavier of Ohio dropped the Sun Devils, 33-21.

Much of the Arizona State success in the battle between the two T-formation clubs may rest with Wilford (Whizzer) White, second team All-America halfback. White, was scheduled to fly back here after playing in Saturday's east-west tussle at San Francisco.

Miami, coached by Woody Hayes, won the mid - American conference title with a resounding 28-0 victory over Cincinnati, the Sun Bowl choice to oppose West Texas State College at El Paso.

Ed Doherty, who will appear as Arizona State coach for the last time in the Salad Bowl, piloted his team to second place in the border conference. The only defeat came at the hands of Hardin-Simmons. Doherty resigned near the end of the school's most successful season to seek a position with "more security."

Arizona State, in leading the nation in total offense, had an average of 470.4 yards per game.

Miami wasn't far behind with 416.3.

The Salad Bowl game this year will be broadcast locally but not televised.

Kansas Nabs Third Place In Big Seven Tournament

Kansas City, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Bulky Clyde Lovellette poked in 28 points to lead the Kansas Jayhawkers to a 62-47 victory over the Nebraska Cornhuskers and third place in the Big Seven Conference basketball tournament Saturday night.

The championship game between Minnesota, guest team from the Big Ten, and Kansas State was to follow.

A capacity crowd of more than 9,500 witnessed the night games.

Oklahoma took fifth place by beating Iowa State 68-50 this afternoon. Missouri, the champion last year, finished a spot out of the cellar by defeating Colorado 62-54.

Lovellette hooked in two field goals in the first minute of play and Kansas had a 10-point lead before Nebraska scored its first point. The Jayhawkers boosted their edge to 16 points, 22-6 after 10 minutes and were ahead 35-25 at the half.

Lovellette went to work early in the second half and scored 13 successive Kansas points. He had the lead 50-35 with a little less than 10 minutes left. The big boy injured a wrist late in the game but hung on for a few minutes then left the floor with three minutes remaining. He was the game's high scorer with 28 points.

Bob Pierce, Nebraska center, made 18 points.

Marcus Freiberger scored 25 points in leading Oklahoma to its triumph over Iowa State.

Whitfield Loses Two Track Races

Auckland, New Zealand, Dec. 30—(AP)—Mal Whitfield, the former Ohio state runner who won the olympic 800-meter race at the 1948 olympics, suffered two defeats Saturday in the track events of the Canterbury Centennial games at Christchurch.

The lithe Negro was a fading fourth to Arthur Wint of Jamaica, in the half mile run, which was clocked in 1:54.2, and was second to win in the 440-yard run. The latter race was timed in :48.5. John Voight of Oklahoma, was third in the 440.

Roger Bannister of England, triumphed in the mile, cutting two seconds off the New Zealand record. Although he won by 25 yards and coasted the last 200 yards he was timed in 4:09.

Despite Bannister's efforts the race lacked much of its expected glamor because of the withdrawal of Igar Bengtsson of Sweden. D. G. MacMillan of Australia was second. Willi Syykhuis of Holland and John Twomey of Illinois, fought it out for last place with the Dutchman edging ahead of the American in the final strides.

Voight lost the broad jump title by a quarter of an inch. His conqueror was John Dawson of New Zealand, who leaped 23 feet, 3¼ inches. Don Haldermar of California, was second to ron Weinberg of Australia, in the 220-yard low hurdles. The time was :24.3.

Arthur Bragg of Morgan state, also was shunted to second place. He was beaten by William De-Gruchy of Australia, in a 200-meter race that was clocked in :22.2.

GAMBLERS PONDER GATOR BOWL TILT

Hard To Compare Teams Hailing From Long Distances Apart

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 30.—(AP) — How can you compare two football teams from a couple thousand miles apart like Wyoming and Washington and Lee?

Lots of folks, including the gamblers, are wondering just that—even after watching both squads tune up here for their meeting in the Gator Bowl game Monday.

Each has its star passer-runner-field general; Gil Bocetti for Washington and Lee; Eddie Talboom for Wyoming. Both teams have fast lines—not Giants but not little fellows either.

Early betting odds favor Wyoming by seven points. But there is plenty of support for Washington and Lee. Some think the Southern Conference champions will beat the Skyline Six champs by two or three touchdowns.

Even the loss of Fullback-Linebacker Walt Michaels to an appendectomy hasn't dampened the ardor of most W and L backers.

One man in a good position to compare the two teams is Wyoming Coach Bowden Wyatt. All-Southeastern Conference end in 1938 when he played for Tennessee. Wyatt also coached in the S. E. C. and has seen plenty of Southern Conference football.

"I rate the game a tossup," Wyatt says.

But Wyoming is mighty good this year, the coach noted. "The players have poise, good team speed and fine morale as well as the knack to come from behind.

"That makes for good football in Maine, Texas or anywhere else!"

Washington and Lee Coach George Barclay agrees wholeheartedly that his generals will be up against a top notch team New Year's day.

"Any team that goes through the season unbeaten is mighty good," Barclay commented. "especially a team that ran up the scores Wyoming did."

He, too, calls the game pretty even.

Wyoming won nine straight, including Baylor of the Southwest Conference among its victims. Washington and Lee won eight games and lost to Tennessee by a touchdown and to Virginia by five points.

Impartial fans looking only for a good game are hoping to see another thriller like the Clemson-Missouri game in the Gator Bowl two years back. Clemson, a single wing team—as is Wyoming—beat Missouri, using the split T—as does W. and L — by 24-23 in that one.

Gator Bowl officials expect a crowd of 30,000 to be in the stadium.

The first accordions were made, it is believed, by Friedrich Buschmann in Berlin in 1822.

HORDES OF FANS AWAIT SEASON'S GIANT CLIMAX

Rose, Sugar Bowl Contests Expected To Draw Biggest Crowds

New York, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Some 450,000 football fans will pay approximately $2,000,000 Monday for the twin privileges of taking their headaches out in the fresh air and watching the 11 College Bowl games.

The day's largest crowd, an expected throng of 100,000, will gather at Pasadena, Calif., for the annual Rose Bowl contest which this time pits California, champion of the coast circuit, against Michigan, king-pin of the Big Ten.

It will be the third straight time for the Californians, who haven't won since the Big Ten-Pacific Coast Conference agreement went into effect. And over the years, it also will be the third appearance for Michigan. The Wolverines triumphed by identical 49 to 0 scores in previous western visits.

This time the Midwest Club is only a slight favorite although Coach Ben Oosterbann reports that both Chuck Ortmann and Leo Koceski, a pair of topflight backs, are in good condition for the first time since November.

Oklahoma, also making a third straight appearance, and Kentucky tangle in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans before the day's second largest crowd, 82,500. Because of a difference in ticket prices, however, gate receipts at both the Rose and Sugar Bowl games will approximate $450,000.

The Cotton Bowl at Dallas, where Tennessee and Texas are the foes, expects 75,349 visitors while the Orange Bowl, with Miami and Clemson the attraction, hopes to draw 66,000.

The 'Gator Bowl' at Jacksonville, growing steadily and threatening soon to make the Big Four the Big Five in the bowl industry, will lure 30,000 fans through the turnstiles with unbeaten Wyoming mixing it with Washington and Lee.

The six smaller bowls hope to attract 88,000 for a day's turnout that may equal the 459,000 who witnessed the 13 games on the Jan. 1 program a year ago.

Although five Oklahomans have dotted the hospital list during the final week of workouts, the Big Seven champions are slight favorites to defeat Kentucky, Southeast Conference champs, and extend modern football's greatest winning streak to 32 games.

The lone Kentucky lost was suffered in the closing game of the season when Bill Leskovar, fullback, was injured on the opening play and did not return to the field.

Leskovar now is in shape again as is Leon Heath, fierce fullback of the Oklahomans.

Probably the most rugged line play of the day will be unfurled at Dallas where Tennessee and Texas are the opponents. Each team boasts an All-America guard. Texas supporters will cheer Bud McFadin while the Volunteer cohorts will follow the efforts of Ted Dapper. Each of their line-mates are only a step behind in talent to set the stage for the bruising contest.

Miami's own university, unbeaten but tied once in an ambitious 10 game schedule, is the slight favorite over Clemson although Andy Gustafson has had to find a new quarterback because of injuries to Jack Hackett. Coach Frank Howard of Clemson, has complained that his players have lacked zest during their workouts in the Orange capital since Christmas.

Eddie Tallboom, one of the nation's leading scorers, is the lure in the Gator Bowl contest at Jacksonville. Tallboom and his Cowboy mates are favorites over the crippled Washington & Lee team, which piled up eight victories in 10 games during the season to annex the Southern Conference laurels.

Of the six lesser bowls only the Cigar contest at Tampa can boast an undefeated cast. The 15,000 spectators there will see the LaCrosse Teachers from Wisconsin, share blocks and tackles with Valparaiso University of Indiana. Both clubs marched unscathed through nine-game schedules.

Other games listed on the New Year's Day program are:

Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.: Emory and Henry (9-1-0) vs. Morris Harvey (9-0-0) with 10,000 fans expected.

Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.: Cincinnati (8-3-0) vs. West Texas State (9-1-0), 18,000.

Salad Bowl at Phoenix, Ariz.: Miami of Ohio (8-1-0) vs. Arizona State of Tempe (9-1-0), 20,000.

Pineapple Bowl at Honolulu: Denver (3-7-1) vs. Hawaii (4-4-2), 16,000.

Orleander Bowl at Galveston, Tex.: Wharton (Tex.) Junior College (10-1-0) vs. San Angelo (Tex.) Junior College (7-2-0), 9,000.

No Quitters In Baseball World

Columbus, O., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Minor League baseball is planning an all-out celebration of its first half century in 1951—if the world situation permits.

President George M. Trautman of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs (the Minors) said complete plans have been made for the "Golden Jubilee" season.

"It is possible that present said Trautman, "but as of this moment not one league of the 57 which finished the 1950 season has notified us of its intention to quit. All leagues plan to operate in 1951."

Minor League officials expect more than 400 baseball clubs to help out with the celebration.

"Each city, said Trautman, "will make its own program but all will follow the general 'Golden anniversary' idea.

Trautman said the plans for a nation-wide baseball celebration "is in line with the traditions of professional baseball."

"The game has always been blessed by courageous leadership," he continued, "the nature of the enterprise develops the inclination to believe that 'next year' may bring a pennant. Baseball offers no place for the quitter or for the man of little faith.

Charles A. Hurth, president of the Southern Association, is general chairman of the national celebration, with help from a committee representing every section of the nation. Robert L. Finch, director of public relations of the National Association, is secretary of the jubilee committee.

Ben M. Morgan of Washington, D. C., a public relations expert, has been hired to promote the jubilee.

CLEMSON, MIAMI STOP WORKOUTS

Light Kink Removing Sessions Set For Both Teams Today

Miami, Fla., Dec. 30 —(AP)— The University of Miami Hurricanes and the Clemnson Tigers went through brief tapering off drills Saturday in preparation for their New Year's Day clash in the Orange Bowl.

Both teams will hold final kink-removing sessions Sunday.

Andy Gustafson, the Hurricane's head coach, wasn't too happy about his squad.

"They were better than yesterday, but they didn't look very sharp," he said. "However, I know they'll give a good account of themselves."

Frank Howard, the affable Clemson coach, told his boys: "You're in shape win or lose, it's in your hands now"

Gustafson sent Don Mariuto of Miami in as first string defensive tackle in place of Bill Diamond who is still suffering from the effects of a knee injury. Harold Allen of Florence, S. C., returned to the starting lineup.

Howard said he was especially pleased because his boys seemed to be "becoming acclimated."

"They're getting used to this heat after coming down here out of the freezing weather," he said. That's what I've been concerned about—the heat. Maybe we'll beat it."

The weather man wasn't going out on any limb as to what to expect for this 17th annual playing of the Orange Bowl classic.

He said temperatures would be around 75 degrees the middle of the afternoon but there was a very slight possibility of showers.

Schwartz Out As Stanford Coach

San Francisco, Dec. 30. —(AP)— Marchie Schwartz, who served as head coach in the West's 16-7 victory over the East Saturday announced immediately after the game that he was resigning as head coach of Stanford University. He said he planned to go into business.

"Winning this hard game was about the nicest thing that ever came to me in the coaching profession," said Schwartz, the Notre Dame backfield star who came to Stanford 10 years ago from Creighton University.

He was assistant to Clark Shaughnessy and then became head coach six years ago.

"This was my last job coaching a football team," he said, "I feel like I have gone as far as I can go.

"I am leaving the coaching profession to go into some other field of endeavor. I say with considerable regret that I am definitely through with coaching."

Schwartz said he had told the Stanford Director of Athletics about a week ago that he would accept a new five-year contract which had been offered him.

"But three days ago I decided that I would quit coaching and I told Masters (Al Masters) night before last of my decision," he said. "I have also told Dr. Walford. I wanted to give Stanford time to select my successor."

Schwartz said he had not made up his mind what field of work he was going into, but "I am going to stay in the San Francisco Bay area."

Marchie stopped to shake hands with Kyle Rote, the brilliant Southern Methodist back who was largely responsible for the West's 16-7 victory.

TRAINER THINKS MILLER IS BEST

Says Young Jockeys Aided By Faster Travel, More Races

Miami, Fla., Dec. 30 —(AP)— Joe Culmone and Willie Shoemaker may break Walter Miller's 44-year-old riding record Sunday but they cannot compare with great jockeys of the past.

That's the opinion of "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons, now rounding out his 65th year in racing.

"Sunny Jim" took time out from his training duties and watching the races at Tropical Park Saturday to talk about the great Miller of 1906.

"I'd rate Miller, Earl Sande, Linus (Pony) McAtee and Don Meade among the great jockeys of all time," Fitzsimmons said

Miller rode for Fitzsimmons the year the boy brought in 388 winners out of 1,384 mounts, a record that has stood through the years. He also finished second 300 times and third 199, putting him in the money on 63 per cent of his mounts.

Culmone now has 385 winners and Shoemaker 385 but each has had well over 1,600 mounts this year and spent few racing days out of the saddle.

Culmone will fly to Havana Sunday where he has eight mounts at Oriental Park. Shoemaker, riding at Fair Grounds in New Orleans, will fly to Agua Caliente, Mexico, where he has 11 mounts.

Fitzsimmons trained for W. A. Stanton and the latter held Miller's contract in 1906. Most of Miller's riding was done in the east but he also rode in California, with time out for travel.

"He couldn't fly from one track to another in those days," the veteran Fitzsimmons recalled. "Miller had layoffs between tracks, but he was a great little rider. He was a good billiard player and played baseball, too.

"He rode for Tom Williams in California and for Newcastle in the east. I don't think he had won more than one or two races before he started on his record.

"Another thing, they had only six races on the program in those days, instead of the eight or nine today."

Fitzsimmons, who now trains for Belair stud, grew up in racing or rather, racing grew up around him.

"My father had a piece of land at Sheepshead Bay, N.Y." he said. "They decided to build a track there and bought our land. The track was built right where I was born.

"I got my first job at a race track the day Grover Cleveland was inaugurated president the first time, in 1885. I washed dishes in the kitchen, worked as exercise boy and did everything else around the track.

"I was 11 years old at the time, and will be 77 in July."

Fitzsimmons rates Gallant Fox, winner of the derby and Preakness in 1930, as the greatest horses he ever trained.

"But," he points out, rating great horses of the past with those today is like comparing Jack Dempsey with Joe Louis. There is no way to match them."

"Sunny Jim" has a string of young horses in the barns at Hialeah now, along with the Battler, a brother of Mr. Busher.

Despite his years, "Sunny Jim" still gets up at five o'clock every morning, watches his horses work out, and usually spends the afternoon at the races.

Eagles Heavier Than Opponents

Orlando, Fla., Dec. 30.—(AP)— Emory and Henry, once defeated, is slightly favored over unbeaten Morris Harvey College in the fifth annual Tangerine Bowl football game Monday night.

A near-sellout crowd of 10,000 is expected for the 8 p. m. kick-off.

On paper, the E. and H. Wasps from Emory, Va., outscored the Golden Eagles from Charleston W. Va., 376 to 360 points during the regular season. But the Virginians dropped a 21-20 decision to Guilford College and Morris Harvey's closest call was a 7-0 triumph over Kent State.

Morris Harvey will boost a weight advantage; but fans who have watched the Wasps say their wide open brand of football makes up the poundage disadvantage.

The Eagles arrived Christmas Eve night and have been working twice a day since. Coach Eddie King says he is pleased with the overall condition of his squad but is a bit worried about the unaccustomed heat.

On the other hand, Emory and Henry pulled in late Thursday and except for conditioning drills and work on a few pet plays have been having fun. "We came down here to win, but we also want to enjoy ourselves," explained Coach Conley Snidow.

Texans Want To Gamble Mountain

Austin, Tex, Dec 30—(AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers is willing to bet Sawtooth Mountain in Jeff Davis county against Tennessee's Lookout Mountain Texas will beat Tennessee in the Cotton Bowl Monday.

Shivers accepted Tennessee Gov. Gordon Browning's challenge of yesterday to make a "little straight bet."

Recalling that a former governor of Colorado once lost his bet of Pike's Peak on the University of Colorado to beat Texas, Shivers said:

"This looks like a sure way to expand Texas territory at a time when we seem to be having some of it taken away. Besides, Texas could make good use of a lookout mountain. We need to keep an eye on the modern day federals who are doing this modern day raiding."

Shivers referred to recent court decisions giving the federal government paramount rights to Texas' tidelands.

He will receive the honor — named the William Coffman after the managing director of the charity game—at ceremonies before the 1951 contest here.

Rote received 24 of the 27 votes cast. The other three ballots were for Fran Nagle, quarterback from Nebraska.

REBEL ALL-STARS WHIP YANKEE GRIDMEN

POWERFUL LINE TOO MUCH FOR NORTHERN TEAM

Shivering Crowd Watches 31 To 6 Triumph In Annual Game

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 30—(AP)—A vastly superior southern all-star team with an irresistible passing combination and a bulldozer running attack smothered their northern rivals 31-6 in the Blue-Gray game here Saturday.

A partisan crowd of 21,000, shivering in cloudy, near-freezing weather watched the power-laden Rebels win their eight intersectional contest in 12 tries.

The Yankees had a jet-powered star in Missouri's fast stepping Back John Glorioso, but not enough else to stop the southerners' charges.

Outstanding for the Grays were Louisiana State's Halfback Ken Konz, Duke's passing wizard Billy Cox, Georgia's hard-running Billy Nixon, and pass-snagging End Gene Schroeder from Virginia.

On defense, Army's All-America End Dan Foldberg shared honors with End Arthur Tait of Mississippi State, who broke up one Blue play after another.

Only in the second period was the Yankee attack able to break through to put the ball across the goal. Glorioso grabbed a three-yard pass in the end zone to climax a 55-yard drive. He couldn't make the extra point, however.

The southerners scored the first time they got the ball in the opening quarter, going 77 yards. Quarterback Butch Avinger of Alabama sneaked across from the one after Konz got loose for a 25-yard run and Cox connected with End Gene Schroeder of Virginia for 28 yards. Konz missed his kick.

A 62-yard push set up the first of three scores in the second period. Mixon dashed into the end zone from the 11-yard stripe, and Arkansas Louie Schaufele converted for the only extra point of the game.

Later in the quarter, Schroeder crossed the goal after taking a pass from Avinger good for 42 yards. Schaufele missed his kick this time. Then, with time running out, Konz intercepted a pass thrown by Northwestern's Dick Flowers and ran 29 yards to score. Schaufele's boot was faulty again.

Neither team scored in the third period, but Mixon found the end zone again in the final quarter, driving across from the one. Alabama's End Al Lary missed his conversion attempt.

The statistics pretty much tell the story. Rebel ball carriers turned in 16 first downs to eight for their opponents, made 259 yards rushing to 30, and picked up an additional 171 yards through the air compared to 95 for the Blues.

Mixon with 99 yards on the ground and Cox with 106 yards passing led the south's ground gainers. Glorioso paced the Yankees in rushing with a net 21 yards and Flowers led in the air with 49.

Fumbles were costly to the north, too. The Yankees lost the ball four times that way.

The score by periods:

Blue	0	6	0	0—6
Gray	6	19	0	6—31

Blue scoring: touchdowns: Glorioso.

English Bulldog Patron Of Taxi

Springfield, O., Dec. 30.—(AP)—If "Grumpy," two-year-old English bulldog, acts a bit high-hatted toward his canine pals today, it's because he got a ride home in a taxicab.

Heres how it happened:

"Grumpy" wandered downtown yesterday afternoon, a bit more than one mile from the home of his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar rutroffs. Traffic patrolman Norman Donovan found "Grumpy" on a busy corner, located Mrs. Rutroffs through "Grumpys' dog tag.

"Put him in a cab," said Mrs. Rutroffs, who was unable to leave the house.

Stone Will Try Again In Midnight Race In Streets

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Dec. 30—(AP)—Curtis Stone, former national A.A.U. cross-country champion of the United States, will make another bid Sunday night in Brazil's unique midnight cross-country run.

The former Penn State track star from Brooklyn, Pa., finished second last year—just seven tenths of a second behind Finland's Biljo Heino. The Finn isn't defending.

The race, covering approximately five miles, is run through the streets of Sao Paula.

Nineteen foreign track stars and more than 1,000 Brazilians will compete in the event, the 26th annual St. Sylvester cross country. The race will start one minute before midnight.

Outsize beds which have become popular lately are an old story. One made around 1580 measured 10 by 11 feet.

Ogden To Hold Hawsey Tourney

Winnsboro, La., Dec. 30.—(Special)—The Charles Hawsey Memorial Independent Basketball Tournament, sponsored by Ogden High school, will be held Friday and Saturday, January 19 and 20, according to an announcement made today by M. D. Peel, principal of the school.

The games, starting Friday night and continuing through Saturday, will be played in the Gym. of the Ogden High school which is located seven miles west of Winnsboro.

This is the fourth annual independent tournament to be held at Ogden and is sponsored this year by the high school in honor of the memory of Charles Hawsey, who was killed in action in the Korean war. Charles was an outstanding basketball player while in high school. He graduated from Ogden in 1945 and had participated in all the independent tournaments held there since then.

12 Boys teams and 6 Girls will take part in the tournament. First and second place trophies will be awarded in both the boys and girls division. A Charles Hawsey memorial trophy will be presented to the most outstanding player, (boy or girl).

Peel stated that the teams will be entered in the tournament in the order that he receives their entrance blank and three dollar entrance fee. If the quota is filled when he receives the request for entrance, the entrance fee will be returned. If any independent team wishes to enter the tournament and has not received an entrance blank, they should mail their request and fee to M. D. Peel, Ogden High school, Route 2, Winnsboro, Louisiana.

Holvak Jumped To Head Coach Spot At Boston

Boston, Dec. 30—(AP)—Mike Holovak, 1942 All-America fullback and Boston College freshman coach, Saturday night was promoted to head coach of Bocton College football.

Holovak succeeds Denny Myers who resigned in the last week of the season. The terms of the new coach's contract were not disclosed.

Holovak, a native of Lansford, Penn., has turned out undefeated teams in his two years as freshman coach under Myers. The 1950 B.C. team was polled for its preference on Myers' successor and voted for Holovak.

Holovak was Boston College fullback in 1940 under Coach Frank Leahy and the next two years under Coach Myers. In 1942, he was a unanimous choice for All-America fullback and set an all-time Orange Bowl individual ground-gaining record in his senior year.

During the war, Holovak served in the navy as a P.T. boat skipper in the Pacific. Later, he returned to become player-coach for the Melville, R.I., P.T. base football team.

Holovak also played with the Chicago Bears in the National Professional football League.

Boston College paid Myers about $12,000 in picking up his contract which was due to expire at the end of the 1951 season. This fall the Eagles' dismal showing consisted of a 7-7 tie with Wake Forest in the opener and then nine straight losses.

Holovak is very profootball-minded and once said that he learned more in a single pre-season practice period with the Chicago Bears than in his four years of college football.

The big fullback who was a standout on Frank Leahy's Boston College team which beat Tennessee, 19-13, in the Sugar Bowl Jan. 1, 1941, is likely to pick as assistants some other ex-Eagles who distinguished themselves in the play-for-pay ranks.

Indications are that his aides will include Gil Bouley and Fred Naumetz. Naumetz, great center of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, recently announced his retirement from the pro game. Bouley, who starred as a lineman with the Buffalo Bills of the N. F. L., was one of Holovak's teammates at B. C.

Bonaventure's Unbeaten Record Remains Intact

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 30.—(AP)—St. Bonaventures undefeated basketball team posted its sixth victory Saturday night, turning back western Kentucky 62 to 57. Cornell met Canisius in the companion contest of a memorial auditorium doubleheader.

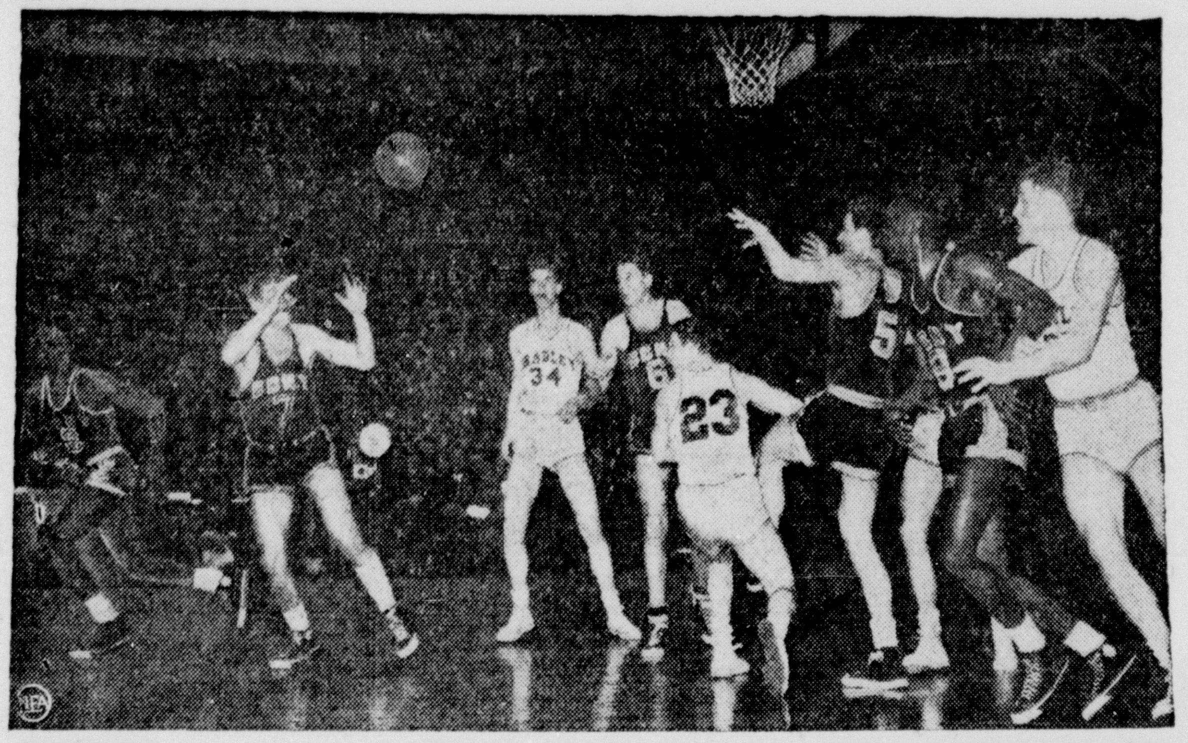
St. Bonaventure played a flashy game off the boards and managed to lock up Rip Gish and Frank Wallheiser, the Hilltoppers' big men, who were forced out on fouls. I twas western Kentucky's fourth reverse in 10 starts.

Captain Fred Diute of St. Bonaventure was high scorer with 18 points. Gene Rhodes scored western Kentucky's first nine points and had a total of 14.

Western Kentucky was ahead at halftime 29-28.

NEW OPPONENT

Brockton, Mass., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Rocco Francis Marchegiano, undefeated heavyweight who fights under the name of Rocky Marciano, was married Saturday to Barbara Mae Cousins in St. Colman's Church.



SWIFTEST—City College of New York won the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship and the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden with the fast break. Irwin Dambrot, 5, passed out to Al Roth, 7, as Ed Warner, 8, streaked up court. Ed Roman, 6, and Floyd Lane, 9, broke up court. Jim Kelly, 34; Gene Melchiorre, 23, and Aaron Preece, extreme right, Bradley Braves upset in each tournament, were unable to prevent the execution of this particular maneuver.

ROSE BOWL GAME MAY BE TOUGHEST

Golden Bears Still Three-Point Favorites Over Michigan

Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 30.—(AP)—California's big Golden Bears remain favored to defeat Michigan in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day and the contest, the 37th in the oldest bowl game of all, promises to be as close and bruising as any in the long series.

An estimated 100,000 fans are expected to cram into the famed old arena for the kick (5 p.m. Eastern Standard Time) and once again it will be the champion of the Pacific Coast Conference against the champion of the western, or Big Ten, loop in the fifth battle of their five-year Rose Bowl pact.

And for the fifth straight time the coast team will be gunning for victory; victory that has not been theirs since the coast embarked on the series with the hard hitting teams from the midwest.

It may seem strange that California is regarded as the favorite in view of the fact that twice the Bears from Berkeley have gone against the representative of the Big Ten and twice been beaten six points by Northwestern in 1949 and by three points a year ago by Ohio State.

That's what the smart money boys say, howeverCalifornia by three points, and maybe this time they'll be right.

The Bears, under the T-play guidance of Rotund Lynn O. (Pappy) Waldorf, himself a veteran of numerous campaigns in the Big Ten as coach at Northwestern, go against Michigan with a regular season record of nine straight wins and a 7-7 tie with their traditional foe, Stanford.

Michigan, with a record of five wins, three defeats and a tie, has the worst record of any of the previous Big Ten teams, but the Wolverines have a terrifically high mark of tradition to remember. The initial game in the tournament of Roses Series in 1902 saw a Michigan team under Fielding H. Yost trample Stanford, 49-0.

Michigan's next trip into the bowl was in 1948, and with the genius, showmanship or luck that could only be generated by the Michigan coach that year, Fritz Crisler, the Wolverines scored over the University of Southern California by the identical 49-0 margin.

This present Michigan squad, under old time Michigan playing star none of the spectacular magic off the single wing as displayed by the 1947 Crisler outfit. But the Oosterbaan boys were handicapped all season by injuries to key performers and the fact that they came through in astonishing fashion to win the Big Ten title in the guessing-game campaign is proof that there is no lack of spirit or familiar Michigan will to win.

The contest shapes up as a gruelling duel on the ground, with California's "fearsome threesome" backs given an edge in this department, and Michigan conceded the best of an air game, in which neither team has excelled as masters.

Offensively, the struggle probably will be waged by Michigan's three senior backs, led by the dangerous tailback, Chuck Ortmann and assisted by Wingback Leo Koceski and Fullback Don Dufek, against California's "fearsome threesome," Halfbacks Jim Monachino and Pete Scharbarum, both seniors, and the sensational sophomore, Fullback Johnny Olszewski.

Green's Ankle Injury Will Cost Oklahoma Second Man

New Orleans, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Merrill Green, Oklahoma's speedy right halfback, will not start the Sugar Bowl game against Kentucky Monday and his playing time, if any, will be limited.

Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson said Saturday Green's injured ankle is still sore. Green hurt his ankle four weeks ago against Oklahoma A. and M. Tommy Gray replaces Green in the starting lineup. Gray, a 157-pound senior, has played principally on defense.

Kentucky Rips From Behind To Defeat Syracuse Cagers

New Orleans, Dec. 30—(AP)—Kentucky, trailed for 22 minutes, then rallied in the second half to defeat Syracuse 69-59 Saturday night and win consolation honors in the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament.

St. Louis took the floor to meet Bradley, the nation's number two team, in the second game of the night to decide the Sugar Bowl basketball championship.

In the first half of the Kentucky-Syracuse game, it appeared that Kentucky, the nation's number one quintet going into this tourney, would go down to its second straight defeat in two nights.

Kentucky lost to St. Louis 43-42 in the opening round last night and Syracuse fell to Bradley 72-64.

Kentucky center Bill Spivey, who has a poor night against St. Louis, showed good form in hitting nine field goals and eight free throws for 26 points and high scoring honors.

The free shooting Syracuse five jumped into a 2-0 lead on free throws by Forward Stan Swanson. And at the end of 10 minutes of firing, Syracuse led the Kentuckians 22-14.

Kentucky began to find the range in the closing minutes and closed the gap to 39-35 at the halftime.

Coach Adolph Rupp's Kentucky five emerged from the dressing room and opened the second half with eight straight points while Syracuse was blanked. This is where Kentucky won the game.

Syracuse was led offensively by Guard Jack Kiley who tallied 19 points.

Court Decides Casey Is Father Of Year-Old Son

New York, Dec. 30—(AP)—Hugh Casey, former Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, was named by a three-judge court Friday as the father of brunette Hilda Weissman's year-old illegitimate son.

The special sessions court ordered Casey to pay the 25-year-old mother $20 a week for the child's support until Jan. 29, pending an investigation by the probation bureau.

Miss Weissman had accused Casey of being intimate with her in a Brooklyn hotel on Feb. 11 and 12, 1949. Casey's wife, Kathleen, testified her husband was with her in Atlanta on those dates.

New York, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The Giants, following the 1950 trend that began as soon as "positively" was eliminated from the March 1 starting date for spring training, plan to work out their pitchers and catchers at Sanford, Fla., for about ten days before the other players report. . . .The way Eddie Brannick puts it is: "You can't give pitchers and catchers too much work—especially when the time comes to start throwing those curves. . . . Eddie also tabs shortstop Al Dark, a serious, studious gent, as "the kind of fellow you might expect to find working as backfield coach for Earl Blaik. He always wants to be accomplishing something." . . . Acommittee of Carolina golfers, headed by Dugan Aycock, is arranging a series of special events by which they hope to raise $10,000 to pay Skip Alexander's hospital and doctor bills. . . . The San Jose (Calif.) state basketball team has a player named Alan Talboy. He's 5-11.

Y-o-u-u-u Can't Do That!

When Pat Kennedy, the National Basketball Association's head official, had a bridge knocked out of his mouth (for the third time in his carreer) during a recent Syacuse-Baltimore game, it must have given someone a lot of satisfaction. . . traditionally, basketball players would like to knock a ref's teeth out. . . But it just reminded publicitor Haskell Cohen of a time when Pat was knocked completely unconscious during a Rochester-Indianapolis tussle. . . . The Olympians scored a doubtful goal and as Kennedy lay on the floor, owner-coach Les Harrison of the Rochester club knelt beside him and pleaded: "Before you die, Pat, please tell them that the basket didn't count."

Sixteen Bosses Too Many For One-Time 'Boy Wonder'

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Terry, one-time New York Giant "boy wonder," today said he had turned down an offer to manage the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Brooklyn offered me a deal," he said "and I told them I just wasn't interested. I'm satisfied exactly where I am. I am through with baseball—definitely."

Terry, visiting here from his Jacksonville, Fla., home, added: "Yep, I know they've been mentioning me for baseball commissioner with about a hundred others. But I wouldn't want 16 bosses. Just say, I'm out entirely."

Terry said the Brooklyn offer was made about a month ago. He formerly managed the Giants.

MCMILLIN WANTED BY KANSAS STATE

Athletic Spokesman Says Eight Men Considered For Job

Manhattan, Kas., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Kansas State College is "strongly interested" in A. N. "Bo" McMillin as a possible director of athletics at the college, a spokesman for the athletic council said Saturday.

However, no one has been offered the job of either athletic director or head football coach and the screening committee for the council still is interviewing candidates for both posts, the spokesman emphasized.

McMillin, former football coach at Kansas State, recently resigned as coach of the Detroit Lions professional team. He is expected to be in Manhattan next week to discuss the director's post with the committee, the spokesman said.

"If McMillin is available and if he is interested in the job then we will be strongly interested in him," the spokesman said. "At least six other men are being considered for the director's job. Two are on the west coast, two on the east coast, and two are from the school's immediate vicinity."

Eric Tebow, athletic council chairman, was not in Manhattan Saturday and the statement on McMillin was made by an authoritative spokesman who asked that his name not be used.

Tebow said Thursday the council hoped to have a director hired by the time he and Prof. Earle Davis, council member, attend the National Collegiate Athletic Association meeting in Dallas, Jan. 8.

At least eight persons have been or will be interviewed for the coaching position by the time the Dallas meeting ends, the spokesman said.

He identified them as John Kovatch, an assistant coach at Northwestern University; Gomer Jones, line coach at Oklahoma; Volney Ashford, head coach at Missouri Valley College; Bowden Wyatt, Wyoming coach; Ed Doherty, who has resigned as head coach at Arizona State of Tempe; Sid Gillman, head coach at Cincinnati University; Bob Bronzon, head coach at San Jose (Calif.) State, and Shelby C. Calhoun, assistant coach of the New York Yankee pro team.

The spokesman declared that the college is not trying to keep its choice for either job a secret. "As soon as we hire a man for one of the posts, we will release the information," he said.

McMillin was one of the first the council turned to for advice, and most of the contacts with McMillin have been for recommendations, he added.

McMillin was in Montgomery, Ala., Saturday for the annual Blue-Gray football game. Asked about reports he would take the Kansas State job, McMillin replied:

"I'm sorry I can't confirm it. Somebody is doing a little guessing."

Wichita Falls Tramples Austin For 'AA' Crown

Dallas, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Wichita Fall smothered Austin, 34-13, Saturday to win for the second straight year the class AA high school football championship.

Ed Beach, a terrific halfback, powered the Coyotes to a repeat performance of their victory over Austin in 1949. But this time the score was a far cry from 14-13.

Three quick Wichita Falls touchdowns in the final quarter turned the game into a riot after the two ponderous clubs had battled to a 6-6 tie at the half. A third quarter touchdown had given Wichita Falls the advantage.

Beach tossed a 13-yard touchdown pass to James Self for the first Coyote tally in the final quarter, and seconds later he snared Oliver Bradshaw's pass and romped 55 yards for a touchdown.

Austin got one score right back when Morris N lson shot a 39-yard pass to Jackie Ludwick to complete a three-play, 48-yard march.

But on the first play after the kickoff, Beach burst through left tackle and ran 76 yards down the sidelines for the touchdown that really wrote finis to Austin's hopes.

Wichita Falls thus became the first club since 1936—when Amarillo turned the trick—to win two state championships in a row.

Sugar Bowl Offers Big Supply Of Air Attacks, Charging Trickery

Game Appears To Be Strongest Yet Arranged For New Orleans

New Orleans, Dec. 30. — (AP) — With war flaming high in the Orient, the Oklahoma-Kentucky football game Monday may be the last of the between-wars era of the Sugar Bowl.

The game also may be the best ever played on the pin striped field between encircling, double-decked stands which hold a corps sized 82,437 fans.

The game appears to be the strongest arranged for 17 Sugar Bowls by the big money shoveling team selection committee.

Football fans like nothing so well as offense, sudden touchdowns, passing and long runs. Oklahoma and Kentucky can and have supplied all. That they will gain is practically everyone's prediction.

Both teams are backed with prestige and records in quantities. Oklahoma is the No. 1 team in American, winner of the O'Donnell memorial trophy, and winner of 31 games in a row—the longest all-victory steak in modern football. The Big Seven Conference championship looks pale compared with Oklahoma's other honors.

Kentucky, just a few seasons ago riding the rails of Southeastern Conference football, won 10 and lost only to Tennessee this year. The S. E. C. championship went to Kentucky, seventh best in college football, for the first time with Babe Parilli, Kentucky's magician-quarterback, setting a covey of passing records. Kentucky not only was one of the three highest scoring southeastern teams of all time, but also ranked second in the nation in total defense.

When the Oklahoma and Kentucky squads arrive by bus in New Orleans tomorrow morning from training camps in Biloxi, Miss., and Baton Rouge, La., it's likely they will be the last of their breed for years to come.

If sports during Korean wartime follow the same pattern they followed during World War II, then college football squads this time next year will be heavily manned by younger players, men rejected by military services and by men thinking more of war than of football.

Coach Bud Wilkinson will follow the same game eve training program this year he followed for Oklahoma's two connsecutive victorious Sugar Bowl appearances. The Oklahoma squad will be quartered at the Algiers naval base, away from the gaiety and noise of New Year's weekend New Orleans.

A short workout—mostly limbering, signal running and play sharpening—will be held on Loyola University's field.

Coach Bear Bryant brings his heavier, more pass conscience Kentucky squad direct into New Orleans to a big downtown hotel. Sunday will be a day of relaxation for those who can relax, and a day of church going for those who wish.

The favorite, despite a fair possibility of rain, are the fast Oklahomans. A touchdown is the margin, probably because Oklahoma has eminently shown the power siply to outscore every team on its schedule. Three teams this season had Oklahoma down and practically out late in their games. Each time Oklahoma, sensing its victory streak was about to be ended, came back in the final few plays to win again.

TWO PLAYS, 46 YARDS

College Park, Md. —(AP)— Bob Ward, Maryland's All-America guard with a penchant for smearing enemy runners and clearing the way for his running teammates, says his greatest thrill came when he carried the ball himself.

It happened in the last game of the season, when Maryland led Virginia Tech 63-7 and began using linemen in the backfield. Ward ran the ball twice and picked up 46 yards, giving him the best average of the game.

TAMPA HEARINGS ABRUPTLY STOP

Sessions End Amid Testimony Of Gambler Pay-Offs, Investigation Of Sheriff

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 30 —(AP)— Kefauver committee sessions here ended abruptly today in the midst of testimony of gambler pay-offs and scrutiny of a mysterious strongbox at Sheriff Hugh Culbreath's home.

A quick promise of a grand jury follow up — if warranted — came from Circuit Judge Henry C. Tillman. First he will study the two days of evidence, said the jduge. Then, if justified, he will ask Gov. Fuller Warren to send a special prosecutor to aid grand jurors in digging into allegations of gambling and corruption.

Sen. Lester C. Hunt (D-Wyo.), who held the hearing as a subcommittee of one, left spectators, participants and newsmen breathless by its abrupt end. Sheriff Culbreath had gone with a committee aide to tally the cash in his strongbox.

The aide, Ralph Mills, reported by telephone that he found $1,895 there—a small fraction of what the sheriff said it had held at times in the past.

Observers had expected another grilling of Culbreath. State Attorney J. Rex Farrior, Mayor Curtis Hixon and ex-Police Chief J. L. Eddings also were waiting to testify.

Eddings and Farrior were named by two final witnesses as recipients with Culbreath, referred to as "Cabeza De Melon," of payoffs by slain gambler kingpin Jimmy Velasco. The witnesses were Mario Lounders and Antonio Deschemps, Velasco's cousin.

Lounders said that before Velasco was cut down by assassins' bullets he drove his gambler cousin on pay-off rounds. Velasco told him, he testified, he paid Culbreath $1,000 a week, Eddings $250 and Farrior $500 to $2,000, "but not every week," in plain envelops.

The nickname "Cabeza De Melon" was brought in by Deschemps, a checker in Velasco Bolita gambling business. He translated it as "melonhead" and said it was used to designate the sheriff and his pay-off on weekly expense sheets. He said "R" was used for Farrior and "Ed" for Eddings.

Farrior and Eddings denied ever receiving anything for the gambler. The state attorney said he will demand an investigation.

MARKETS

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York, Dec. 30 —(AP)— Stocks—narrow, selective buying. Bonds—quiet, changes narrow. Cotton—(market closed)

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Dec. 30 —(AP)—Highly selective demand appeared in today's stock market.

Oils, textiles, and a couple of rails and low-priced issues attracted a good following.

The main body of the market moved along a narrow price route. gains and losses, most less than $1 a share, were thoroughly distributed.

The market appeared to be still under the dominant influence of the usual year end adjustments. News, for instance, that the government had banned the use of copper in over 300 non-essential civilian products was greeted with complete calm.

Occupants Of Burning House Warned By Pilot

Evansville, Ind., Dec. 30.—(AP)—An unidentified pilot apparently saved five persons from a burning farmhouse late today, and inadvertently caused a false report of a plane crash.

Mrs. Bert Powell and her four children heard a plane zoom low over their house. Mrs. Powell said she heard an object strike the roof, apparetly thrown out by the pilot to give the alarm.

Mrs. Powell rushed out of the house to find it in flames. She got the children out safely.

Meanwhile, neighbors saw the low-circling plane and the flames from the house. They jumped to conclusions and notified the Evansville airport that a plane had crashed.

The airport control tower said the pilot of a C-47 plane flying over the scene reported a big blaze with so much smoke he could not determine what caused it.

The airport sent men to the scene, two miles east of Elberfed in Warrick county, about 12 miles northeast of Evansville, before learning there was no crackup.

Four Theaters Sue Moviemakers

New Orleans, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Four independent theater operators are seeking $3,900,000 damages against major moviemakers and distributors claiming they are denied access to first class films until they are "milked" by big chain theaters.

The damage suit, filed in U. S. district court here yesterday, charged the group of picture companies of conspiring in restraint of trade.

Defendants named in the suit were Paramount Pictures, Inc., Paramount Film Distributing Corporation; Lowe's, Inc.; Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation of Texas; Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Inc.; RKO Radio Pictures, Inc.; RKO Distributing Corporation, Warner Brothers Pictures, Distributing Corporation; 20th Century Fox Film Corporation; 20th Century Fox Distributing Corporation; United Artists Corporation; Paramount - Richards Theater, Inc.; Paramount-Richards Enterprises, Inc.; Columbia Pictures Corporation; Columbia Pictures of Louisiana, Inc.; United Theaters, Inc., and E. V. Richards, theater tor.

The plaintiffs listed on the document were Mrs. Henry Lazarus, S and L Theaters, Inc., Jade Theaters, Inc., and Henry Lazarus Theaters, Inc.

No exhibitor, the suit charges, can successfully operate a first-class theater without getting Class A movies before they have been run in competing houses.

The plaintiffs said they operate five theaters here.

81ST CONGRESS

81ST CONGRESS NEARING FINALE

Final Hours Will Be Spent Trying To Prepare For War T'reat

Washington, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The 81st congress, born two years ago in high hopes of world peace, will spend its final hours in a feverish burst of preparation against the threat of global war.

The house has been called to a history-making session on New Year's day. There is no record of either house or senate ever having met before on that holiday.

The senate meets on Tuesday. Before the old congress dies and the new 82nd congress — elected last November — takes over at noon Wednesday, final action by both chambers is expected to send these measures to President Truman's desk:

1. A new $3,300,000,000 tax bill which would put a 77 per cent levy on excess profits of corporations.—The senate already has approved the compromise version of this measure. House action is expected to send it to the White House on New Year's day.

2. A master plan to protect civilians so far as possible, from atom bomb and germ warfare, if all-out war should come. This bill, a compromise measure, creates an independent civil defense administration to supervise a three-year $3,100,000,000 program. Final approval is not due until Tuesday in both house and senate.

3. An emergency defense appropriation bill, providing about $20,000,000,000. The two houses may not act finally on this measure until Tuesday.

Also pending is legislation in which President Truman seeks an expansion of his war powers.

This measure would give Mr. Truman power to revise, consolidate and expand executive agencies, and to renegotiate defense contracts which are made in a hurry in the rearmament drive.

What will happen to this bill is in doubt. There is little opposition to the contract renegotiation provision, but many members of senate and house are questioning the agency reshuffling features.

Another pending measure, already passed by the senate but previously blocked in the house, would revise the railway labor act to permit rail unions and their employes to include union shop clauses in their contracts. In a union shop employes must join the union. The fate of this bill is uncertain.

Cultural Influence Of U.S. In China Is Red Target

By Charles E. Whiting

London, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Red China announced tonight a program to wipe out American influence over all churches, schools, cultural and relief organizations in China.

The government proposes to give aid to these bodies in some cases and to absorb others into state enterprises.

The decision was taken yesterday at a meeting of the government administration council of the Chinese people's republic, a new China news agency broadcast from Peiping reported.

"American imperialism has been continuously seeking to use these organizations and bodies to carry out covertly reactionary propaganda and activities," Vice Premier Kuo Mo Jo charged in a report adopted by the council.

The policies outlined in the report set forth:

1. "The government should plan and assist people in such a way as to make American-subsidized cultural, educational and religious relief organizations and religious bodies completely self-sufficient.

2. "American-subsidized cultural, educational and medical organizations should, according to varying circumstances, be either taken over by government and transformed into state-owned enterprises, or be operated by private bodies as before but transformed into enterprises completely operated by the Chinese people. The government may give appropriate financial assistance to those which experience actual financial difficulties in the course of their transformation into enterprises completely operated by the Chinese.

3. "American-subsidized relief organizations should be completely taken over and run by the peoples relief administration of China."

4. "American-subsidized Chinese religious bodies should be brought under complete management of Chinese believers. The government should encourage their movement to become independent, self-sufficient and self-preaching (S. I. C)."

Kuo Mo Jo charged in his report that "apart from political, economic and armed aggression, American imperialism has, over a long period, placed special emphasis on the activities of its cultural aggression in China."

He said this policy was aided by the Kuomintang regime of Chiang Kai-Shek to the extent that in 1936 investments of American churches and relief organizations amounted to $41,900,000.

Since the Communist "liberation of China," said the deputy premier, the government has allowed these churches, schools and relief organizations temporarily to continue to receive American subsidies "hoping they would be aided by laws of government."

This has been made impossible by American propaganda and espionage activities, he added.

The government's decision was taken, the report said, "in order to eliminate American imperialist influence in our country, and to protect the right of independence of the Chinese people's cultural, educational and religious work; "and to check the American effort to use these organizations "as a means of engaging in reactionary activities."

Kuo Mo Jo's report was approved unanimously by the government administrative council, the dispatch said.

ALLEN PARISH MAN IS KILLED

Pitkin Man Charged With Murder After Neighbor Shot Twice

Oakdale, Dec. 30 —(AP)— A 37-year-old Allen parish man was slain in front of a bakery shop in Elizabeth, five miles west of here.

He was identified by Oakdale Marshall Arthur Ballard as Lewis Maricle of Pitkin.

Ballard said J. D. Willis, 29, also of Pitkin, fired two shots from a .38 calibre pistol into Maricle's chest, killing him instantly.

A charge of murder was filed against Willis after a coroner's inquest here at 3 p.m. today.

The verdict of the inquest was that "Lewis Maricle met death by bullet from .38 calibre Smith and Wesson pistol in the hands of J. D. Willis."

An autopsy showed the bullet caused hemorrhage in Maricle's chest by puncturing the left jugular vein leading to his heart.

Marshall Ballard said the fatal shooting was the aftermath of an argument concerning the killing of two hounds belonging to Willis on Christmas Eve night.

Willis was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Jack Sirman of Elizabeth who brought him to Ballard here. Ballard then transferred him to the Allen parish jail at Oberlin where he was being held tonight.

Non-Miltiary Expenses Will Be Higher In 1951 Budget

By Charles Molony

Washington, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Non-military costs of government—including outlays on public works—will be up, along with direct military costs, in the budget President Truman presents to the new congress about January 15.

Informed officials said today that is a certainty. With the budget still under draft, the precisise figures were less certain, but the following cost amounts were suggested as a good bet in round sums:

In current fiscal 1951, now half over, non-military costs will run to $25 billion plus in a total budget of some $48 to $50 billion.

In the forthcoming budget for fiscal 1952, which will begin next July 1, non-military costs will top $30 billion in a total budget of $72 to $75 billion—or more, if speedier military goods deliveries can be counted on.

Thus rising non-military costs will contribute to prospects that the federal government will overspend its income by more than $20 billion in 1952 unless congress levies heavier taxes or cuts down the president's spending proposals, or both.

Administration officials contend that increased non-military costs are inevitable—despite strenuous efforts to hold them to a minimum—largely because they represent the expenses of activities tied in with the defense effort in varying degrees.

But that isn't the only reason. Cited as other causes are(1) Higher prices and (2) Increased requirements for government services from an increased population and an expanded economy—a situation summed up by one official in these words:

"The government's non-defense job is in every way bigger than during the war."

Budget experts say the only way big-scale cuts in budgeted outlays could really be made would be to cut down the size of the government's "non-defense job"—which means congress would have to repeal laws which built up that job to its present super-size.

President Truman's budget will consist of a set of estimates on costs carrying out the job established by those laws plus some new jobs he'd like the government to undertake but congress will be on its own so far as repeal of cost-causing laws are concerned.

Officials told a reporter two new jobs the president will ask the congress to give the government—as he has done before, without success—are building the St. Lawrence seaway-power project and providing education-aid grants to states.

First year costs of those jobs would run above $300 million, practically all of it going to education grants, and the seaway-power project's costs would jump as construction gathered speed. But the president is represented as feeling both are of high importance in long-range defense plans.

Their connection with defense?

The St. Lawrence project's connection is more obvious. While it would take years to build to a power-producing stage, the power it furnished would be useful to defense production plants—if defense production were still going on.

Education-aid grants are related to defense explanations that officials put this way:

In the last war, and now, large numbers of draftees have been rejected for military service for illiteracy, and many semi-literates taken have had to be taught reading and writing by the armed services "before they could begin combat training."

It would be not only more efficient but more economical if the state school systems provided everyone with at least reading-and-writing training before he got a draft call, and federal aid-grants for state schools would help assure it.

Officials say new undertakings proposed by the president will be a comparatively minor part of the non-military costs he budgets, however, and much of his message will be devoted to explaining rising costs of activities launched under existing laws.

Administration men recognize that such an expansion is going to be vital when costs rise in the face of demands by business organizations, economy - insistent congressmen and others for cuts of up to $10 billion in "non-defense" spending.

The fact is, officials said, there are going to be substantial cuts in many non-military programs, but the cuts will be more than offset by increased costs elsewhere in the non-military field, because "needs of the defense program will compel us to expand many of the so-called non - defense programs."

The official budget has never classified anything as "defense costs except two items which are "military in the popular sense—direct military and stockpiling outlays. Even atomic bomb production has always been charged to "development of natural resources" rather than to defense.

Something difficult to explain will be the rising cost of public works — something suspected vaguely in the public mind of being "pork barrel" or "make work" spending that has more excuse in providing jobs in a depression than being carried on in an emergency.

Public works mostly mean the flood control and power projects handled as a civil function of the army engineers and the power and irrigation projects handled by the interior department's bureau of reclamation, undertakings that presently have a combined cost approximating $1 billion a year.

There already have been "cuts" in outlays for this purpose amounting to over $100 million and there will be more, yet overall costs are going up just the same.

RECORD 2 LYNCH VICTIMS IN '50

Georgia Negro, Alabama White Man Reported Victims Of Night-Riding

Tuskegee, Ala., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Two men—a Georgia Negro and an Alabama white man — were listed today by Tuskegee Institute as victims of night-riding lynch mobs in 1950.

This was one less than the Negro school recorded the previous year when three Negroes were classified as lynch victims, two in Georgia and one in Mississippi.

Tuskegee records show there wehe two U. S. lyching in 1948 one in 1947, six in 1946, and one in 1945.

In its annual report on mob violence, Tuskegee listed seven incidents in which it said intended lynch victims were saved. Four of the persons involved were Negroes; three were white men. Tuskegee said three of the incidents occurred in Alabama and one each in Michigan, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Charlie Hurst, 39-year-old Rolling store operator shot to death in front of his home near Pell City, Ala., last Feb. 22, was the white man listed as a lynch mob victim in 1950.

He was killed in an exchange of gunfire with an unmasked band that tried to drag him into an automobile. His 19-year old son was wounded but recovered.

Five men were indicted for Hurst's murder. One was convicted of manslaughter but has appealed the case, another was acquitted, and the trials of the other three have been postponed.

Three white men were convicted and sentenced to prison for the killing of Clinton Walker, Negro laborer, in Georgia whose death was listed as a lynching.

Walker's bullet - riddled body was found floating in a creek in Meriwether county Aug. 18. Sheriff Sutton Gill said investigators believed he was slain because he knew too much about illegal whisky operations.

Miss Betty Marynm Shaw And Woodson William Bassett Wed

First Methodist Church In Homer Scene Of Impressive Candlelight Ceremony

Cathedral tapers in branched candelabra cast a soft glow over tall baskets of white mums interspersed with fern, and archway entwined with garlands of ivy and double wedding bands, formed a nuptial setting for the marriage of Miss Betty Marynm Shaw of this city, daughter of Mrs. E. M. Shaw of Homer and Mr. Woodson William Bassett, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bassett, Sr., of Fayetteville, Arkansas

The Rev. Lumen Douglas officiated at the impressive double-ring ceremony which was solemnized Saturday, December 16, at eight o'clock in the evening at the First Methodist Church in Homer.

Prior to the exchange of vows, Mrs. Robert Kent rendered a program of nuptial music while the candles were being lighted by Stocker Fontelieu and Jim Reynolds. Mr. Garland Shell accompanied by Mrs. Kent sang, "Because", "I Love Thee" by Grieg, and "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches marked the beginning and end of the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. J. N. Shaw of Lafayette, was lovely in a gown of white brocaded satin, styled with a fitted bodice, flared skirt, and long tightly-fitted sleeves which tapered to graceful points over her hands. The bodice was fastened with self-covered satin buttons in front and the full skirt swept into a fan-shaped train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion fell from a Juliet cap of white lace, and she carried a white Bible, topped by bouquet of Fleur d'Amours from which fell a shower of satin ribbons and stephanctis.For something old the bride was wearing an antique cameo belonging to the groom's grandmother.

Matron of honor was Mrs. J. N. Shaw of Lafayette, sister-in-law of the bride, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Frank Breese, Jr., of Monroe and Miss Margery Collier of Homer. The attendants were wearing green satin gowns with bouffant skirts with an off the shoulder neckline. They were wearing matching Dutch bonnets trimmed in chartreuse ribbon, while their bouquets were of wine anthuriams tied with chartreuse velvet ribbon. Mr. Frank Breese, Jr., served the groom as best man, and ushers were Jim Reynolds, Stocker Fontelieu, Lon Heuer and Pete Linton, all of Monroe.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Shaw chose a gown of nile green crepe with shoulder corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother was wearing a black gown. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. H. I. Barber in Homer.

Guests were received by the bride and groom, and members of the wedding party.

In the dining room, the bride's table was centered with the three-tiered wedding confection embossed with pink rosebuds and flanked by white tapers. At one end of the table was the crystal punch bowl where lime punch was served by Miss Betty Endom. Also assisting in serving the wedding cake, mints and individual bridal cakes was Mrs. Stuart Deas. Miss Savannah Prejean presided at the bride's book.

For traveling the bride chose a suit of grey wool, styled with scalloped lapels and straight skirt. She was wearing a pink hat, blouse and gloves. Her other accessories were of navy blue. The bridal couple are now in their apartment at 1133 South Grand street in this city following a short wedding trip to Shreveport.

The bride is a graduate of Homer High School and Northwestern State College in Natchitoches where she was a member of Pi Kappa Sigma sorority. She was selected as Beauty Queen at Northwestern in 1948 and won the title of Miss Monroe-West Monroe in the beauty contest sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in this city. The groom graduated from Fayetteville High School in Fayetteville, Arkansas, where he was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and Delta Theta Phi law fraternity.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Edward and daughter, Elizabeth, of Monticello, Ark., and Mrs. Tracy Finn, Jr., of Dermot, Ark., both sisters of the groom; Mrs. W. W. Bassett, Sr., mother of the groom, Fayetteville, Ark.; Mrs. Tom Pearson, Fayetteville, Ark.; Mr. Ellet Laurence, and Mr. Malcolm Lawrence of Greenwood, Miss.; Mrs. Audrey Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frazier, Miss Barbara Hall, Miss Mary Jo Vernon, Miss Savannah Prejean, Dr. and Mrs. N. Klam, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Troy, Sr., and sons Nat and Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Dean McBride of Sterlington; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Preddy of Shreveport; Mrs. Stewart Deas and Daughters Billie and Bess of Arcadia, and Mrs. John Cowser and Dr. and Mrs. G. M. Town And Country Club Of Tallulah Has Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party for members of the Town and Country Club in Tallulah was held at the home of Mrs. Don Sevier with Mrs. B. D. Capshaw as co-hostess. In a setting of beautiful yuletide decorations an enjoyable program was presented under the leadership of Mrs. Bill Pippin consisting of "The Night Before Christmas" given by Nancy Marcus in a typical snowman costume and several appropriate numbers played by Mrs. Harold Smith on her accordian. As the concluding number Mrs. William F. Gandy gave a delightful rendition on "The Littlest Angel" by Charles Tazewell using several hand painted illustrations.

The group then enjoyed several appropriate games suggestive of the season and an exchange of gifts from the prettily illumined Christmas tree. Miss Robbye Jo McClanahan And Meredith Stanley Foster Wed

Impressive Double-Ring Ceremony In First Methodist Church Unites Couple

In an impressive double ring ceremony the marriage of Miss Robbye Jo McClanahan and Mr. Meredith Stanley Foster was solemnized Saturday, December 2nd, at 5 o'clock in the First Methodist Church. The ceremony was officiated by the Rev. R. M. Serex.

The altar of the church was flanked by white cathedral tapers burning from a myriad of candelabra and standards holding white gladiolas and fern.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McClanahan of Monroe and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Foster of Hico. Preceding the ceremony, the soloist, Mr. Doyle Dumas, sang "At Dawning", and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by the organ music rendered by Mrs. Dorothy Zeigler. The traditional wedding marches were used before and after the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a bridal gown of white satin featuring a sculptured bodice with a sweetheart neckline trimmed in seed pearls and a bouffant skirt ending in a sweeping train. A fingertip length veil of illusion fell from her fitted cap of pleated white satin. Around her neck she wore a string of tiny pearls, which was a gift from the groom. The bride carried a small white Bible topped with a white orchid and tube roses tied with delicate white satin streamers. The bride chose her sister, Miss Dolores McClanahan, as maid of honor, who wore an American beauty rose satin gown trimmed with matching lace and carried a bouquet of dark red and white carnations with green leaves surrounding them and tied with white satin ribbon. The bridesmaids, Miss Betty Sue Scott, Mrs. J. L. Newcomer, Jr., and Miss Nan Evans wore gowns of crystal blue satin and lace with fitted bodice and full skirts. Their headdresses were of plastic tube roses the identical color of their gowns. They carried bouquets of dark red carnations and green leaves tied with pink ribbons.

The flowergirl, Miss Beth Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Williamson and niece of the groom, wore a pink gown with small pink blossoms adorning her blond hair and carried a basket of pink carnations trimmed in pastel colors.

Mr. Bob Brasher, Mr. Penny Bryan, Mr. S. W. Williamson, Mr. Roy Holloway and Mr. J. L. Newcomer, Jr., served as ushers.

Mrs. R. H. McClanahan, mother of the bride, chose a model of navy blue taffeta with a corsage of pink rose buds. The groom's mother, Mrs. M. S. Foster, was wearing a gown of black ad she also wore a corsage of pink rose buds.

The reception was held in the Mirror Room of the Frances Hotel immediately following the ceremony. Very attractive arrangements of white gladiolas were placed in the reception suite where Mrs. R. H. McClanahan, Mrs. R. M. Foster, the bridal couple and members of the wedding party greeted the guests.

The bride's table was centered with the embossed double heart wedding confection. The crystal punch bowl was encircled with white blossoms and greenery used as the decorative theme. Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. S. W. Williamson, with Mrs. Louise Fleet and Miss Ellen Browne assisting in the serving courtesies.

The bridal couple left on their honeymoon immediately after the reception. The bride wore a navy blue suit with a white felt hat trimmed in white satin and matching gloves. Her other accessories were navy blue. The white orchid from her bridal bouquet completed her ensemble. Upon their return the couple will make their home in this city.

The bride attended Neville High School and Northeast Junior College. The bridegroom is presently attending Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston, Louisiana, where he is a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

We are hoping everyone had a Merry Christmas and our wish for the New Year is that Scouts may better live up to their promise of duty and helpfulness to God, their country, and other people.

The most exciting day in a new Brownie Scout's experience is the occasion when she makes her promise, receives her pin and becomes a real sure 'nuf Brownie. For fourteen new Brownies a mirror arranged with geenery on the living room floor at the home of Mrs. Lea Thompson became the fairy pool in which each girl saw her reflection, signifying that she was the Brownie who was to do secret good deeds. The girls sang the Brownie songs they have learned and enjoyed refreshments around a table decorated appropriately with Brownie figurines.

Mrs. Jimmie Wyatt is leader of this new troop, with Mrs. Vann Pratt and Mrs. Lea Thompson as assistants. Girls in the troop are: Carol Faye Bryan, Barbara Cannon, Virginia Lee Crouch, Linda Lee Jordan, Brenda Lyons, Linda May, Rita Rivette, Patricia Rogers, Judith Rushing, Dian Simmons, Lea Thompson, Linda Kay Truett, Sue Womack, Linda Lee Woods.

One of the troop parties we were especially interested in was the combination Christmas and birthday party of Troop 21, held in the new home of Carolyn Boyce. It was the troop's fourth birthday, having re-registered for its fifth year of Scouting. New leaders of the troop are Kiki Gatzoulas and Ninon Tanguis, while the troop committee is made up of Mrs. W. L. Wooley, Mrs. A. G. Adams, Mrs. A. E. Beasiey, Mrs. Jean Boyce.

Joint troop affairs are always nice. Troops 10 and 11 had their Christmas party at Skateland with everyone having a wonderful time. Both troops sponsored by Georgia Tucker P.-T. A., have recently re-registered for their third year of Scouting. Troop 10 has as new leaders, Mrs. Claude Simpson and Mrs. J. W. Young. These girls made Christmas gifts to surprise Mother and Dad and had lots of fun doing it.

Parties just for fun have been reported by Troop 29, new troop at Barkdull-Faulk School, Troops 39, 27, 16, 20, 43, 15, and no telling how many others.

Did you hear the Christmas carol record played by KNOE? The following Scouts are the ones who practiced faithfully for five sessions in order to take part: Neva Lyons, Martha Williams, Gwen John, Yvonne Huckabee, Linda Bickham, Patty Smith, Boofie Malone, Beverly Humphries, Peggy Holdiness, Barbara Luton, Sadie Matthews, Peggy Mullins, Jimmie Green, Claudine Dempsey, Janis Hilburn, Marie Nelson, Judy Pou, Betty Hines, Jeannie Thompson, Patsy Brown, Dianne Prestwood, Barbara Butler, Clay Fisher, Julie Ann Wooley, Elaine Williams, Margaret Varnado, Anne Adams, Jean Salley, Mildred White, Shirley Young, Virginia Salley, Peggy Perkins, Penny Prophit, Beverly Rushing, Rosemary White, Jane Blake, Jimmy Bell Elliott, Ingrid Peterson.

Most of these same girls, spic and span in their green uniforms, sang on the program for crippled children Thursday afternoon.

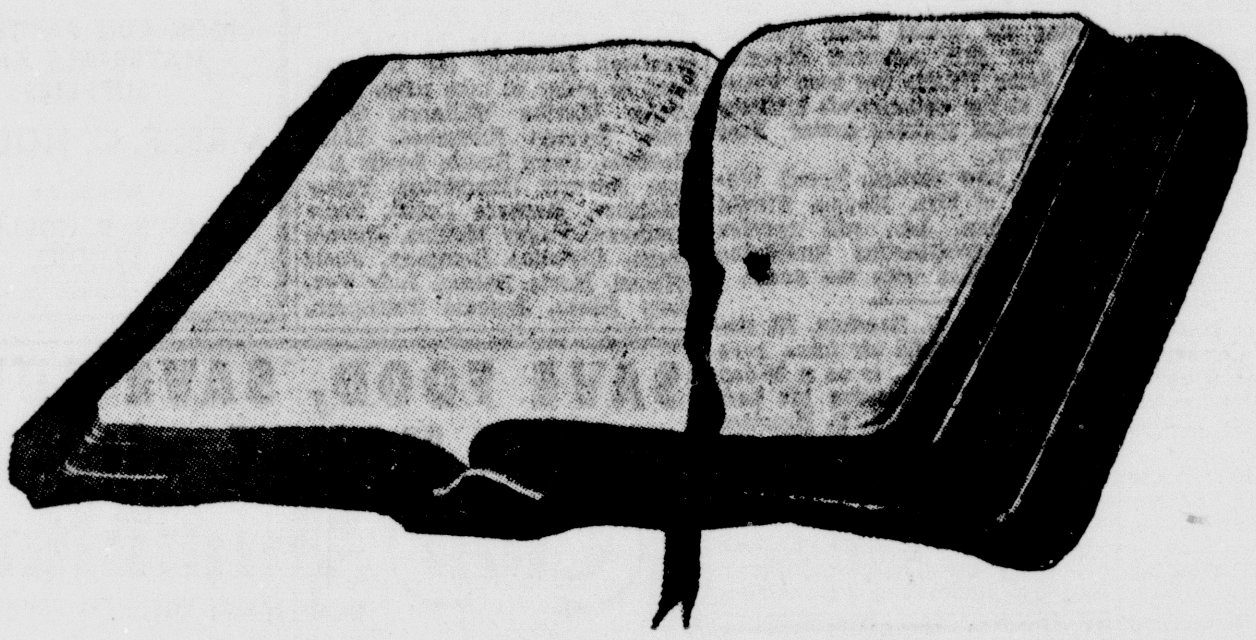
YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

The Churches of the Twin Cities Cordially Invite You to Attend Church Regularly Throughout the New Year



IT'S a great big dizzy world we live in with more wonderful things happening than any dreamer could possibly conjure in his adventurous mind. And then, too, there are many, many sad happenings . . . sometimes more than we think we can bear. But here in youthful, optimistic, smiling America we're sure that tomorrow will keep its promise of a bright, shiny new world. Let the bells ring out their welcome for 1951. Let us greet this new hope with sincere wishes for all of our friends and neighbors. Let this NEW YEAR bring the blessings of peace and security to our world. Let happiness and health rule in all our homes. Look to your Church to help you fulfill your responsibility calmly and well; to balance your sense of value so you can discard unimportant problems and solve the rest.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

On the last day of 1950 it is time to take stock of the things we have done and those we have left undone during the past year. Many of us have not read the books we planned to read and now is the time to organize our reading for the new year. Many people read purely as an escape and that is all right for in this troubled world there are many things from which people wish to escape. However, reading can be educational as well as a pleasure.

What do you know about the international situation and the Communist threat to our country? You will be much better informed if you read such books as "The God That Failed" by Richard Crossman; "Men Without Faces" by L. F. Budenez; "East of the Iron Curtain" by Vernon Bartlett; "Half of One World" by F. B. Hauley; "Why War Came in Korea" by Robert T. Oliver; "The Vital Center" by Albert M. Schlesinger, Jr.; and "Behind Closed Doors" by E. M. Acharias. It is our duty as American citizens to inform ourselves about the world situation.

People are turning more and more to books of religious inspiration and faith. If you have not read "Mr. Jones Meet the Master" by Peter Marshall, you have missed one of the most inspiring books of our time. Mr. Marshall was the pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church in Washington, D. C. and chaplain of the United States senate. This book is a collection of his sermons and is one that every man and woman in Ouachita parish would enjoy. "Here I Stand" by Roland Bainton is a new biography of Martin Luther. The life of this man who originated the Protestant reformation is of great interest. Dr. Bainton is a Medieval scholar and this book is extremely well done.

The library collection has recently been augmented by a number of new books of the devotional type. "Friends of God" by Bishop Costen J. Harrell of the Charlotte, N. C. district of the Methodist Church is an excellent spiritual guide. "Windows Toward God" by Charles H. Schmitz is another book of devotional material prepared by the pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Syracuse, New York. "The Way to Power and Poise" by E. Stanley Jones contains valuable information for young and old. "Modern Parables" by Fulton Oursler is a collection of true stories about real people. Each story brings out a moral and spiritual truth. "One Moment, Please" by James M. Keller is a book of devotional readings for each day in the year. Each day's reading consists of a short story, an anecdote, or meditation, a scripture passage and a sentence prayer.

Sunday school teachers as well as students should be interested in the "Snowden-Douglas Sunday School Lessons for 1950" and "The Teakwood Pulpit" by Alice Geer Kelsey, which is a collection of stories to be used in the junior department.

Books which give us counsel in our everyday life are always popular. "The Higher Happiness" by R. W. Bockman applies Christian teaching to the urgent needs of the day. "Create Your Own Tomorrow" by Margaret Blair Johnston is a most valuable guide to everyday living. Miss Johnston brings out the fact that we are making our tomorrows today. It is a book to make one stop and think and get on the right track. The library has many more books of the same type as the ones mentioned above and there is sure to be something to help each reader.

Biographies are a very popular class - the old, as well as some of the newer ones in the library collection. "The Love Letter of Mark Twain" edited by Dixon Wector has just been made public fifty years after his death. "John Adams and the American Revolution" by Catherine Drinker Bowen is a most scholarly and important contribution to American history. "John C. Calhoun" by M. L. Coit is another valuable contribution to an understanding of our past. "The Ben Lily Legend" by J. Frank Doble is of particular interest to this section of our country. Two humorous biographies are "Virginia Reel" by Virginia Gilbert and "Belles on Their Toes" by F. B. Gilbreath.

If you are not a user of the Ouachita Parish Public Library make a New Year's resolution to register at once. You will find its resources most helpful in any phase of your activities. The librarian and staff of the library wish all of you a happy New Year and hope that you will come to see us.

Delta Rho Delta Group Entertained At Christmas Party

Mrs. C. U. Johnson Entertains Women At Evening Party Held Recently

The spacious home of Dr. and Mrs. C. U. Johnson on Forsythe avenue was alight with color and holiday sparkle Monday evening when Mrs. C. U. Johnson entertained the Delta Rho Delta Sorority members in her home and brought them the traditional Christmas story.

The reception hall was festive in green and red decorations. Guests were invited into the reception room where holly branches filled with red berries and silver and red bells bormed a background for gleaming red tapers on the mantel, under which a cherry fire burned. Throughout the home garlands of greenery, berries and candlelight reflected the holiday motif, highlighted by a softly gleaming Yuletide tree in the living room. Huge red and green candles with frosted magnolia leaves, pine cones and colorful ornaments at their bases spotlighted the occasional tables throughout the rooms.

Mrs. Johnson brought a very beautiful Christmas story, entitled "The Drum Goes Dead," by Bess Streeter Aldrich. The story takes place in Bullfield, a small midwestern town, on Christmas eve at the home of the Lanning family. It is a heart warming story of how a real American family celebrates the anniversary of the Savior's birth and the real meaning of Christmas for them.

Following the Christmas story, several Christmas carols were rendered by the guests which included, "Silent Night," "Joy To The World," "Jingle Bells" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem," after which members told of some of their own happiest moments at Christmastime.

The guests were invited into the dining room, where the table was graced with the traditional holiday motif centered with candelabra holding graceful burning red tapers, and the buffet held matching candles and greenery. A spray of frosted magnolia leaves and snowballs also adorned the buffet. Mrs. Laura Johnson presided at the handsome silver service.

A variety of sweets, miniature fruit cake, assorted nuts and cheese sticks were served to the following: Miss Marguerite Kirkpatrick, Miss Juanita George, Mrs. Violet Butler, Mrs. W. J. Fields, Mrs. Cascille Golson, Miss Lillian Glenn, Miss Marjorie Ewing, Miss Teresa Thomisee, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, Miss Ann Mickel, Miss Bernice McCrary, Miss Mary Ann Ashford, Miss Freeda Mickel, Miss Mary Riser, Mrs. LeVerne Riddle, Mrs. Gladys Collins and Mrs. Johnson.

(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

Gen Douglas MacArthur was the man of the year for 1950.

The commander of United Nations forces in Korea, chief of the allied occupation of Japan and leader of all American troops in the western Pacific, was chosen by the editors of Associated Press newspapers in a poll for the outstanding newsmaker.

As one of the greatest military leaders of modern times, MacArthur won his designation after his "win-the-war" offensive in Korea had been reversed.

The men close to the news gave the general his rating over the following leaders in their specific fields:

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, in politics.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson in foreign affairs.

Walter Reuther, head of the C. I. O. United Auto Workers, in labor.

Charles E. Wilson, president of General Motors, in industry.

Drs. Edward C. Kendall and Philip S. Hench of the Mayo Clinic, in science.

William Faulkner, Nobel prize winning novelist, in literature.

The late Al Jolson in entertainment.

Mrs. Perle Mesta, minister to Luxembourg, as woman of the year.

The editors' nomination of MacArthur as top news personality of the year coincided with their vote on the Korean war as the biggest news event of 1950. From his command post in Tokyo and his spectacular background in leading the liberation of far east lands in World War II, MacArthur had been a logical choice for the direction of the Korean campaign.

The assignment was admittedly tough from the time the north Korean Reds invaded the republic south of the 38th parallel. MacArthur's leadership bolstered the morale of the defenders as they were driven back to a precarious beachhead. His genius turned the tide with the landing at Inchon. And his assurance inspired the United Nations forces in their drive toward the Manchurian border to rid the peninsula of Communistic imperialism.

When the hordes of Chinese Communists invade Korea to upset the balance, MacArthur called the turn by notifying the United Nations of an entirely "new war." Overwhelmingly outnumbered and not authorized to use atomic weapons, the general was obliged to direct a retreat.

Taft's victory over organized labor opposition was one of the year's surprises in the news. It underwrote his national standing as "Mr. Republican."

Secretary of State Acheson won his news laurels despite the controversy that has smoldered under foreign affairs throughout the year. Acheson was subjected to political fire in January because of his hands-off Formosa policy—later was reversed. He was attacked by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy on grounds that Communists has been harbored in the state department. His character references in favor of Alger Hiss, later convicted of perjury, aroused more criticism. And his name became a shiboleth in the November elections.

The five-year General Motors contract based on the gearing of wage-rises to the cost of living in an effort to insure peace between labor and management in the automobile industry won the editors' votes for Reuther in labor and Wilson in industry.

Medical miracles wrought by cortisone and ACTH, new wonder drugs, brought recognition to the Rochester, Minn., doctors—Kendall and Hench. The Nobel prize in medicine and physiology was awarded to them, while the Nobel prize in literature went to "Sanctuary's" author, Mississippi-born Faulkner and won him his place in the news many years after his heyday in literature.

Al Jolson's recognition was belated. His sudden death after a strenuous tour of the Korean war zone shocked the nation that loved his songs and comedies.

And crowning the achievements of women, Mrs. Perle Mesta's success as U. S. minister to Luxembourg, revealed the quality that had been hidden under the tinsel of her famous social functions in Washington. "Call Me Madam," the musical hit, was supposed to be Broadway's back hand tribute to her genius.

ALUMINUM PLANT PLANNED

Houston, Tex., Dec. 29.—(AP)—Kaiser Aluminum Company's proposed $70,000,000 gulf coast plant probably will be built in the Beaumont or Corpus Christi areas, the Houston Post revealed. Two other big aluminum producers — Reynolds Metals Company and Aluminum Corporation of America — were said to be planning industrial expansions on the gulf coast.

The Civil War was followed by inflation. Still steak only cost .15 a pound; ham, .18, a dozen eggs, .22; and a quart of milk, .08.

Korean War Tops All News Events Of 1950

By John L. Springer
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Mountainous little Korea, no more than a name to most Americans a year ago, became the hottest news spot on earth in 1950.

Editors of Associated Press newspapers, voting on outstanding events and personalities of the year, almost unanimously chose the Korean war as the No. 1 news story.

When Communist forces controlling the northern half of Korea invaded the southern half on June 25, it appeared that the United States and other United Nations could make only a minor military aggression. But the operation developed into a full-scale war, for the U. S. at least, and carried with it the germs of global conflict.

Other top stories, as chosen by the editors:

2.—China's entry into the war. Chinese Communists from Manchuria poured into Korea in November, when U. N. forces had routed the North Koreans. This changed the entire complexion of the struggle. In effect, said the U. N. commander, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, it meant the beginning of a new war.

3.—Attempted assassination of the president. Two gunmen of the Puerto Rican Nationalist movement tried, on Nov. 1, to shoot their way past Blair House guards and into the second flood bedroom where Harry S. Truman was taking his afternoon nap. One gunman was killed on the Blair House steps, the other was wounded. One guard gave his life protecting the president, two others were injured.

4.—Republican gains and the election of Taft. This year's election campaign was one of the bitterest in years. Republicans gained in both house and senate races, but the Democrats retained control of the lower house by 35 votes and of the upper chamber by only two. It appeared that southern Democrats would hold the balance of power. The most watched contest was in Ohio, where the Republican leader and candidate for the senate, Robert A. Taft, faced united labor union opposition. Taft scored a resounding victory, with a majority of 400,000 votes.

5.—The United States rearms. Demands of the Korean war—and threats of an even greater one—produced a sharp upturn in American defense expenditures. Soon after the Korean invasion, congress appropriated ten billion dollars and it was commonly understood that this was but a forerunner of far greater appropriations to come. Draft operations were speeded up, the navy took ships out of sotrage, and defense orders began to pile up on industries already working full-time to supply unprecedented civilian demands. The result was, in many cases, a cutback in civilian production and severe credit restrictions to try to keep down civilian consumption of important raw materials.

6.—Senator McCarthy's campaign against alleged Reds in government. The senator from Wisconsin made the state department his target. He charged that Communists and Communist-sympathizers exercised undue influence over its policies. His fight on the senate floor produced more than a month of exciting controversy.

7.—Trials of Alger Hiss and alleged spies. Persons accused of aiding Communist Russia had their days in court in 1950. Two of the most notable trials involved Alger Hiss and Judith Coplon. Hiss was convicted of lying when he denied passing on state department secrets to Whittaker Chambers, then a Communist courier, in 1938. Miss Coplon was convicted of attempted espionage, but on appeal a court said that she would have to be tried because the FBI used illegal methods in obtaining evidence against her.

8.—Truman orders the H-bomb. For weeks, leaders of American opinion debated whether the country should try to build the potential city-blasting hydrogen bomb. Agreeing with such spokesmen as Bernard Baruch and Eleanor Roosevelt, the president said the country's defense demanded that it keep its lead over Russia in atomic research. On Jan. 31 he ordered work on the bomb to begin. question whether technical obstacles could be overcome to make it a reality.

9.—"Mercy killing" trial of Dr. Hermann Sander. It was widely heralded as a test case for euthanasia (the killing by doctors of hopelessly incurable persons to put them out of their misery.) When Dr. Sander took the stand in a Manchester, N. H., courtroom to defend himself against charges that he had so killed Mrs. Abbie Borroto, however, euthanasia aspects of the case vanished. He said that the woman had died a natural death before he injected enough air into her veins to kill her. Believing his version, the jury acquitted him.

The U. N. meets — Fate of the five-year-old international organization was in the balance in 1950. It underwent the sorest test of its history with the Korean war, when it threw its prestige on the scales.

Big Tanks Are Easy To Drive

By Douglas Larsen

Fort Knox, Ky.—(NEA)—You can drive the newest of the big Patton tanks almost as easily as you can drive your own car.

I was given a chance to drive one of the 47½-ton monsters at the Army's Armored School at Fort Knox It was newly equipped with a steering wheel and automatic shifting, and once I found the gas pedal, it was as simple as starting out in a 1950 sedan.

Training tank drivers normally takes a little time. But the big cry from U. S. forces in Korea has been: Give us more tank men." So the armored experts began looking for ways to shorten the time it takes to learn to pilot a tank.

The standard method of driving has been with a "wobble stick" or with two levers, one to control the speed of each tread so you can change direction. There's a complicated gear shift, too. The transition from jeep to tank was about as confusing as changing from a bicycle to an airplane.

Now they're testing the big M-46 Pattons with a conventional steering wheel and hydromatic drive.

All you do is move a lever from neutral to forward, step on the gas, and off you rumble. To turn right, you turn the wheel right, just as if you were making a right turn on Main street in your own jalopy.

After I had my first spin as a tank driver, they let me climb inside the gunner's seat and fire the huge 90 mm. cannon.

When you stand within 100 feet of the tank outside as the cannon goes off, it's a lot more noisy and uncomfortable than when you're right inside pulling the trigger. Even though your ear rests on the loading breech as you aim and fire, the jolt and the noise are both mild.

Right now the Armored School is turning out tankmen in double time as a result of the word coming back from Korea

Just how many officers and enlisted men trained in all departments of tank and armored warfare are being turned out here every month is a secret. But the school's output has been more than doubled since Korea. And there are plans to double it again soon.

It was the trained tankmen rushed out from Ft. Knox who helped stop the Russian heavy tanks in Korea this summer. When they finally got into action with their Pattons, the Russian-made heavies didn't look quite so formidable as they did at the start, against the U. S. light tanks.

Basic armored tactics, according to the experts here, aren't much different for Korea from what has been taught at the school since World War II. But some of Korea's lessons have been incorporated into the courses For instance, the men are being taught use of tanks over rougher terrain And they are being taught to work in closer liaison with other ground units.

Officers who go through this armored school have already spent several years with regular infantry units. The enlisted men have had a couple of years with basic ground units before being admitted. The officer course is between 11 and eight weeks. Enlisted men learn maintenance, gunnery and other tank specialties in slightly less than that time.

Many National Guardsmen are learning tank warfare here. In spite of the fact that graduates of the school are almost sure to head for Korea, there is good morale among the officer and enlisted men students.

Despite all that has been said and written about the superiority of Russian tanks and Russian armored tactics, there's not a student in this school who believes it.

Jap's Birth Rate Booms

New York — American occupation methods are replacing Japan's fighting men, lost in the war, at the rate of about 300,000 a year.

This is the number of additional boy babies, above Japan's previous birth-rate, now coming along each year due to occupation policies.

The startling fact is that Japan's birth rate has jumped, since the war, from 1,000,000 a year to 1,660,000. The statistics are given by Population Bulletin, a publication of the population reference bureau, a scientific organization.

Occupation authorities are not directly trying to raise Japan's birth rate. The extra-rapid rates are indirect results, and from scientific point of view, also are inevitable.

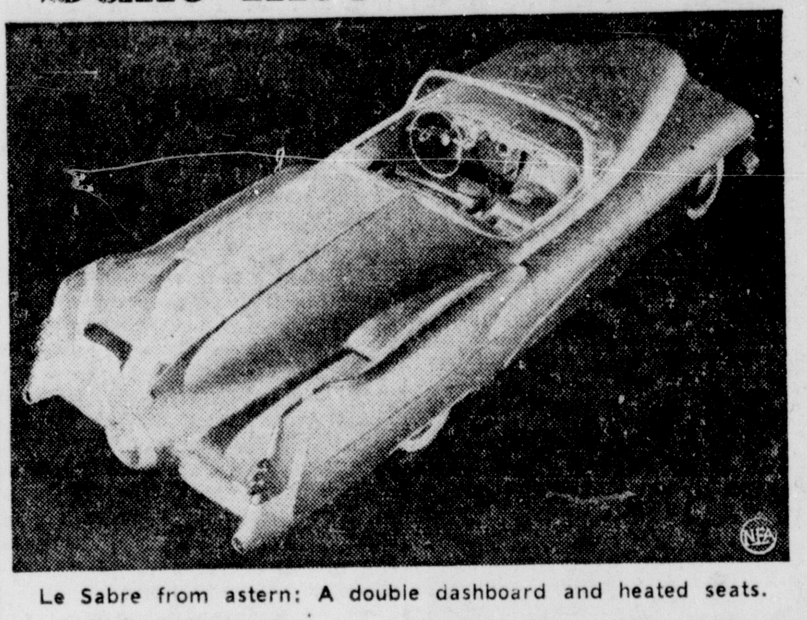
First, occupation has been raising the Japanese standard of living. That is nearly always accompanied by a rising birth rate. Second, occupation has cut Japan's death rate by better than half. Japan's death rate, moreover, was so high, 29.2 in 1940, that the reduction is a really great lifesaving. The present death rate is 11.4.

The Bulletin says that if the present birth rate continues Japan's population will double in 33 years. The Japanese already number 83,000,000, which is more than half the people of the United States, all in an area the size of Montana.

HEAT FROM ASHES

Many of Idaho's hot srings are not heated by chemicals within the waters as some hot springs are heated, but by hot ashes and lava in the volcanic areas beneath the surface.

Car Stylists' Dreams Built Into Le Sabre



Le Sabre from astern: A double dashboard and heated seats.

(By NEA Service)

Detroit, Mich.—(NEA)—If you want a hint about what your car will be like five or ten years from now, cast a longing look at Le Sabre.

The designers of the experimental car caution that it isn't "the car of the future," however. It merely is a model that includes a lot of gadgets and improvements that are being tested. If they work on the road, they may go into the standard models in years to come.

Le Sabre is the work of the styling section of General Motors. Back in 1938, they built an experimental model which included a lot of styling and mechanical innovations that are now built into all new cars.

That '38 job was the first American styled car with electrically-controlled convertible top and door windows, curved glass door windows, push-button door latches inside and out, a low vertical front grille, fender extensions over the doors and tail lamps recessed in the rear fenders.

"We didn't know in 1938," says Harley J. Earl, GM's vice-president in charge of styling, "what features of our first experimental car would be used—or abandoned—as we developed our styling since that time. By the same token, it is impossible to say now what innovations we are testing in Le Sabre may be used stylewise or mechanically in future production models."

But there are enough radical ideas built into the flashy low convertible to give engineers plenty to draw on in years to come.

Here are some things Le Sabre has that are brand new:

1. It is made partly from lightweight magnesium and aluminum alloys. Le Sabre's total weight is expected to be about 3000 pounds.

2. It has a dual fuel system, using both current premium fuels and methyl alcohol (Methanol) which is injected into the combustion chambers through the carburetor at a certain level of the speed range for extra power boost.

3. A special Dynaflow torque converter is housed near the rear of the stationary driveshaft, just ahead of the differential.

4. The rear brakes are located on either side of the differential, rather than on the wheels.

5. The top section of the front grille is part of the lighting system. When the front parking lights, at the outer edges of the fenders, are turned on, the grille revolves and a pair of close-set headlights swings into place.

6. Two sets of three tail lamps are mounted on the trailing edge of the rear fins. These operate as tail lamps and directional signals. At the base of the fins are the back-up lights. The jet-type tail comes to a point in a combination stop-light and rear bumper.

7. The tail fins are useful, as well as ornamental. They are like airplane wing tanks, and one carries gasoline while the other carries methyl alcohol.

8. The two instrument panels—one on the steering post and the other in the center of the dash beneath the crash roll—flash red warning signals when the fuel level, for example, needs watching. There are all the usual instruments, plus such new ones as a compass, altimeter, gauges registering engine oil temperature and pressure and the torque converter fluid level and temperature. All gauges are lighted, some by fluorescent tubes.

9. Hydraulic jacks on each wheel are operated from the instrument panel. If a tire blows out, the car can be jacked up from inside.

10. There are thermostatically-controlled electric seat warmers.

11. If the car is parked with the top down, rain falling on a sensitized spot between the seats automatically starts the mechanism that raises the top.

And there many other changes in styling, and innovations in mechanical operation in Le Sabre. As yet, only a full-size plaster model has been built, but GM expects to complete the custom-built car within two months.

Don't place your orders yet—it's just for the sake of experimenting.

These common door ailments have simple cures.

(By NEA Service)

Doors stick or bind; they get loose and rattle; or they warp. However, there are few door troubles that can't be fixed fairly quickly.

Slight sticking can be remedied by rubbing the tight surface with paraffin, soap or similar substances. However, when a door sticks all along the edge or does not close at all, it is usually best to remove the door and the hinges from its inner edge and plane that edge of the door rather than the lock edge. If very much is planed off, the butts will need to be remortised and set flush.

Sometimes a door sticks through the striking of the outer corners, as, for instance, when the outer bottom corner strikes the sill or the outer top corner strikes the top of the opening, behind the top hinge. The same effect can be obtained by setting one hinge deeper into the frame.

Sticking is also often the result of loose hinge screws. Once or twice a year it is wise to take the time to tighten these screws.

If a door shrinks, it may fit too loosely on the lock edge. To cure this, set the door over slightly by removing the hinge leaves from the doorjamb, putting a layer of cardboard under them and then replacing the hinge.

Occasionally, because of the settling of the house, the door frame may move slightly and carry the strike plate with it, while the door and lock remain fixed. This will cause the bolt to strike the plate instead of entering the hole in the plate and will make it difficult, if not impossible, to lock the door.

To remedy such a condition, first close the door slowly to determine whether the bolt strikes too high or too low on the plate. Then remove the screws, take off the plate and file the metal opening until it is large enough to accommodate the bolt.

If the bolt strikes squarely on the plate, so that it requires the filing of a possible quarter inch of metal, remove the strike plate and raise or lower it as necessary, chiseling out the mortise above or below the existing opening to set the plate flush.

Replace the plate in the new position so that the bolt will work back and forth freely. If old screw holes interfere, drive small plugs of wood into them before putting in the screws.

Moving the strike plate back from the outer edge will generally cure a rattling door. If the narrow strips (the stops) against which the door shuts can be taken off and relocated tight against the door, it will also stop the rattling.

Should a door warp so that either the top or bottom of the door edge strikes the frame and prevents closing, the only remedy is to remove the door, lay it flat on supports, and place weights on the high part. Within a few days this should straighten the door out and it can be rehung.

Comeback For Rosie The Riveter

By Cynthia Lowry
(Associated Press Newsfeatures)

Here we go again. We women are about to be transformed into man-power.

There's a national emergency, the most serious our young nation ever has faced. We're plunging into a period of all-out defense preparation which apparently is a race against time. We need high production, stringent economies, self-discipline and complete cooperation. All our national resources are being mobilized.

Already the stern eyes of business, government and the armed forces have turned—for the second time in a decade—on one huge, available reservoir of man-power. And that, of course, is woman-power.

There's some talk of a draft which would include women—and I've yet to hear any woman argue against it. It is an inescapable fact that before long women will be doing again and in greater numbers what they were doing in the crucial days of World War II.

Someone is going to think of a new name for World War II's Rosie the Riveter. But the women of the nation are going to be streaming into factories again in quantity before long. The armed services are looking for recruits for the women's arms of the military. And the volunteer jobs that only women can fill are opening up again.

Drums have started to beat. Already the women are being told specifically that they will be able to contribute as much as their men to the preparedness effort. They are being told that a woman in her own kitchen can be as helpful—well, almost anyway, as a soldier or a mechanic on a tank production line.

Most of us haven't forgotten what almost became a way of life only a few years back.

MOTH BALLS
ham

Do they want us to save fat again? That's easy—simply pouring a left-over tablespoonful of bacon grease into a handy tin can. We can almost remember the World War II figures about how many rounds of ammunition can be manufactured if every one of the figures will be revised, but the fat will be there.

It ought to be easier this time to control hoarding and to have us go without some things that aren't absolute necessities. After all, our memories are still green and although we fussed a lot, there wasn't much suffering on the home front.

We did a pretty good job of handling the volunteer jobs. We entertained the service men. We rounded up blood donors. We served endless hours in our civilian defense posts. All this we can pick up again pretty easily. A lot of us even remember our first aid instructions.

Plenty of us are ready to go back to jobs in factories. There are older women who would welcome a chance to do some useful work—paying or volunteer.

All in all, the women feel the emergency as much as the men do and are as eager and anxious as anyone else to make their own contribution.

No one, however, can blame us if occasionally we indulge in a small snicker. Particularly when we hear all the nice things people are going to be saying bout women and women-power. We'll be flattered and told what heroines we are and how much were needed.

We're heard all that before—AND THAT ISN'T what we need so much. What would be nice would be a primise that after the need for us has passed, business, government and the armed forces would shoo us back in our homes with a little more diplomacy. Bow us out of our emergency jobs next time, for goodness' sake, because most of us are only too happy to go, anyway.

Meanwhile, just tell us what you want us to do.

OLD CHURCH

"The Church of the Transfiguration," more popularly known as the "Little Church Around the Corner," in New York City, was built in 1848.

When you are serving potatoes on the half shell you'll find you need about a teaspoon of butter or margarine, a quarter teaspoon of salt and about two tablespoons of milk for each medium-sized potato. Bake the potatoes, then scoop out and mash with the above ingredients, heating the milk before adding.

"WYOMING MAIL" 2-A

Stephen McNally, cast in the role of a postal system undercover agent in Universal-International's Technicolor "Wyoming Mail," levels his gun at the warden, played by Ed Begley, as he has himself freed from prison after an inmate gives him valuable information concerning a gang of train robbers operating in the Wyoming area. Alexis Smith is co-starred with McNally in the colorful, action-packed film produced by Aubrey Schenck and directed by Reginald LeBorg.

'Wyoming Mail' Delivers Authentic Action Story

Universal - International's Technicolor "Wyoming Mail" vividly showcases an exciting era in the development of the American frontier—that period when the United States Railway Mail Service was seriously endangered by the threat of outlaw raider bands operating against the postal system.

The new film offering opens today at the Joy Theater, with a starring cast headed by Stephen McNally and Alexis Smith, supported by Howard DaSilva, Ed Begley, Dan Riss, Roy Roberts and Whit Bissell.

Brought to the screen by Aubrey Schenck, producer of such outstanding documentary hits as "T-Men" and "Raw Deal," "Wyoming Mail" follows those two films in the identical hard-punching, authentic manner.

The screen story is dramatically constructed around the career of General George Armstrong, referred to in histoy as "the father of the United States Railway Mail Service." Character actor Dan Riss portrays the role of Armstrong.

McNally, cast in the role of a barnstroming pugilist, is recruited by General Armstrong to work as an undercover agent for the railway mail service.

While tracking down the murderer of a telegraph operator, McNally makes the acquaintance of Alexis Smith, cast in the role of a frontier entertainer. Their friendship blossoms and when the undercover agent succeeds in becoming a member of the robbery gang, after a number of serious setbacks which almost claim his life, he is shocked to discover that the dance hall girl is actually a tcp member of the gang.

Suspense mounts in the film as Miss Smith is faced with the problem of having McNally done away with.

New Comedy Starts Today At Paramount Theater

Burt Lancaster, Dorothy McGuire and Edmund Gwenn form the lumnious trio of stars to be seen starting today at the Paramount Theatre in "Mister 880," Twentieth Century-Fox's poignant comery based on an article in The New Yorker.

Mister 880 of the title, played by Gwenn, is a roguish old party named for the number of his case on file with the United States Treasury Department. For in addition to being a lovable old scamp known to his neighborhood friends as "The Skipper," Mister 880 has his rascally side, too. To the T-Men, Mister 880 is a counterfeiter they have not been able to catch in ten years of probing. It takes a special government agent, played by Lancaster, and his romantic interest in the lovely Miss McGuire, a neighbor of Gwenn's, to find the trail that leads straight to Mister 880. The ending, it is reported, is not what you would expect.

Though "Mister 880" is designed for both hearty laughs and warm feeling, Twentieth Century-Fox has preserved a documentary air in filming the workings of the Treasury Department authentically. This Secret Service branch of the department is one of the least known to moviegoers. The studio has also left the facts revealed in the case of "Mister 880," as published in The New Yorker Magazine, unaltered. It was the unusual, human aspect of the story of an amiable, elderly counterfeiter who never made more than the few dollars he needed to barely exist on which first appealed to the film company.

Casting Edmund Gwenn in the title role affords the veteran character actor his most important screen assignment since the memorable "Miracle on 34th Street." An outstanding player in the movies as on the stage for many decades, Gwenn is still remembered for his triumphant performance in the all star revival of "The Three Sisters" in which his competition included no less than Katherine Cornell, Judith Anderson and Ruth Gordon in the title parts.

For the romantic leads, Dorothy McGuire and Burt Lancaster are happy choices. Miss McGuire, who recently returned to films after too long an absence, has always been a topflight comedienne, and Lancaster, on the crest of a wave of popularity perhaps unmatched in Hollywood today, wins an opportunity to change his melodramatic and swashbuckling pace in "Mister 880."

Millard Mitchell, redoubtable character actor of wide stage and screen appearance, heads the supporting cast. Mitchell plays a fellow T-man of Lancaster's. In "Twelve O'Clock High" and "The Gunfighter,' as an aide of Gregory Peck's, Mitchell scored lasting portrayals. Also in the cast are Minor Watson, Howard St, John, Hugh Sanders and James Millican.

Robert Riskin, long one of the screen's foremost scripters, did the scenario of "Mister 880 from the St. Clair McKelway article. Julian Blaustein, whose baptism as Hollywood producer divulged the greatness of "Broken Arrow," produced as his second assignment. Directing "Mister 880" was Edmund Goulding.

OPENS WEDNESDAY AT THE PARAMOUNT

John Payne and Maureen O'Hara co-star in Paramount's blazing action drama "Tripoli" which opens a four day engagement at the Paramount Theater Wednesday. Howard De Silva is also starred in the Technicolor film.

'Tripoli' Opens At The Paramount Wed.

When Motion Picture Director Will Price called "action" on the set of Paramount's outdoor adventure drama, "Tripoli," which opens Wednesday at the Paramount Theatre, he used the right word. For, according to preview reports, this Technicolor film is a high-powered thriller from the opening scene to the final fadeout.

Starring gorgeous Marueen O'-Hara, John Payne and Howard da Silva, "Tripoli," re-creates one of the exciting episodes in Marine corps history, the story of Lt. Presley O'Bannon. A fearless fighter, O'Bannon won a permanent niche in the leatherneck hall of a fame against the infamous Barbary pirates of Tripoli who were seeking to exact tribute from the United States.

In portraying the adventurous O'Bannon, John Payne has his fourth consecutive action role. Most recently he was seen as a Texas Ranger in "The Eagle and the Hawk," and prior to that as a hard-bitten sea skipper in "Captain China." Yet, not too long ago the versatile star was singing and dancing in musicals.

One of the most beautiful actresses in Hollywood, Maureen O'Hara, is teamed for the fourth time with Payne in "Tripoli," which probably is some sort of casting record. They were last seen together in "Miracle on 34th Street." Miss O'Hara had the unique distinction of being directed by her husband, Will Price, in "Tripoli," the first time the two ever pooled their talents on the same picture.

In order to get authentic backgrounds for the film, producers William Pine and William Thomas moved a troupe of 354 people to a location site near Palm Springs, Calif., where desert areas abound. A menagerie of horses, dogs, sheep, goats, camels, oxen and burros also was transported to the scene.

One of the most exciting episodes in "Tripoli," according to advance reports, is a spectacular sand and wind storm for which Mother Nature supplied the ingredients. Director Price had planned to simulate the storm with wind machines, but on the scheduled day the elements took a hand and gave ace cameramen James Wong Howe what he called the most thrilling scene he had ever filmed.

Philip Reed and Grant Withers head the featured cast of "Tripoli," which was written for the screen by Winston Miller.

Jimmie Fidler

In Hollywood

Hollywood, Dec. 30 — The past year has witnessed many changes in movie industry procedure, but none, in my opinion, more beneficial to everyone concerned than the new, widespread vogue for one-picture deals betwn stars and studios. Almost without exception, the old-fashioned "term" agreements, which made a player the exclusive property of one particular studio, and paid him, or her, a weekly salary, have been replaced, on their expiration, by contracts which obligate the player to make one or two pictures a year for the contracting sudio and leave him free to negotiate deals wherever else he may choose during the balance of the year.

The new practice is important to the theatre-goer because it is almost certain to improve the overall quality of movies. Studios, working under such a plan, can cast players to fit the stories selected for production, instead of fitting stories to their contract stars.

It's important to fans, also, because stars henceforth, will work for several studios each year, and the average theatre will be able to offer a great diversity of star names as attractions.

It's important to the stars because, by shopping for roles, they will have a better chance to avoid "turkeys," and because, appearing in pictures turned out by several studios, they will be seen in more theaters and by more fans.

And, finally, the studios will benefit, since they will escape the necessity of paying high-salaried stars weekly paychecks during periods of idleness.

Preview Nights. Pic of a lock-lustre week: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Pagan Love Song" (Esther Williams-Howard Keel). A lushly-produced filmusical with plenty of eye-and-ear appeal despite its tired story and listless pace. . . . Fair: RKO's "the Company She Keeps" (Lizabeth Scott-Jane Greer-Dennis O'Keefe). A believable, but not too exciting story about the problems of a feminine parolee. . . . RKO's "Hunt the Man Down" (Gig Young-Lynne Roberts-Mary Anderson). A mile-a-minute who-dunit with enough suspence to win applause from mystery fans. . . . Sub-Par: RKO's "Gambling House" (Victor Mature-Terry Moore-William Bendix). A poor gamble for an adult in search of an evening's good entertainment. . . . Looking West: Eagle-Lion's "Rogue River" (Rory Calhoun-Peter Graves). A story hardly worth telling filmed against a background so beautiful that it's well worth seeing. . . . Monogram's "Outlaw Gold." Johnny Mack Brown in a routine oater as uninspired as its title. . . . RKO's "Law of the Badlands." Tim Holt-a Texas Ranger, this time-delivers the usual heroics in a sub-par story. . . . Best Performance: Jane Greer in "The Company She Keeps."

One of Hollywood's several columnists who make it a rule never to mention anyone without prefacing the name with the adjective, "poor," is currently feeling sorry for the "poor" editor of a fan magazine who's stuck with a story about the happy reconciliation announced by Betty Hutton and Ted Briskin only a few weeks before their latest separation. I can imagine that the editor will be emparrassed as her magazine hits the newsstands, but I'm not going to waste time feeling sorry for her any more than I would for a gambler who bets on a horse race and loses. Most horse races are more predictable than the marital affairs of the Briskin family.

Speaking of Hollywood's marital wreckage, there's one sidelight on the collapse of the Robert Taylor-Barbara Stanwyck marriage that seems to have escaped reportorial attention. They were one of four couples who have been footprinted, as a Mr.-and-Mrs. team, in the forecourt of Grauman's Chinese Theatre. The other three were Douglass Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, Alice Faye and Tony, Martin, and Joan Blondell and Dick Powell. The imminent divorce of Barbara and Bob makes it unanimous; none of the marriag s honored in Sid Grauman's pet courtyard of fame have survived.

To all of you — and to all of yours—my best wishes for a Happy New Year.

Bob Thomas

In Movieland

Hollywood, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Making New Year's resolutions can be fun, especially if you make them for someone else.

I have taken the liberty of penning some proposed resolves for various figures in the entertainment world. They will no doubt get broken just like all resolutions, but you can't blame me for trying. Here they are:

Elizabeth Taylor—To ponder a long time before choosing her next guy.

Samuel Goldwyn—To stoy writing so many magazine articles and start making some pictures.

Shelley Winters — To stop feuding with her directors.

Bob Hope — To keep up his good work for men and women in the service, but take a vacation now and then.

Bing Crosby — To give one good interview.

Milton Berle — To drop "great" from his vocabulary.

Gloria Swanson — To find another good picture.

Clark Gable — To read his scripts more carefully before accepting them.

Errol Fylnn — To try to stay out of the newspapers for at least one week.

Joan Fontaine and Olivia de Haviland — To kiss and make up.

Deanna Durbin — To come home and make a movie.

Rita Hayworth — Ditto.

Clifton Webb — To play something besides Belvedere.

Orson Welles — To quit wasting his talents and do something worthwhile.

Jennifer Jones — To drop the Garbo act.

Garbo — To drop in at my office for a chat.

Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis — To make up their minds about marrying.

Judy Garland — To do her recuperating outside night clubs.

Myrna Loy and William Powell — To do a good flicker together.

Greer Garson — To not make another picture until she finds a sure-fire script.

Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall — To find another film as good as "To Have And Have Not".

Montgomery Clift — To do another picture before the fans forget.

Marlon Brando — To buy a new suit.

Gary Cooper — To let people know he can say something besides "Yep" and "Nope".

Happy New Year

Bible Comment

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The fact that a Sunday intervenes between Christmas Day and the beginning of the New Year is always of interest and significance. If everything in religion and history had worked out with the mathehad worked out with the mathematical exactness and certainty that many mater - of - fact people dote upon, there would be no intervening Sunday, nor two days to celebrate, for Christmas Day and New Year's Day would be the same day. This is obvious, for ostensibly we date our years from the birth of Christ, and it is that birth that we celebrate on Christmas Day.

It is a deep reminder to us, or ought to be, that the deep realities of religion and life are not bound up with exactness and mathematical certainty, but consist in essential truth and spiritual values.

To know the Christ, to feel the power of His love, and to love Him as He has loved us, has little to do with exact knowledge of the year, or day, in which He was born.

One might almost suppose that a wise Providence had left some things inexact so that all the emphasis might be on the deep important realities of spiritual truth and values. Yet, it is sad to realize how much these are neglected for relatively unimportant matters of uncertainty and speculation.

However this may be, there is value in that Sunday that intervenes between Christmas Day and New Year's Day. Here is time for reflection upon the great event celebrated at Christmas; sometimes, unfortunately, with more of pagan exuberance than of real joy and devotion in the coming of the Savior. It provides time for thought preparation of mind and heart as one enters upon a new year.

It is, of course, not actually a new year. The truly Christian life is a day-by-day-matter. Jesus emphasized this in the prayer He taught His disciples, "Give us this day our daily bread."

That prayer led the soul into great heights and depths, and sublime, far-off goals, "Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done in earth as it is done in heaven"; but it was evidently intended for a daily prayer, not only in quest of bread, but bringing all the supreme range of God's life toward God, into daily experience.

So, the New Year for the Christian takes its guidance and goal, its hopes and aspirations, its joys and enrichments, from the Christmas story of the coming of the Christ, and of all that the Gospel of His life, His teaching, His example, His guidance, and His divine leadership mean for mankind.

Far and wide the world has celebrated Christmas. What a world it would be, if that celebration meant an actual devotion to the Prince of Peace, dispelling the fears and distrust, the hatred and violence, by the power of the more abundant life! "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

To the many, who have written me recently, and to others who read this column, I offer sincere wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year—prosperous in all that pertains to life's best attainments and deepest satisfactions.

OUR CHILDREN

TAKING STOCK

It is a good idea for all of us, particularly children and adolescents who are starting out in life, to check up on ourselves every evening, asking, "What use have I made of this day? What useful thing have I done? Where did I fail?"

Talking to oneself is a good practice, for that is one person we can be perfectly honest with. We have no secrets from ourselves. True we have some spots in our days that we do not like to look at too long or too sharply and these are precisely the spots we should scan unrelentingly if we want to grow in grace as the days go by.

Talking the day's events over with a child helps, of course, but never so much as the child's talking to himself. Nobody ever truly discloses his inmost self to anyone else. I doubt that even the psychiatrist accomplishes fully that achievement. But the heart knows its own bitterness and its own joy and it can be relied on to speak truth to itself.

It is necessary to emphasize this self-examination for the active child who is thoughtless of the effect of his behavior on others as well as himself. He is so likely to gloss over any fault, to make the best possible picture of himself to himself. He is almost deaf to the admonitions of outsiders, but if he can be led to look at himself occasionally, to judge himself and to strive for a higher standing, he will grow in character and in spirit.

There are some children who are too conscious of themselves and too critical of their accomplishments and failures. They are not the ones who need self-examination and criticism. It is the thoughtless ones who need it and who do least of it.

Take the boy who boasts of his success on the field, but who seems to have no knowledge of his bad manners. Look at the girl who lavishes hours on her person but whose school marks are poor; whose relations with people are worse but who seems to hide these hard facts behind the appeal of her make-up. Take the one who does nothing beyond the bare routine but who struts boldly before the world, hiding behind effrontery.

A list of suggestive questions that teachers and youth leaders know how to compile would be a start in the right direction. Most children need some sort of checkup on themselves but don't know how to go about it. Help them. Self-knowledge is a powerful incentive to growth.

4-H CLUB HOLDS YEAR'S ELECTION

Elvis Stout Named President; Myrl Kilpatrick Gets Scholarship

The 4-H club meeting was held in the Ouachita Parish High School when officers were elected and Myrl Kilpatrick, a former member, who won a trip to Chicago in gardening and took first place there was awarded a $300 scholarship.

Officers elected were: President, Elvis Stout; vice-president, Jerry Parker; secretary, Benda Deas; council member, Billy Warren; reporter, Peggy Alexander.

Mrs. Audry Dawson, associated home demonstration agent, presented Gene Forduns, Beverly Aldridge, Doris Burnett and Willie May Burnett with awards from the United Gas for their entries in the state fair. Ethel Alexander placed second in the farm and home electrical contest and was presented with a table model radio.

Entry blanks were distributed for the 1951 farm and home electrical contest by Mrs. Eva Malone. She is a representative of the Louisiana Power and Light Company and has done outstanding work in the 4-H club in this connection.

"Rural Work Among Our Youth" was discussed by Robert Chikdress, 4-H club agent, who held a meeting for the boys of the 4-H club.

Hal Boyle's

Notebook

Yongdong, Korea—(AP)—A civil war is usually the bloodiest type of war at the front. Korea has been no exception.

The civil war traditionally is also accompanied by great suffering in the rear areas This, too, is true of the struggle for Korea.

One of the centers of great human misery is this railway junction southwest of Seoul. Its switchyards bear the same relation to Korea's north and southbound traffic as Chicago's do to east-west rail travel in the United States.

Today Yongdong's acres of tracks, worn boxcars and battered old steam locomotives are the focal point for the daily agony of thousands of helpless refugees. They are fleeing in panic before an enemy they have never seen—the Chinese Reds.

But they would rather endure every privation of cold and hunger, even death, within the perimeter of United Nations forces than to stay in their homes and risk being surrounded by this unseen new foe.

This is the greatest testament thus far by the Korean people to the Democratic principles behind the war. For among the most determined to go have been those who stayed in Seoul last summer and suffered through the Red Korean occupation.

They have no heart to change the possibility of this happening again.

If you could be here on this day between Christmas and the New Year and see the railway yards of Yongdong I think the sight would never leave your mind.

In an area perhaps 100 yards wide and half a mile or so long are crowded 15,000 to 20,000 frightened people. They want to get away from the danger of war, and they came here because they did not know a better way to get away.

There is a better way. There is a wartime black market in escape, just as there always is a black market in fine foods and liquor. But it takes money.

The best way is to buy a closed automobile and drive in comfort 300 miles south to the port of Pusan. But only the very wealthy can do that. The next best way is to rent a truck for the trip. You can load it with as many persons and bundles as the axles will bear.

In the past few weeks many a Korean family has stripped itself bare of belongings, selling them at a sacrifice on the black market to get the money to rent a truck on another black market.

But when an estimated 1,000,000 civilians are trying to leave a city of 1,500,000, there are hundreds of thousands who don't have the financial resources to get out in these ways.

What else can they do?

There is no extensive civilian passenger rail service south. But they can try to smuggle or buy their way aboard troop or government trains. They can beg kindhearted Americans to get them south on military trucks or other vehicles going that way. Some undoubtedly have procured rides that way, by paying a price. The black market reaches all nationalities in a wartime emergency.

For most of the population, however, there are only two hard choices: Go out and walk down the freezing road, or come here to Yongdong junction and clamber aboard a freight train.

The roads are a sad and bitter sight. Military police have to turn refugees off the main highways as much as possible, to keep these arterials clear. Otherwise the weary, stumbling people and brokendown oxcarts would clog the roads beyond use for fighting the war.

But this railway junction is the saddest sight of all. Here the misery is massed and concentrated. They climb over the trains in such numbers that the outlines of boxcars and flat cars.

They camp for days outside the yard, waiting to get in. Once inside they cannot be driven away

Commons Banning Foul Expressions

London, Dec. 30.—(AP)—You can smile all you want, pardner, but you can't call a man a cheat, a stool pigeon or a bastard in the house of commons any more.

And when a lawmaker, growling with rage, looks across the aisle at members of the opposition parties, he'll have to think twice before shouting "Not a damn one of you opposite."

For these four expressions have been banned on the floor of the commons, where some of the choicest selections of vituperation have been heard for centuries.

The new bans were disclosed in the latest edition of Sir Thomas Erskine May's "Treatise of the Law, Privileges, Proceedings and Usage of Parliament" This book governs the procedure and conduct in the house

For many years now parliamentarians have been gradually cutting out the blue words used in house debates to describe political enemies.

So far these expressions are among those declared verboten: "scurrilous," "dishonest," vicious and vulgar," "criminal," "corrupt," "insulting dog," "lie down, dog," "behaving like a jackass," and "swine."

Surviving Son's Removal Is Asked

Detroit, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Migala have asked the marine corps to remove their sole surviving son, Gabriel, 23, from the Korean battle area.

They made the request after receiving word that their other son, Jerome, 21, was killed in Korea Nov. 27. The brothers had fought side by side since going to Korea in the same marine company

"Gabriel is the sole surviving male to carry on the family name," the father said.

Jerome was killed while guarding a hill during the withdrawal into the Hungnam beachhead.

The parents had a letter yesterday from Gabriel. He wrote.

"I was close to Jerome but I did not get to see him since we were driven from the hill at night. I was not sure he was dead until three or four days later when our squad leader told me. He is buried somewhere in Yudamni, a martyr to the cause of God and against the forces of communism."

Gabriel added, "The officers have promised to fly me out, but I don't know when I can get back to the United States."

Report Given On Injured Couple

Mrs. W. W. Thompson, 412 Wood street, who with her husband was badly injured in a car wreck last Saturday near El Dorado, was reported to have sat up for the first time in her home yesterday. She suffered bruises and also from shock.

Her husband, now in the Missouri Pacific Hospital in Little Rock, Ark., is reported to have a fractured skull and is unable to move his head. He also has a badly fractured leg. However his general physical condition is satisfactory, and his recovery is evidently assured.

MARTIN GIVES FINAL REPORT

418 Sacks Of Food And Clothing Given By Good Fellows For Christmas

A final Good Fellows report is submitted by B. B. Martin, chairman of Good Fellows, which shows that 418 families each received baskets of food and clothing for Christmas. These were valued at $8.75 each which showed total expenditure of $3,657.

The letter by Mr. Martin containing the report is as follows:

Monroe, Louisiana
December 29, 1950

Mr. Wilson Ewing, publisher
Monroe-News Star-World
Monroe, La.

Dear Mr. Ewing:

Now that Christmas is over and we have wound up the Good Fellows project for this Christmas season, I wish to report to the public, who so graciously supplied the necessary funds to try and bring joy to less fortunate families.

We distributed 418 sacks of food and clothing to 418 families in West Monroe, Monroe, and Ouachita parish. The wholesale cost of each of these bags amounted to $8.75 each. Of course, some of them were more, and a few less, but the average was as stated above.

I, personally am very grateful to you and your organization for their great work in this project. I also wish to thank the city officials, both of West Monroe and Monroe for the distribution of these food bags and other assistance given us.

I also wish to again thank Mr. J. C. Liner and KMLB for their assistance with the Good Fellows fund, as well as again thanking Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hesketh for the good work they did in helping us do a good job for the underprivileged.

With kindest personal regards for a happy New Year, I am,

Yours very truly,
B. B. Martin, Chairman,
Good Fellows.

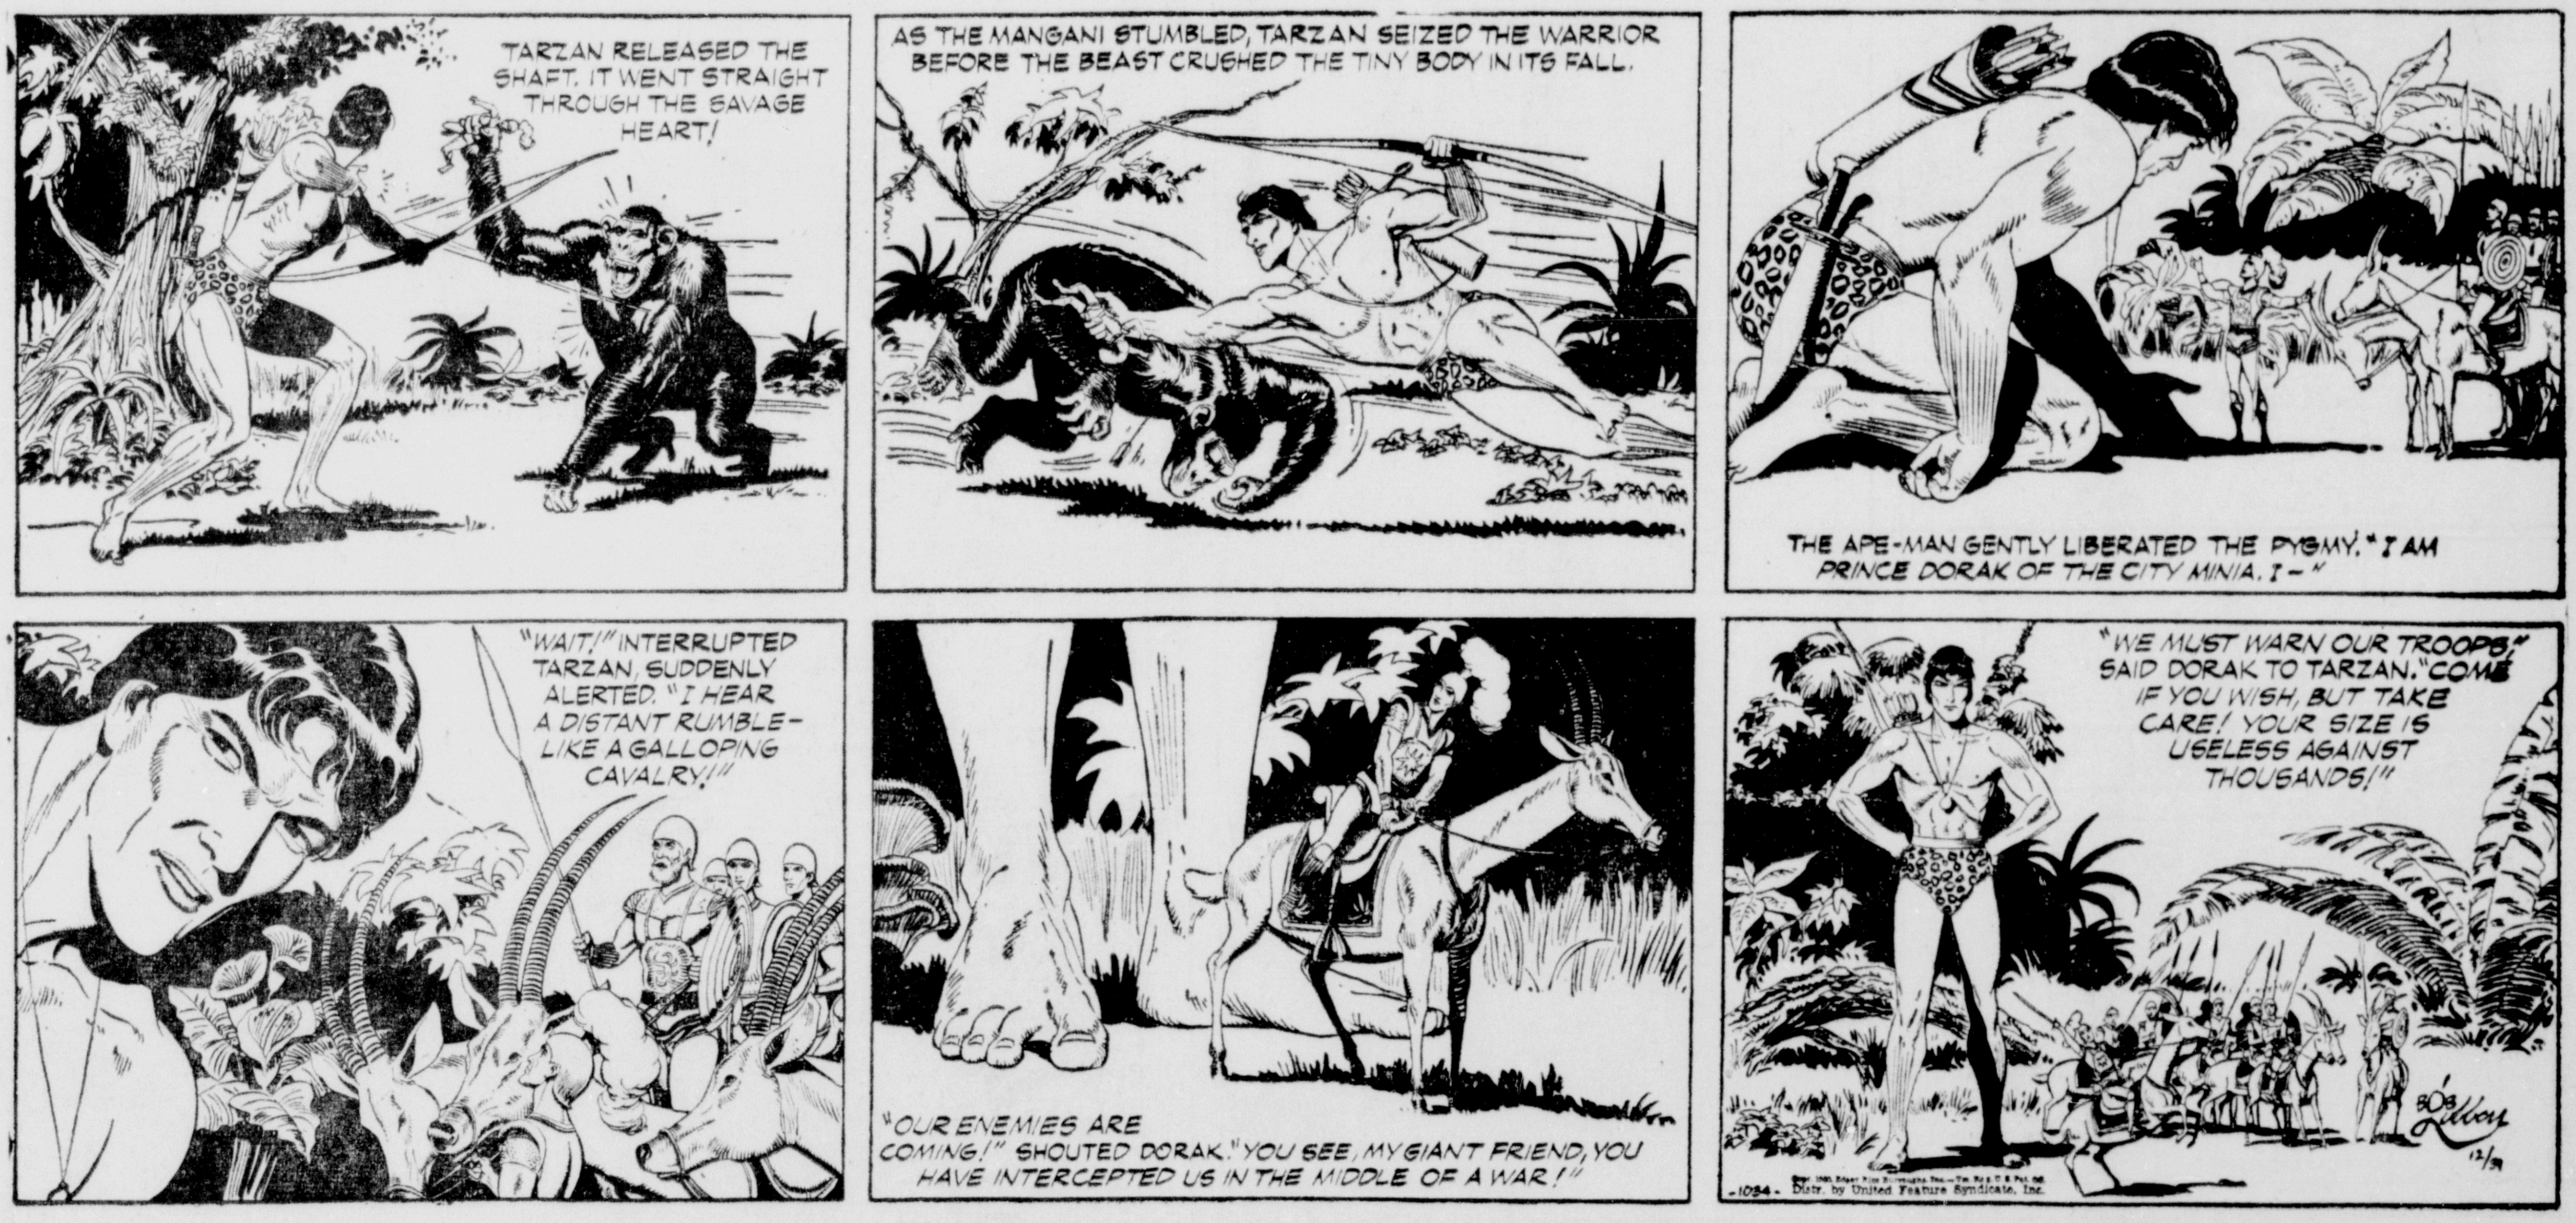
TARZAN

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS



TARZAN RELEASED THE SHAFT. IT WENT STRAIGHT THROUGH THE SAVAGE HEART!
AS THE MANGANI STUMBLED, TARZAN SEIZED THE WARRIOR BEFORE THE BEAST CRUSHED THE TINY BODY IN ITS FALL.
THE APE-MAN GENTLY LIBERATED THE PYGMY. "I AM PRINCE DORAK OF THE CITY MINIA. I –"
"WAIT!" INTERRUPTED TARZAN, SUDDENLY ALERTED. "I HEAR A DISTANT RUMBLE— LIKE A GALLOPING CAVALRY!"
"OUR ENEMIES ARE COMING!" SHOUTED DORAK. "YOU SEE, MY GIANT FRIEND, YOU HAVE INTERCEPTED US IN THE MIDDLE OF A WAR!"
"WE MUST WARN OUR TROOPS," SAID DORAK TO TARZAN. "COME IF YOU WISH, BUT TAKE CARE! YOUR SIZE IS USELESS AGAINST THOUSANDS!"

FOLKS CEL'BRATE NEW YEAR'S EVE! WHY? ARE THEY HAPPY THAT ANOTHER YEAR IS WOUND UP? OR JUST HOPING TH' NEXT ONE WILL BE BETTER? EITHER WAY, IT'S NICE TO BE HAPPY ONE NIGHT A YEAR!
